Slo-Mo-Shun Screams To New Record

SEATTLE (AP) — Stanley Sayres whipped the screaming Slo-Mo-Shun IV to a world hydroplane record of 178.497 miles an hour Monday. It cracked the mark set two years ago by more than 18 m.p.h.

It was the fastest man ever has traveled on water. In 1950 Sayres and the Slo-Mo startled the speedboat world by boosting the world mark some 20 miles an hour to 160.235 m.p.h.

That same year he won the Gold Cup Race and the Harmsworth Trophy in the speedy Slo-Mo. Lake Washington's narrow east channel was choppy from a sharp breeze as Sayres came out at 8 a.m. (PDT) for his try at the record.

With the wind at his back, he ran the first mile of the test in 1:55.567 miles an hour. On the return against the wind he was clocked in 1:11.428.

The average for the two runs was taken as the official time.
