Star Says Movies Better Acting Medium Than TV

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—Exclusively yours: Hollywood producers screening that their glamorous can't compete, because of censorship, with the sex wallop of television's heroines "must be blind."

That's the word from TV's Ava Gardner—slinky, burning-eyed Rita Gam—who says she's pulling more sex appeal into a new big-screen movie role, even without dialog, than she's ever been permitted to turn on as the "bad girl" star of countless New York TV dramas.

Lured to Hollywood to unleash her torrid charms on Ray Milland in the no-talkie, all-action "The Teller," gorgeous Rita told me: "Television is full of superficial sex—like low necklines. But TV's too busy telling a story in a short time to really examine a role for its sex values. Hollywood has it all over TV in selling sex. The characterization (a snaky lady) I'm doing in this movie never could be as effective on a half-hour or hour TV drama. There just wouldn't be time."

Rita Gam a comed name for home channel oomph?

"Are you kidding?" New York-born-and-raised Rita queried. "It's my real name."

The word's out that some of the bequest other than cash in his estranged wife in the late John Garfield's will—he left a $100,000 estate—will lift a lot of eyebrows.

The Peggy Dow-Walter Heilmerich II her, who's expected to arrive in October, will inherit millions by being his first infant cry. Ooh, that baby's oil!

Alan Wilson says he knows a psychiatrist who is treating so many emotional movie stars that his couch is up for an Academy Award.

A not-in-the-script melee involving Red Skelton, his Georgia and other night owls in front of the Beverly Hills Tropics in the frost of the wee hours was wilder than anything in Red's TV shows. A nice press agent saved the day—or rather the night.

Betty Grable, have called the whole thing off for a second time.

Gloria Henry—who plays Don Haggerty's Girl Friday in TV's "Jeffrey Jones" private-eye films, is bowing out of the next 13 because of a date with the stork. She's the wife of architect Craig Ellwood.

The Johnson office rumors were behind Producer Ida Lubin's switch in titles on "The Cook Story" to "The Difference." Too much glamorization of a killer... Evie Johnson is dead serious; I hear about writing a play for hubby Van Johnson. A romantic triangle? ... An RKO contract is perking for Mona Freeman, who joins Jean Simmons and Bob Mitchell on the lot in "The Murderer." The deal will guarantee Moira no more junior-miss roles.

Yvonne Hoover, the gorgeous brunet bride of Otto, H. D. River, keeps turning down the movie test offers. Her hubby's wishes.

Reason for the tension between Barbara Stanwyck and Frank Taylor, her husband before last, is their adopted son, Dion, now in the army. Frank hasn't seen him since the lad accompanied him on his last road tour of "Harvey."
