False Eyelashes Out Of Fashion in Movie Town

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—Exclusively Yours: One kind of false has gone out of fashion in Hollywood, girls—phony glamor eyelashes.

The sweepers that Marlene Dietrich and other movie queens once glued over their eyes are as obsolete as Confederate money. Our authority is U-I's make-up whiz, Frank Westmore, who says: "Men just didn't like the things. They didn't like to see stars wearing them and they didn't like their own women with them on. False eyelashes made stars look hard and phony."

Joanne Dru is wearing beefsteak over one eye and she's not blaming it on a collision with the director. The marriage of the David Niven's shabby and almost every guest at Jane Wyman's big Hollywood party knew why. . . . The tension in the Van Johnson household is the buzz of Hollywood's smart set. To add fuel to the fire, Evie showed up at a party without Van and gave a lame excuse for his absence.

Spike Jones' wife, Helen Grayco, is recording "If I Were President" for release just before the November election. If Helen were president, the lyrics say, "The girls could fill the Senate and Kate Smith could fill the House." Here's another excerpt:

With Dagmar as an ambassador there'd never be a fuss. 'Cause other countries would be loaning money back to us.

The Dave Andrews whose live-piece jazz group is playing around Hollywood is the son of Dana Andrews. He reports to the Army in February.

"The Fabulous Fanny—The Story of Fanny Brice" will hit the bookshelves in October. The Norman Katkov biography of the famous comedy star is being compared in frankness to Ethel Waters' "His Eye Is on the Sparrow."

Insiders expect the big divorce announcement to be made when Patricia Wymore arrives in Hollywood early in July.

"An unfair and inaccurate caricature." That's producer Gottfried Reinhardt summing up Lillian Ross' controversial case history of a movie, as serialized in New Yorker magazine, with himself and director John Huston as its leading characters.

Reinhardt is as wide-eyed as everyone else over Lillian's page after page of asserted verbatim quotes, but he claims:

"She did a pretty good job of quoting our conversations, but it's all out of context. Everything is telescoped to give completely wrong impressions. What I said is quoted—but it's not exactly correct."

Jane Wyman and Greg Bautzer, once on the verge of marriage, have patched up their quarrel. . . . The baseball set is pop-eyed over Chuck Connors' acting talent in "Pat and Mike." He's first baseman for the Los Angeles Angels.

First of Peter Lawford's many flames to win the complete approval of his parents, Sir Sidney and Lady Mary Lawford, is Rocky Cooper, Gary's estranged wife.

Matia Lanza and Kathryn Grayson may have tangled, but Gisele MacKenzie is setting off firecrackers over her Fourth of July date to rejoin Lanza on his NBC airshow. Blasting rumors that Lanza hates working with female vocalists, Gisele told me:

"He's wonderful to me. He brings me cold drinks at rehearsals, makes flattering comments about my singing and insists on introducing my numbers himself. What more could a girl want?"

Woman Held On Shoplift Rap

PORTLAND (N)—A 19-year-old housewife who told police she was the sister of Turman and Utah Wilson, was booked in jail here Saturday on a charge of shoplifting.

Police said a store detective reported that the woman, Mrs. Patricia L. Ockerson of Camas, Wash., had walked out of a shopping center here with a bottle of shampoo and six pairs of sunglasses.

She was released on $250 bail after being held four hours.

Turman and Utah Wilson have been sentenced to hang for the kidnap slaying in Vancouver, Wash., two years ago of JoAnn Dewey. They recently were granted a stay of execution so a higher court could review their trial.

2nd Prison Riot Quelled

By A. F. MAHAN JR.

JACKSON, Mich. (N)—A new uprising was quelled quickly at Southern Michigan Prison Sunday night after 140 rioting convicts seized two hostages and won concessions from prison officials.

One rioter was wounded by buckshot fired by state police, stationed at the prison since the wild revolt of three months ago. The troopers fired a few shotgun blasts into the rioting cellblock in their first move to restore order.

The hostages, both prison guards, were released unharmed after state police withdrew and prison authorities agreed to ease three restrictions in force since the April mutiny.

It was in this same prison, the world's largest walled prison, that one convict was killed, eight others wounded, and a million dollars worth of prison property destroyed by a four-day riot last April 20-24.

The leaders of Sunday night's uprising were among those in solitary for their part in the original rioting.

Fearful that the new riot might spread over the prison, Warden Julian Frisbie Monday ordered that all prisoners be fed in shifts, that all inmates be locked in their cells for the day and that all prison industries be closed.

The April riot sparked a general revolt among the prisoners. But last night's was confined to only 140 of the 6,000 convicts in the huge institution.

The most tense moment in the new revolt came when rioters shouted they would throw the two hostage guards off a fifth story cellblock balcony to the concrete floor below if state police failed to retire. The troopers drew back.

Before that, in their first move into the cellblock of club-swinging inmates, they fired an estimated five to 10 shotgun blasts.

Convict Carl Bradford, 24, a Detroit Negro, serving one to four years for larceny from a building, fell wounded. Buckshot hit him in the heel and buttocks.

The new rioting stemmed from inmate complaints that prisoners were held on two lower floors of cellblock nine since April 21, without dining room, yard exercising or visitor privileges.

MUNSAN, Korea (N)—United Nations and Communist armistice negotiators held their fourth consecutive secret meeting Monday.

U. N. spokesman said proceedings were on a "business like basis."

A single issue—exchange of prisoners of war—blocks an armistice.

The meeting lasted 48 minutes. The executive sessions will resume at 11 a. m. Tuesday.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nickols, U. N. command spokesman, indicated the Reds refrained from using propaganda blasts Monday.

Both sides read prepared statements dealing with exchange of POWs, Nickols said.

He refused to say whether progress has been made.
