

Arkansas Returns Klamath To Oregon

Klamath Falls is back in Oregon. Klamath folks and most of the world probably weren't aware that the city was ever anywhere else. But an error in the news columns of the Chicot Spectator, in Lake Village, Ark., had the town in California—along with California claim to Crater Lake found elsewhere.

The Arkansas newspaper well know it's error now. Its publisher, Lester W. Mansour, has a Klamath wooden box and the memory of good old Klamath Netted Gem potatoes.

Local potato man Troy Cook was commissioned by Klamath Chamber Mgr. Frank R. Tucker to supply three pointers, and Cook did so, gratis. He packed them up (see picture) and shipped them only as Klamath's Netted Gems should be shipped.

In return, Mansour apologized formally for his mistake, admitted Klamath Falls is in Oregon, and said:

potatoes—baked—to prove he knows Klamath Falls is in Oregon. Mansour says it was an error by a correspondent that displaced the town originally. The error was noted by E. E. McClendon, Oregon City, who wrote Mansour of the mistake. Mansour, on hearing McClendon's description of Klamath spuds, said he would admit Klamath Falls was in the state where

Faulty Map Withdrawn

SALEM (AP)—That Army railroad map with all the errors on it has been withdrawn. Lt. Gen. J. M. Swing, San Francisco, commanding the Sixth Army, advised U. S. Rep. Walter Norblad.

Norblad had pointed out to Swing that the civil defense railroad map of the Far West had most railroads in the wrong places, and didn't list several main routes. Gen. Swing answered Norblad that he had ordered the map be withdrawn before he heard from Norblad. The general explained the map "was informational only and not used for any planning."

Gen. Swing wrote that he got more comment about that defective map than all other aspects of the civil defense plan put together.

"Please be assured that the maps with which we do our planning are most accurate," the general concluded.

The letter from Gen. Swing was written June 9 to Norblad, who forwarded it to Salem Monday from Washington, D. C.

Ridgway Visits Rome

ROME (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway arrived in Rome Monday visiting for the first time as NATO commander an Italian capital seething with Communist opposition and bristling with armed force to control it.

Fifty thousand police with Tommy guns and troops with full field equipment patrolled the city to back up the government's firm warning there would be no repetition of the Paris riots which followed Ridgway's arrival there.

Forbidden mass meetings in the city's squares, the big Communist party screamed the Rome had been placed under a state of siege and Italy thrown open to foreign invasion.

The Red mouthpiece, L'Unita, greeted the first visit of the new Atlantic act commander with the headline:

"Get out of Italy, go home, foreigner."

The stern police precautions were intensified after officers early Monday grabbed two men carrying 18 pounds of high explosive and found thousands of anti-Ridgway leaflets in a Communist party branch office nearby.

TWO RELEASED

WENATCHEE (AP)—Wenatchee of the Western International League has released infielder pitcher Curt Schmidt and pitcher Don Tierney. Their places on the club's roster have been taken by pitchers Bill Siles and Tom Moore.

Malin Swamps Beatty, 18-1

Malin baseballers rolled over a luckless Beatty nine, 18-1, yesterday in a Klamath County Independent League tilt at Beatty.

Malin batsmen combed the offerings of two Beatty hurlers for 18 hits while Malin's Phil Anderson was whipping 11 and doling out a stingy six safeties.

Brown started on the mound for Beatty and gave way to Frost in the third.
