Pat Lesser In Women's Semi-Finals

PORTLAND — Four survivors of weeklong play in the 24th annual Oregon Golf Association championships teed off here Friday in the all-Portland semi-finals.

Dick Yost was matched against Bruce Codd and Bob McReynolds faced John Boyd in the 36-hole round of four.

Pat Lesser of Seattle, who took medalist honors Thursday in an 18-hole playoff with Mrs. R. L. Horst of Portland, and three Portlanders met in women's semi-finals.

Miss Lesser played Mrs. J. C. Ieron and Barbara Snook met Mrs. Harry Stepp.

Boyd scored the only upset of Thursday's quarter-final men's round. He ousted Dick Estey, Portland, 2 and 1.

Yost defeated Lou Stafford, Portland, 6 and 5. Cudd eliminated Bill Sundstrom, Oregon State College, 3 and 2, and McReynolds downed Cliff Dichter, Astoria, 4 and 3. Wednesday's quarter-finals featured Yost with a surprise win over defending champion Bob Atkinson.

The playoff for medalist honors was the only activity in the women's tournament Thursday. Miss Lesser, who tied Mrs. Borst for the award Monday, fired a 74 in the playoff to Mrs. Borst's 85.

Lower flight results Thursday included:

J. M. McClelland, Longview, Wash., defeated Jackie Neer, Portland, 5 and 4.

Pete Mundle, Eugene, defeated George Blakob, Portland, 4 and 3.

Hal Dumont, Portland, won by default from Carl Bennett, Grants Pass.

Caplanos Move Back To Second

By The Associated Press

The heavy-hitting Caplanos from Vancouver edged back into second place in the Western International League Thursday night.

The Caps handed league-leading Victoria a 9-2 setback and moved into the runner-up spot five percentage points ahead of Spokane's Indians, who split a doubleheader with Lewiston.

It was Vancouver's third win in the four-game series at Victoria and the slumping Tyees' fifth loss in six games.

10 HITS

The Caps jumped on three Victoria hurlers for 10 hits including a triple and two singles by Jim Vert, a double by Jess Williams and a home run by Len Tran. Victoria left 15 runners stranded.

Southern Bob Schulte tamed Spokane with four hits in the first game of the twin bill at Spokane and won a 2-1 decision for Lewiston. Spokane came back with a 4-1 verdict in the nightcap. John Marshall was credited with the win, his sixth of the season.

11 INNINGS

Wenatchee edged last-place Yakima 5-4 in an 11-inning thriller at Wenatchee. Walt Pockay tied it 4-4 in the bottom of the inning after Wenatchee had grabbed the lead with a homer over the right field fence. Dick Adams followed with a double and came home with the winning run on Bud Hjeltnes's single. It was Wenatchee's only win of the three game series.

Salem closed its series against Tri-City at Kennewick with a 2-0 shutout on six-hit pitching by Bud Francis and Ted Edmunds. Salem won the series 4-1.

Emergency Deer Feed Program Causes Wide Split in Opinion

By JIM THOMAS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The critical areas where some 1,000 to 1,500 deer died in the snow last winter were focal points for the survey trip made recently by sportsmen and outdoors writers with state deer management experts.

The areas visited were the Devils Garden in Modoc County where between 2,000 and 3,000 deer died, Secret Valley in Lassen county, where more than 1,000 deer failed to pull through, and the Feather River canyon, between Portola and Quincy where an estimated 3,000 head were lost. Also visited was the Doyle winter range of the Lassen-Washoe Interstate Herd. The bad storms generally missed the Doyle range and losses there were no more than normal.

BETTER SHAPE

The Feather River deer were in better shape, but were trapped in six to eight feet of snow in the draws along the canyon and did not reach their normal winter range. Farnsworth and his crew fed to those deer sooner than in other places, and the evidence is that the program helped the deer reach to survive. About 3,000, Farnsworth estimates, perished out of the herd of 7,000. The fact is that 7,000 is too many deer for the limited area, but it is doubtful that would have mattered last winter, since all were cut off without a chance to forage for some weeks.

Lengthy talks with District Game Manager Russ Bushey Jr., Assistant Game Managers Trev Wright and James Blahdell, respectively in charge of Devils Garden and Lassen-Washoe herd studies, developed nothing which would indicate the sportsmen caused deer deaths by feeding. They are convinced that artificial feeding is uneconomical and impractical as a management policy. Ordinary conditions, they contend, demand that the deer be able to survive on natural forage. Disagreements arise in attempting to assess emergency conditions.

EXTREME

Even those who sponsored the back-breaking feeding efforts do not advocate it for other than extreme cases. Both sportsmen and game management men agree that under normal conditions, or anywhere near to it, herd management to meet forage production and range management to improve forage production is the practical and economic approach to keeping the deer herds healthy.

The exact numbers lost do not appear vital. All agree that the figures were far heavier than in a normal winter.

What is important is whether the emergency feeding programs carried on by the sportsmen during the winter were of any considerable benefit, and to what extent, if any, the generally poor condition of the deer ranges contributed to the extraordinary winter loss.

The sportsmen feeding programs were spearheaded by O. E. Pederson and Clayton Rudesill of Tulare, president and secretary of the Sportsmen's Association in the Devils Garden. Howard Herrick of Susanville, in Secret Valley, and Jack Farnsworth, president of the Plumas County Conservation League, along the Feather River.

All of these men are convinced that their work was of benefit and point to the fact that the heaviest die-offs occurred before feeding began. In the case of the Devils Garden the deaths almost stopped after feeding. However, all discount the very possible consideration that the weaker deer, fawns and adults past their prime, already had dropped when the feeding began, and those more vigorous ones left had enough strength

GAMES TRIALS OPEN

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two hundred athletes swung into the first half of a two-day track and field struggle Friday, bent on winning places on the Finland-bound U.S. Olympic team in the final trials.

By nightfall Saturday, this field of survivors of three other exacting qualifying meets will be trimmed and squeezed down to the minimum—three men in each event.

The main show Friday was set to start in Memorial Coliseum at 1:30 p.m. with four field events on thirty minutes later, heats and finals in four track events were slated to get underway.

Heats were deemed necessary in the 100 and 500-meter running events and the 400-meter hurdles, followed by finals in these races and the 5,000-meter run.

Field events on the opening schedule were the javelin and hammer throws, the shot put and the broad jump.

12 AllStars Determined

CHICAGO (AP) — Five American and seven National League starting assignments for the All-Star game in Philadelphia July 8 appeared settled as the nationwide poll of baseball fans drew to a close Friday.

According to the latest tabulations (official results of the poll will be announced Sunday), here are the American League's heavy leaders who seem to have won starting spots:

The National League starters line up this way:

Whitey Lockman, New York, base; Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn, second base; Bobby Thomson, New York, third base; Hank Sauer, Chicago, leftfield; Stan Musial, St. Louis, centerfield; Eros Slaughter, St. Louis, rightfield, and Roy Campanella, Brooklyn, catcher.
