Stocks

NEW YORK — The stock market declined Tuesday with steel and railroads heading the reaction.

The retreat came on the heels of the collapse late Monday of negotiations to end the steel strike.

Losses in the two major divisions extended from fractions to between 1 and 2 points.

Volume came to an estimated 1,000,000 shares as compared with 1,270,000 shares Monday.

It was boosted substantially by movement of a huge block of 17,900 shares of Benguet Consolidated Mining, unchanged at 1 1/2.

GRAINS

CHICAGO — Soybeans and rye managed to hang onto some of their early gains Tuesday at the board of trade. Grains generally slid below the previous close in fairly steady selling toward the finish.

Wheat failed to make any progress during most of the session. The new crop contracts were under some hedging pressure, the result of heavy new crop arrivals at southwest points.

At the finish wheat was 1/4 to 1 cent lower than the previous close, July $2.32-32 1/2. Corn was 1/4 to 1/2 lower, July $1.84 1/2-84. Oats were unchanged to 1/4 lower, July 76 1/2-77. Rye was 1/4 higher to 1 1/4 lower. Soybeans were unchanged to 1 1/2 higher, July $3.26 1/4-1, and lard was 15 to 20 cents a hundred pounds lower, July $12.10.

Russ Veto Arms Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Russia Tuesday rejected a Western plan for voluntary ceilings on the armed forces of the big powers.

Soviet Delegate Jakob A. Malik told the U.N. Disarmament Commission the proposal of the United States, Britain and France was designed to prevent a real reduction of arms and to avoid prohibition of atomic weapons.

British End Russ Seige

BERLIN — British troops removed their barbed wire barricades from Russia's Radio Berlin headquarters early Tuesday, ending a dramatic seven-day siege which won several concessions from the Soviets.

The British said they lifted the blockade on the station inside their zone because it had served its purpose. Under its pressure, the Russians loosened their squeeze on West Berlin to the extent of yielding several border areas they had seized.

West Berliners were disappointed. The Communists made it clear they would claim a victory for themselves and not for the British.

Allied officials took the view the siege, if continued too long, might have boomeranged. They felt the Allied-occupied part of this Communist- surrounded city is too vulnerable to invite heavy reprisals for slight gain.

"We must show moderation as well as firmness so as not to bring down further difficulties on Berlin's head," one official commented.

The Communists still held West Berlin in a potential strangle grip that could be turned any time into a new blockade. Zonal borders between East and West Germany, and even street boundaries between East and West Berlin, have been turned into fortified frontiers like those between warring nations.

The Reds have cut all but four of Berlin's highway lines to the West. Allied military patrols still were barred from the single Allied road passageway through the Russian zone.

Irv Noren, recently obtained by the Yankees from Washington, hit safely in 11 of 14 games against the Yankees last year for a 345 batting mark.

Tempo Up In Korea War

SEOUL, Korea — Swelled force of United Nations and Chinese Red troops, clashed Tuesday in the fourth day of a sharp fight for an Allied-held strategic hill position on the uneasy Korean Western Front.

A U. S. Eighth Army briefing officer said "activity" has increased "all along the Western Front and that patrol actions are 'longer and more intense.'"

Fighting and shelling increased on the Central and Eastern Fronts, the officer said.

The Eighth Army said at least two companies of the U. N. troops—about 400 men—skirmished with Reds Tuesday in the friction spot area near Chorwon.

U. N. troops killed 40 and wounded 100 of 250 attacking Reds that tried vainly for 3 1/2 hours Monday to win back the hill they lost Saturday. It was the third and largest assault on the hill by the Reds in 24 hours.

No Comment On Big Catch

KNOXVILLE Tenn. — Butcher John Sherrard nearly keeled over Monday when Miss Emma Poff asked him to cut up a walleyed pike weighing 32 pounds, seven ounces.

She said she had pulled the monster from nearby Norris Lake last Saturday.

Sherrard explained to her that she probably had hooked the world's record walleye and urged her to save it and have it weighed officially for the record.

Miss Poff put the fish away in her home freezer and declined to discuss the matter further.

Council Action

yard to Sacred Heart, for the appraised price of $2,610, but the Recreation Committee is against it, for two principal reasons:

1. The price, say members of the committee, is too low.

2. Sale to Sacred Heart would cut the City's recreation program one field short at a time when the recreation program is expanding.

The Recreation Committee claims it has need for the field right now, even though it is in rundown condition, and feels that before the field is sold away by the City it at least should provide another plot, of similar size and value and centralized location for recreation.

Such plots are hard to find.

The price of $2,610 was established in 1949 by a realty appraisal board that has been pricing city-owned property for several years, and the Council has steadily followed the board's recommendations in selling property.

Only a few days ago that board reiterated its 1949 appraisal, saying the property still is worth $2,610.

But an appraisal made by the Klamath Board of Realtors set the value at $5,000. That appraisal was made for Rotary Club a few weeks ago. Rotary figures in because the club gave the city the property in the first place.

Members of the Recreation Committee voiced suspicions that the City's appraisal board price is too low, and that it does not take into consideration money that has been spent on the property in recent years, particularly the grandstand which cost $1,800 to construct seven years ago and is still usable.

Councilman Darrell Miller, who favors the sale to Sacred Heart, said he understood the appraisal was just on the land, not on improvements, and that since the City has been governing by its appraisal board's valuation of property for several years it could hardly turn the other way now because someone said a certain piece of property is worth more than the board's appraisal.

The prerogative of deciding what disposal will be made of Recreation Field remains with the Council. The Recreation Committee was assured its objections would be taken into consideration before anything final is done.

A resolution to rezone property around and including Recreation Field was adopted by the Council, and a public hearing on the rezoning is slated for July 7.

The property in question, extending from 8.5th to East Main along the west side of Owens now is Class II residential, but much of it—particularly in the vicinity of the old ball field—is city-owned.

The rezoning would make it Class IV industrial, opening up vacant property for use by light industries.

Sale of a good deal of that property is virtually assured if it is rezoned, Troy Cook, feed and implement dealer, has already offered to buy six lots for a warehouse site.

The rezoning would classify as

County CD Set For Test

The top echelon of the Klamath County Civil Defense program met yesterday in an organizational "get-ready" meeting for a trial test run in a simulated emergency some time next month.

Director Joe LaClair said all he knows is a test is to be held unexpectedly next month in Klamath Falls with state and federal Civil Defense officials making all decisions as to when, where and how.

Local defense measures have progressed to where communications are all but ready to operate, need only a place to install some equipment. That was taken care of during yesterday's session, held at the Winema hotel.

A need for volunteers in the aid and service division was reported by Personnel Dev. Director Guy Barker and Welfare and Aid Director Altha Urubart.

Volunteers have been asked to contact the local employment office.

All divisions indicated progress toward readiness, some to greater degrees than others.
