It's Funny - but Dangerous

Being a rodeo clown is a funny business, right enough, but it's also a serious and hazardous business. That carefree comedian cavorting around the arena in baggy pants has one of the most dangerous and important jobs in the rodeo.

And it's a necessary job; those brave, bull-riding cowboys you cheer wouldn't tackle the rampaging Brahmas if there wasn't a competent clown in the arena. That's because the clowns are also "bullfighters," charged with luring the raging Brahmas away after the cowboy has been thrown.

It's not a simple task and it certainly isn't a safe one. Those big bulls are particularly mean once they've tossed a rider and they would like nothing better than to trample and gore the usually prone cowboy who's just been thrown to the ground. But the minute the cowboy leaves the big bull's back, the clown goes into action. From the grandstand it

Gilliam County Rancher Killed

CONDON 18 — A head-on collision between a truck and a car near here Monday night killed Richard J. Greiner, the car driver. Greiner, 52, a Gilliam County rancher, was alone in the car. The truck driver, Dick Reed, and a passenger Billy Smith, 5, both of Condon, were not injured.

The crash occurred a half mile west of Fossil on the John Day Highway. Greiner is survived by his widow, Marjory, one daughter and four sons.
