

Hogan Takes Open Lead With Second 69 Round

Second Spot Held By Fazio

DALLAS, Tex. — The Hawk had his claws in another national open championship Saturday.

The Hawk — given the name by Jimmy Demaret because "once he gets his claws in, you never let up" — is wily, little Ben Hogan.

Hogan shot his second straight 69 Friday to equal the record of 138 for the first 36 holes of the open.

The field was reduced to the low men and few who shot 151 or better for 36 holes.

George Fazio of Clifton, N. J., was at even par 140 after matching Hogan's second round 69. Johnny Bulla, Pittsburgh, had 141. Bulla shot the tournament's second 68 Friday only to find himself in third place.

Husky Julius Boros of Southern Pines, N. C., the only comparatively young golfer to crash the ranks of the leaders, had his second 71 for 142 and three fortynine veterans were tied at 143. The were 44 year old Horton Smith the PGA president, Round Ed Oliver, and Lew Worsham of Oklahoma. Their scores so far: Worsham 72-71; Smith 70-73 and Oliver 71-72.

ROUGH STUFF — An unperturbed Ben Hogan blasts out of the rough.

1-Hitter Tossed At Seals

By The Associated Press

Hollywood missed a golden opportunity to gain a tie for the Pacific Coast League leadership Friday night by bowing to San Francisco, 1 to 0, but the kind of pitching it faced is the very kind that reduces the most potent hitters to mere swingers.

Bert Elmer (Smookey) Singleton, a native of Ogden, Utah, hurled his best game of the year—a one-hitter, and the victory-hungry Seals craved a 10-game losing streak. Hollywood's Mel Queen pitched creditably, allowing only five hits, but one of them was Will Hafey's fourth-inning homerun, and that was all that was necessary.

SLOWDOWN

San Diego, the Pacific Coast pace-setter for weeks, is showing signs of wear, and Lefty O'Doul's club dropped another Friday night to Sacramento, 6 to 2. The Padres made four errors and only two of Sacramento's runs were earned.

San Diego managed to hold its ground in a one-game lead over Hollywood.

Calvin Coolidge McIlish hurled a 3 to 0 win for Los Angeles over Oakland as the Angels squared the series at two games each. Leon Brinkopf, Angel third baseman, continued his home run streak, socking his third of the series, as he came out of a protracted batting slump. Brinkopf's blow, in the seventh, won the game.

THURSDAY

The game in Los Angeles produced the season's biggest rhubarb. Max West, Angel outfielder, was banished in the fourth for protesting a third strike, and in the sixth, pitcher Jack Powell chased eight other Angels, including Manager Hank Sawyer, when a bowl came sailing out of the Los Angeles dugout.

The Angel banishment was short of the team record, however, for in 1924 Manager Marty Krug and 10 Angels got the umpirical hook.

The Seattle-Portland game was rained out.

SPORTS

GUESS I TOLD HIM! — A somewhat pleased expression adorns the face of Umpire Bill McGowan as Marty Marion (lower left), newly named St. Louis Browns manager, starts despondently for the clubhouse. McGowan had just tossed Marty out of the Red Sox-Browns game in Boston after an eighth inning rhubarb. President Will Harbridge of the American League advised Marion "For your conduct in repeatedly and forcibly bumping Umpire McGowan you are under indefinite suspension pending an umpire's complete report."

Thinclads Set Four Records

BERKELEY, Calif. — Four new meet records were already in the books as an Olympic year crop of the nation's top collegiate track and field athletes went into the finals of the National Collegiate Athletic Association championships Saturday.

One other meet standard was equalled.

Yesterday's trials—

1. Gave positive evidence that the United States will send a potent Olympic team to Helsinki, Finland, for the international games next month, especially in the field event; and

2. Made the University of Southern California's role as favorite to win its 16th NCAA team title even more solid. It had nine men qualified for the finals.

The new record holders are George Roseme, University of California, 228 feet 3 3/4 inches in the javelin throw; Parry O'Brien, USC, 57 feet 5/8 inch in the shot put; George Shaw, Columbia, 49 feet 1 1/2 inches in the hop, step and jump; and Gilbert Borjesson, Brown 176 feet 4 3/4 inches in the hammer throw.

Albin Rauch of Princeton won his heat in the 400 meter hurdles in 52.4 seconds to equal the record set by George Walker of Illinois in 1948.

Seattle Man Top Shooter

RENO, Nev. — Nevada trapshooters are lucky that All America Arnold Riegger lives in Seattle.

Riegger, who has won virtually every major trapshooting award in the United States, shot the top score in the Nevada State doubles Championships Friday—but was ruled ineligible because of out-of-state residence.

The 31-year-old artist, in previous competition at the Nevada tournament this week, took the state title Class AA title and won the top award—the $4,000 Harold Smith challenge trophy.

In the doubles shoot, Duke Lindemann of Reno was declared the winner with 80x100. Riegger banged out 90x100.

The Class Two doubles title went to J. C. Whitey Shugart of Las Vegas, Nev., with 84x100. Shugart also captured the 100-target handicap at 21 yards, defeating A. D. Stanley of Boise, Idaho, in a shoot-off, 24x25 in 24 shots.

Top woman shooter Friday was Joyce Van Alstade of Newport, Wash., with 91x100.

Free Clinic

A free baseball clinic for youngsters and youths is to be offered at Recreation Park for five days starting Monday.

The free instruction, a City Recreation Department event, will be for boys 12 through 16 years of age.

The clinic will be held daily, 1 to 5 p.m., beginning Monday.

Jim Palmer and John McGinnis, assisted by American Legion men will teach the various diamond classes.

Deacon Nips Reporters

NW SPORTS FRAGMENTS BY JACK HEWINS

SEATTLE — Deacon Jack Hurley would be the first man to deny he has a hobby. (A hobby? he'd high eye-brow the question.)

With my hobby, it's up to his stimulus. Yet the doctor, which is a pastime as vicious and underhanded as gathering stamps or winding string. He collects sports writers.

He does it so patiently he collects. Hurley, his loot box is loaded with the by-lines of Red Smith, Bill Leiser, Jimmy Cannon, Frank Graham, Joe Williams and others from Ad to In Finitum.

How does the manager of Harry (I'm not a kid anymore) Matthews bring these Pearls of the Printed Page into his clutches? He hits them with a fistful of honesty and scoops them up while they're still stunned at this switch in managerial technique.

PETROLEE
Collector Hurley once managed Billy Petrolle to a $245,000 bank account, with which Petrolle happily retired, although he lacked a few dollars. Hurley's bank figures speak louder than titles, when preceded by dollar signs. The Deacon used Petrolle as bait to paste Joe Williams in his scrapbook.

"Can this burn of yours (careful there, Mr. Williams!) really light" queried the quarry, "is he as good as Petrolle?"

"Not," said Hurley, "by 80 percent."

No doubt it had been years and years since Williams heard a manager's name. He was a manager, hopeful as anything but the world's greatest. Joe walked all over his own corns rushing to his typewriter. He parlayed the honest Mr. Hurley into 600 words of two-column type in the New York World Telegram and Sun.

The deacon permitted Red Smith to discover that Hurley's "unpaid publicity staff" has included an assortment of United States senators, the Department of Justice, and the Federal and State courts. "Joining the staff himself, Smith produced several hundred words on the Hurley-Matthews team for the New York Herald Tribune.

COMPARISON
Frank Graham of the New York Journal-American drew a lengthy comparison of Hurley and Jack Kearns, who introduced Jack Dempsey to fame and income tax collectors and now pilots Joey Maxim. It was a highly complimentary piece, but Graham neglected a point.

"They're trying to get me to fight Maxim in New York for peanuts," the Deacon told him. Graham failed to note that peanuts are had for ulcers and that the Hurley stomach thrives on the lettuce that grows in Uncle Sam's mints.

Hurley often takes a verbal swing at the managerial business, "be-moaning the fate that led him into it."

"If I'd only become an insurance salesman," he says, "I could be living now on the renewals, without worries or ulcers." Once he told us he thought Harry would be his light lighter.

But it isn't likely he'll tear himself away from the fight game. Even now a young heavyweight is working out daily in a Seattle gym, learning the Hurley system of balance and leverage. He's Leo Lokovsek, who quit the University of Washington football team after a disagreement with Coach Howie O'Dell.

UNGLOVED
"I dunno, I dunno," said the Deacon when asked if he planned to campaign with Leo after Harry quits the game. "The boy's just beginning — hasn't even had a glove on (Leo won the University heavyweight title but has had no pro fights)."

"Maybe I'll let him get in a ring in September. It's best not to say too much about a young guy until you can find out if he has anything."

Texas Trips OSC, 10-1

OMAHA — Penn State and Missouri were the only undefeated teams Saturday as the NCAA baseball tournament entered the second round.

The leaders, each with a 2-0 mark, clash Saturday night (9:30 est.).

Proceeding that top attraction, Texas and Holy Cross were matched at 3:30 p.m. (est.) and Duke and Western Michigan at 7 p.m. (est.). Each of the trailing quartet has a 1-1 record and two are due for departure from the double elimination tournament.

Penn State turned in the top surprise Friday, whipping Duke, the tournament favorite 24 hours ago, 12-7, by out-slugging the Blue Devils at their own game. At the finish duke was a bit groggy and certainly a trifle off base.

Jackie Lonergan, a little Holy Cross southpaw who had pitched only 24 innings all season, lost a 1-0 heartbreaker to Missouri. Jackie didn't allow a hit for seven and one-third innings and the deciding run was unearned in the seventh. Junior Wren scored it from third on Shortstop Jack Cannon's error, his first in 83 changes.

Ralph Monroe's single in the eighth with one out was the only hit of Lonergan.

BEAVERS DROP
Texas and Western Michigan were afternoon winners. The Longhorns, the champion in 1949 and 1950, ripped Oregon State, 10-1, behind six-hit pitching of Dick Robertson. Oregon State's only score came on Danny Johnston's ninth inning home run.

Western Michigan, getting home runs from Al Nagel and Bud Bruck, scored for line run, dropped Colorado State, 8-6. The defeats knocked Oregon State and Colorado State from the championship hunt which will end Monday night unless a tie develops.

The 15,966 fans who saw the Iowa-Michigan State basketball game in Iowa City in the recently concluded season was the largest crowd to ever see a Spartan cage team in action.

Weiser Set for Semi On Championship Card

Ralph Weiser, great little Beatty battler, will meet Boise's up-and-coming Bobby Dahl in the semifinal to the Earl Turner-Dick Wolfe championship fight here next Friday night.

Promoter Mack Lillard thinks landing the Weiser-Dahl fight adds a great deal of luster to the title card. Weiser is one of the most popular fighters in these parts and Dahl has been attracting wide attention. The two lightweights will tangle in the feature of three six-round preliminaries.

Another of the six-rounders will continue the feud between Rudy Carlson and Darrell Harrington. Last time the two welters mixed, Carlson got the nod and Harrington has been clamoring for another chance.

The other six-rounder is yet undecided and there is also to be a four-round announced later.

Since Lillard announced signing of Turner and Wolfe for the title bout here, interest has steadily mounted. The fight will see Wolfe, Northwest welterweight champ, seeking to add Turner's Northwest middleweight title to his name.

It should be a topflight scrap. Lillard managed to land it for Klamath despite efforts of several other promoters to get the fight for their cities.

Despite the heavier-than-usual cost of bringing the championship bout here, Lillard is offering it at regular prices.

Tickets are on sale at Dick Reed's.

WI League Ups Waivers

YAKIMA — Directors of the Western International League have increased the baseball league's waiver price from $1,000 to $2,500 for all but rookies.

Frederick Merz Jr., president of the Yakima W.I. club, said the action was taken at Wednesday's meeting here to protect players from being shipped to lessees of lower classification.

The directors discussed amendment of the so-called rookie rule to allow more veteran players but decided to continue present regulations to the end of this season. Clubs now are permitted a maximum of nine players whose previous professional experience extends over three seasons.

Preliminary steps were taken toward drafting a 1953 schedule with a view to having a tentative slate ready to consider at the winter meeting.

Directors said George Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Leagues, would be invited to attend W.I. games at Spokane June 25 and Kennewick June 26. Trautman is scheduled to arrive at Portland the morning of June 25 for a northwest visit.
