USAF Says Dams Military

TOKYO (AP) — The U.S. Air Force said Wednesday night hydroelectric plants in Communist North Korea were bombed because "they were supplying electricity" to Red war plants producing weapons being used against U.N. troops.

The power plants had remained untouched by the Allies for two years of war. Much of the power they produced went to Manchuria.

Photographs showed widespread damage to 13 plants. The Air Force said the photographs established that the plants were knocked out.

More than 500 Air Force, Marine and Navy warplanes hit the installations June 23. The attacks continued three more days.

The plants were attacked, the Air Force announcement said, "after it had been determined that they were supplying the electricity used in Communist factories producing weapons, weapon parts, ammunition and other military supplies being used against U.N. troops."

Other large Communist users of the power were listed as maintenance and repair shops, both rail and vehicular; widely dispersed small factories and repair shops supporting the Red war effort, and the Communist radar warning systems.

"Thus, the electrical output of these plants contributed directly to the enemy's capability of intercepting U.N. aircraft operating over North Korea," the Air Force added.

Senate Okays German Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has overwhelmingly ratified two pacts designed to bring the potential military and industrial power of Western Germany into the free world defensive alliance.

One of the pacts, approved 77-5, ends the occupation of the German republic and largely restores it to the family of sovereign nations.

The other, ratified by a 72-5 vote, brings Western Germany under the same reciprocal security guarantees now held by all the 14 North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) partners. But it does not actually admit the republic to NATO.

The United States is the first nation to act on the West German pacts.

The administration hopes that the lopsided Senate votes, taken after about seven hours of debate Tuesday, will speed ratification of the whole network of treaties in Europe.

Friendship... the value that cannot be measured...

ONE OF OUR most basic assets cannot be listed in the cold dollars and cents of a financial statement. It is the bond of personal interest and friendship that exists between this association and the families we serve.

There are two inseparable parts to this asset. First, the nature of our business. There is nothing more personal than the field of thrift and home financing . . . the providing of a source of funds to bring home ownership within the reach of all and a place where savings may be invested profitably and safely. Second, our business philosophy . . . a warm human way of doing business on the personal level, a relationship of people with people . . . where a service is offered to folks with a need for that service.

Our financial statement reflects that asset but never lists it. Every loan payment, every addition to savings is continued proof of its existence. It's yours for the asking! And remember . . .!
