

Corvallis Boys Hired Illegally

SALEM (AP) — State Labor Commissioner W. E. Kimsey ordered five boys out of a Corvallis bowling alley Wednesday night because they were hired illegally to set up the pins.

Kimsey charged the owner with hiring boys without a permit from the labor commissioner, with working boys after the 10:30 p.m. deadline provided by law, and underpaying the boys.

The boys are between 12 and 15 years old.

Corvallis juvenile officers noted the boys playing around a pool table in the establishment after the city's 10 p.m. curfew. The officers discovered the boys worked there, and called for Kimsey, who investigated personally.

Church Fund Drive Okayed

PORTLAND (AP) — A four-year campaign to raise $400,000 for new church buildings and other projects was approved Thursday by the Oregon Methodist Conference.

The figure was a compromise after an original proposal to set a goal of $522,000 for building, camp sites, Methodist work at colleges and universities and for the Women's Society of Christian Service.

An amendment was offered, cutting the amount to $378,000. The since the vote was so close the matter was reconsidered and the $400,000 figure set.

The Oregon campaign and similar drives in Washington and Northern Idaho, already approved, will be conducted at the same time.

No Horse Show At State Fair

SALEM (AP) — The State Fair Board announced Thursday that there won't be any horse show this year at the state fair, to be held Aug. 30 to Sept. 6.

The horse show has been held annually since 1922.

The state fire marshal condemned the horse show grandstand, and the commission decided it wasn't worth the money to fix it up in order to hold the show.
