

Chiloquin

By DARLENE WOLFF
Lawrence Porter, 13 years old, from Sitka, Alaska, made the trip to Oregon by himself recently in order to spend the summer months with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Fredman Kirk and family.

This reporter is further convinced after last week that if you are married and desire a family and also want twins, you must have a better chance if you work at the Klamath Agency office. The first set of twins to be born in the last six years to an office worker there arrived last week when Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall became parents of both a girl and a boy. The youngsters were both good sized and reportedly are good babies, waking only each four hours for feedings. (Of course, it should also be noted that each is in a different four hour schedule, so sleeping at night for the parents is a bit complicated. The babies have two older sisters, Lorraine Marie, one year old and Valerie, six. These new arrivals have been named Lloyd and Louise.

Guests in town overnight late this week were Mr. and Mrs. Garret T. Kole and daughter Linda Jane, who is just 5 1/2 months old. Mrs. Kole is the former Dorothy Thomas. The Koles returned last fall after spending three years in Brazil. Kole left for Canada four months ago as foreman for a construction job and has come to the states now to move his wife and daughter north. They visited in Klamath Falls with her brother and family, the John Warren Thomas, and with the Frank Thomas, who drove over from Grants Pass for the occasion. From Chiloquin they go to Puyallup, Wash., to visit with the John Olsons (June Duval) and on to Vancouver, B. C. where they sail on Wednesday for the next 400 miles of their journey. Their camp is only a short distance inland from there.

Nina Buck is home again after making a trip to Arkansas with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. L. J. Buck of Tualatin, Oregon. Nina's sister, Eugene returned to Tualatin with her parents after the return from Arkansas. She had visited here with Mr. and Mrs. Forest Freid.
