Scenes Cut As O'Hara Outdoes Swordsman Flynn

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Exclusively Yours: Maureen O'Hara braver than Errol Flynn? Oh, no! Oh, yes! And that's the reason her derring-do in "Against All Flags" has become derring-don't on the cutting room floor at U.I.
 When the picture was assembled, it was discovered that Maureen was braver than co-star Errol in her leaps, tumbles and swordplay. Maureen's swashbuckling has been selected down to nothing and Errol's sighing with relief.

Inside on the spark that touched off Dorothy Arnold's fight to control Joe DiMaggio's visits with their nine-year-old son, Joe DiMaggio, Jr., Young Joe's habit of referring to Dorothy as "Maureen" around Dorothy as "The Doll." He picked it up from his pop.

Top Grades By Local Boy

James Robb Grover, former Altamont junior high school student and grandson of the late Mrs. Jennie Grover, recently was awarded the University of Washington's highest scholastic honor—the president's medal.
 Grover had the highest scholastic average of the class of 1952 at the university.
 Acting Pres. H. P. Everest presented the 23-year-old scholar the medal during commencement services last week at Seattle.
 Grover graduated from Sutherlin, Oregon, High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Grover. Mrs. Grover was a nurse here for many years, and Grover worked for Pelican Bay Lumber Co., before moving to Sutherlin in 1945. He was also an employee of Weyerhaeuser Timber Co. here.

Agency to Have Fire School

KLAMATH AGENCY—A fire school has been slated for July 1 and 2 here. Fire Control Officer Vic Sisson, Klamath Indian reservation, has announced.
 Anyone interested in the training is invited to attend. It will be held at the Agency headquarters.
 Dr. F. W. Wilder is to demonstrate the use of the rescuator from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. (DST) the first day of the two-day program. The breathing apparatus is available for emergency use for anyone at any time, Sisson said.
 The complete Indian Service forest lookout force will be manned following the completion of the school.

auditorium concerts with his band in the east this fall. Television, he says, "convinced him that people will sit and watch a band in action."
 Shelly Winters is screaming "No, no!" about reports that already a rift in her marriage to Vittorio Gassman.
 "Maybe," she said, "somebody heard me screaming in the car. He drives like all Europeans—60 miles an hour, scraping fenders all the way."
 Shelley's demanding re-negotiation of her contract at U.I. and says, "I won't work until something is done about it. They keep putting out stories that I'm making $1500 a week. I don't make that much. It's a lot less."
 Danny Thomas, who deserved it, was given a testimonial dinner by the Syrian-Lebanon-American community of Southern California. The humility with which he accepted all honors and speeches documented Bob Hope's description of him: "The Abe Lincoln of the comedians."
 George Jessel was in his best form as master of ceremonies. Introducing Sheriff Eugene Biscuit, he cracked: "The sheriff came here tonight without his horse, as you may have noticed while you were eating your roast beef."
 Hope apologized for the absence of Bing Crosby—"He couldn't get a baby sitter for the Bank of America"—and hailed Jessel as "the only man in the world who has a tuxedo that's been approved by Duncan Hines."
 Harry James will do a series of crow predicting he'll cop an Oscar nomination. The movie, by the way, will be billed as "a talking picture without dialog."

 Yul Brynner, who makes his first movie for Paramount next year, recently struck up a friendship with Prince Suksawat of Siam, the ac-

You can cut the tension on U.I.'s "The Great Comedians" set with a knife. Frank Westmore is the make-up man for the company and his almost-ex-wife, Fran Shore, is Diana Lynn's stand-in for the same film.
 There's a handsome major studio press agent in Joan Crawford's life, but for reasons best known to La Crawford, she's keeping the romance a secret.
 "The Grace Moore Story" is nearing the camera stage at Warner Brothers. All the necessary clearances have been made. Veteran movie director Frank Lloyd, who retired to Monterey, Calif., is returning to his megaphone following the death of his wife. Five-foot, four-inch Aram Katcher will be the menace (?) to the female six-footers in "Sky Girls," a science fiction thriller about women who try to conquer the planets.
 Ray Milland's starring role in "The Thief," a full-length feature movie in which he doesn't have a single line of dialog, has the film's
