Tomorrow's Dressup (Continued from Page 1) all part of the Roundup fun and there is, of course, nothing compulsory to force anyone to be a Roundup booster. At the big Jamboree Ball, following the street Jamboree Dance, the night of June 28, special prizes will be awarded to the most authentically costumed man and woman. The dressup, street dance and Jamboree Ball are handled by the Klamath Merchants Association. The association also puts on the fireworks display. This spectacular show is scheduled for the night of July 3, immediately following that night's rodeo performance. The fireworks will be fired from the vicinity of the Geun's ball park so as to afford a good view from the Fairgrounds.

Motorist Steals Gas A "John Doe" warrant charging petty larceny has been sworn out here for a young man who got $5 worth of gasoline from the Clancy Canine service station, 9th and Dodge, this morning and drove away without paying for it. However, the warrant isn't much good. The motorist has already left the state. He was traced into California and the Highway Patrol there notified to keep an eye on him, although the misdemeanor warrant couldn't be served. Canine reported the young man, driving a 1936 Dodge coupe, got the gas and then evinced an interest in buying a tire. While the service station was getting out a tire, the young man drove away.

Machinery Contest Set Two local farm dealers will put up similar pieces of their own equipment in a test of strength tomorrow afternoon at 1 at the Ben Murphy farm, Merrill highway. Mac's Fram Equipment, a local Ferguson implement house, advertised in the Herald and News a challenge against other tractor dealers, matching its equipment in a group of best farm jobs. The challenge was accepted by OGW Farm Supply, which holds a franchise for Massey Harris equipment. So tomorrow it will be a Ferguson "30" trying against a Massey Harris "22", with each dealer supplying its own driver. The test is open to the public.

Crater Tourist Season Opens Tourist season officially opens at Crater Lake National Park — the summer tourist season, that is. Park rangers reported this morning the Crater Lake Lodge and cafeteria would open for the summer this Sunday, with the cafeteria operation starting at noon. Lodging applications will be accepted for Sunday night. There is still about 51 inches of snow at park headquarters, with two inches last night. Rangers said this was unusually high for this time of year, and perhaps one to two feet deeper than the same time last year. Tourist travel continued at a high rate this month, with increases of 11 per cent counted over the past two months from the same period last year. Road conditions are good from the south and west entrances, but the north and east entrances, and the Rim Drive, have not been opened yet and probably won't be until sometime in July.

War Powers Granted HST WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Friday adopted a House-passed resolution extending the President's war powers until June 30. Without this action, the Presidential emergency powers would have expired Sunday. Senate and House negotiators are working on a bill for a one-year extension of a limited number of the powers. Many single-celled animals which reproduce by division are virtually immortal because the substance of the parent individual is preserved over divisions to produce two individuals.

Truman Calls for Strong Plank On Civil Rights in Demo Platform

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman called Friday for swift adoption of an all-out civil rights program backed up by "the full force and power of the federal government." In probably the strongest statement on race relations he has ever made, Truman took sharp issue with the leave-it-to-the-states approach taken by some leading presidential candidates in both major parties. He declared in a speech prepared for commencement exercises at Howard University, a Negro institution. "I am not one of those who feel that we can leave these matters up to the states alone, or that we can rely solely on the efforts of men of good will. Our federal government must live up to the ideals professed in our declaration of independence and the duties imposed upon it by our constitution. The full force and power of the federal government must stand behind the protection of rights guaranteed by our federal constitution. Specifically, Truman called for adoption of the full civil rights program he laid before Congress in 1948 — including a Fair Employment Practices - Commission with power to enforce its decrees against job discrimination based on race, creed or color. This is the issue that brought about the Democrats in the 1948 national convention and election. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, seeking the Republican presidential nomination, at Abilene, Kas., last week stated his "unalterable support of fairness and equality among all types of American citizens." "I really believe we can do more by leadership in getting the states to do it than to make it a federal compulsory thing."

Sen Robert A. Taft of Ohio, now leading the delegate race for the GOP nomination, is on record as favoring a voluntary FEPC rather than a compulsory one. Of the candidates in Truman's own party, Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia is against a federal compulsory FEPC while Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee favors state action although he has said he would go along with whatever stand the national convention takes. The President recalled after World War I, "A wave of violence and Ku Kluxism swept over the country." Since then, he said, there has been great progress toward equal opportunity for minority groups. He said this has been achieved without any of the disorder or disruption predicted by "the prophets of doom." "Our country," Truman said, "is founded on the proposition that all men are created equal. This means that they should be equal before the law. They should enjoy political rights and they should have equal opportunities for education, employment and decent living conditions."
