New Roundup Event Proves Popular Success

A new event added to the Roundup program last year is apparently going to become a standout affair in future Roundup schedules.

Last year, Roundup queen candidates were taken on an all-day outing to the C. H. Johnson ranch in Northern California.

The girls were invited to take along parents or other guests. Several Roundup officials went along and took the girls' horses.

It was branding day at the Johnson ranch. C. H. Johnson and his son, Stan, who is a Roundup Association director, came up with the idea of letting the girls be real cowgirls. They had the girls ride into the corral, help cut out and rope calves.

It was a real thrill for the queen candidates and provided some fine news pictures.

The outing was repeated this year and the party was almost double the size of last year's. This time, the Hammond family played host at the "D" ranch, near Dorris.

The Hammonds served up a whopping lunch and Roundup directors enthusiastically proclaimed that the outing would henceforth be a regular event.

It is fine for the queen candidates. It affords them a chance to get acquainted with one another while they're having some fun.

Many primitive peoples do not understand death as a natural phenomenon and attribute all deaths to accidents or sorcery.

Maddox Named Top Cowboy

ROSEBURG (AP) — Dwight Maddox of Weiser, Idaho, winning first in bulldozing and second in bull riding, was named top all-around cowboy at the Douglas County Sheriff's Posse Rodeo Sunday.

Ed Akridge, Beaver, Okla., was second, and Dick Barrett, Paluska, Okla., third.

OUTDOORS

For back yard meals, we suggest serving a large platter salad. Arrange alternate slices of avocado tomato and cucumber on crisp greens. Center the plate with a mound of shiny ripe olives. Pass dressing separately. It's a pretty salad that doesn't take much fixin

Shop and Compare

Yes, that's right—only first quality.

All Sears merchandise is made to our own rigid specifications, multiple-inspected throughout the whole process of manufacture, brutally tested in our own great testing laboratories, proved in the field, and offered to you under our definite guarantee: "Satisfaction, or your money back"

No use looking for "seconds" at Sears—we just haven't got 'em!

"But"—you say—"how do you explain these low prices? Doesn't low price necessarily mean cheap merchandise?"

Not at Sears.

Ever hear of mass production?

Every woman knows that it takes just as much gas to bake one biscuit as it does a whole pan full. And the same thing applies to making and distributing high quality merchandise.

Sales volume enables Sears to manufacture and sell more economically. Mass production—more biscuits for the same amount of gas—is economical production. Mass selling is economical selling. The two combined mean low prices. Low prices mean savings, passed right on to you!

Then too, Sears stores are architectural models of efficiency, scientifically designed to cut out wasted steps—one of the commonest causes of high overhead and resulting high prices.

When you come to Sears you don't want your first tickled—you're looking for the best, obtainable, first quality, at the lowest possible price. Sears stores and Sears methods are designed to give you just that.
