Reds Level New Charge

VIENNA (AP) - First it was Colorado beetles, then it was germ warfare in Korea, now it's the "American white spinning moth." This is the latest Communist bug accusation against the United States.

Hungarian newspapers reaching here claimed "American white spinning moths" had made their appearance and villages were waging a "fierce fight" against the moths, which had destroyed fruit trees.

In Czechoslovakia, meanwhile, the newspaper Rude Pravo announced that in future potato bugs will be known as "American beetles."

Senate Passes Interior Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - A $341,727,848 compromise Interior Department bill including funds to start 10 new reclamation projects in the West was passed by the Senate Thursday night and sent to the White House.

The bill came out of a House-Senate Conference Committee, which compromised differences between the two legislative bodies, 15 1/2 million dollars below the Senate-approved figure but 55 1/2 million above that originally approved in the House.

Appropriations Committee clerks said because of the rush toward adjournment they were unable to provide detailed figures for reclamation projects and other items the bill contained.

However, it included nearly 15 million dollars for the 10 new reclamation projects originally disapproved by the House.

Among the projects were: Savage Rapids Dam, Ore., $700,000.

Yakima, Kennewick Division, Wash., 1 1/2 million.

Mindoka, north side pumping division, $150,000.

WSB Okays Lumber Wages

SEATTLE (AP) - The Thirteen Regional Wage Stabilization Board Thursday approved wage increases and other benefits included in recent agreements between employers and unions in the Pacific Northwest lumber industry.

The board handed down a series of seven decisions affecting approximately 45,000 members of the International Woodworkers of America (IWA), 65,000 from the Lumber and Weyerhaeuser Timber Co., and Sawmill Workers Union (AFL), and 55,000 other workers.

Agreements between the IWA Tacoma; Long Bell Lumber Co., Longview, Wash., and the Simpson Logging Co., Shelton, Wash., called for a 7 1/2 cent an hour general wage increase on the basis of the board's cost of living formula.

Fringe benefits in the agreements included reduction from five years to three years for seniority, and a 10 percent increase in vacation pay from three to six paid holidays a year, and an increase from four to six cents an hour in the night differential. Increases are retroactive to April 1 when the contract became effective.

Provisions of the Lumber and Sawmill Workers' agreement included an increase of 12 1/2 cents an hour based on the cost of living adjustment, and the cash equivalent of fringe benefits in the IWA contract.

The Industrial Conference Board, Tacoma, representing 17 employers; the Plywood and Door Manufacturer's Committee, Tacoma; Gardner Lumber Co., Gardner, Ore.; the Oregon Coast Operators, representing eight employers, and the AFL union jointly submitted the petition.

Baker Mayor Leaves Post

BAKER, Ore. (AP) - The mayor and four city councilmen submitted their resignations Thursday in the latest development of a city administration dispute here.

Only a few hours before Mayor James Hanley and the four councilmen resigned, the new city manager, David Koester, had reinstated Police Chief Fred Hunt who last week was fired by the council.

After Hunt was forced out, 12 members of the city police force quit to protest the firing.

Some 3,000 residents of the city signed petitions demanding Hunt be reinstated.

That was where the matter stood Sunday when Koester took over as city manager. The Council members assured him they would back him up in any steps he took to solve the dispute.

Thursday morning he reinstated Hunt and the 12 policemen saying he thought that was the wish of the majority of Baker residents.

A few hours later, Hanley and Chet Smith, Charles Clark and C. A. House - sent a letter to the Baker radio station in which they said they would leave office about July 17. They did not mention the police dispute but said the resignations were "in the best interest of the city and public."

Hanley and the council did not give a reason for forcing Hunt to resign. Some of those protesting the firing, however, said it was because the council was trying to open up Baker for prostitution and gambling which Hunt has cracked down on recently.

The two remaining council members, Dave Eardley and D. E. Clark, will fill the five vacancies by appointment. The council members will elect a new mayor from among themselves.

Final Ruling

Even a decrease in their present supply of water would necessarily bring about a decrease in planting of row crops which take more water than grain crops.

The power company said several times during the hearing that the company's plans for use of water would be subordinate to farming demands, and John Boyle, Copco vice president and general manager, stated the company's intentions this way:

"Under the contract of Feb. 24, 1917, between the California Oregon Power Company and the United States relating to control of the lake levels of Upper Klamath Lake and so long as that contract continues in effect, the company's use of water at Copco No. 1 and Copco No. 2 and its proposed use of water at Big Bend No. 2 development are subject and subordinate to the use of water for the irrigation of lands within the boundary of the Klamath reclamation project, including lands in the Tulelake area which are understood to be part of the project, and including the irrigation of such lands which have not yet been placed under irrigation, and including the full beneficial use of water on such lands even where inadequacy of facilities or other causes have heretofore made full use of water for irrigation impossible."

Copco has also said it would need an extension of the 1917 contract, which expires in 1987 - if it is going to get to put in and operate further hydroelectric development down the river.

ANOTHER ARGUMENT

The difference between lands on the present reclamation project and lands outside the project which might someday be irrigated by Klamath River water is another point of friction.

The Bureau of Reclamation, which opposes the Copco application, testified that it is studying the possibility of bringing a total of 717,000 acres of land under irrigation, about two-thirds of it outside the presently considered limits of the reclamation project - in such places as Butte Valley, Swan Lake, Yonna Valley, Pine Flat, Red Rock Valley, the Oklahama district of Siskiyou County, Shasta Valley and Scott Valley.

That, the bureau has tried to point out, is part of the ultimate development of irrigation in this area, and will take a lot of water the Klamath Indians also have some future irrigation plans on the reservation needing considerable water.

Copco got some assistance late in the hearing from staff engineers of the Federal Power Commission, who testified that the Copco plans for an Big Bend No. 2 are sound from an engineering and construction standpoint, that the company needs the supply of power to help meet its expected market demands of the immediate future, and that there isn't much likelihood of the company being able to get enough firm power from other sources to meet its needs.
