Conference Committee Mills Rivers, Harbor Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The $584,061,600 rivers and harbors money bill was back before a Senate-House conference committee Monday with no prospects of final action before next week.

A fight over a four million dollar appropriation to begin construction of the Hartwell reservoir in South Carolina and Georgia held up agreement as Congress struggled vainly for adjournment.

Sessions of both the Senate and House were called again Monday, but congressional leaders agreed that Congress probably will mark time this week.

The Hartwell item and 10 others were dropped by House-Senate conferees in a compromise between the $492,434,900 approved by the House and $667,474,659 passed by the Senate for the Army Engineers' river and harbor and flood control program.

Senator Maybank (D. S.C.), who threatened a filibuster before Congress quit in the early hours Sunday, told a reporter he would be willing to call off his filibuster threat if two million dollars, or one half the budget figure, were agreed to.

The $584,061,600 total agreed on by the conferees includes $236,788,850 for rivers and harbors, and $335,742,600 for flood control.

The conference committee dropped earmarked funds in the Senate bill for planning work, but included a lump sum planning fund of $400,000 for river and harbors, and $850,000 for flood control.

With the exception of $50,000 set aside for Hartwell planning, the remainder is to be used at engineers' discretion. Following are Pacific Northwest projects for which appropriations differed in the original House and Senate approved bills, with amounts showing the conference recommendation:

NO REGRET

OCEANPORT, N. J. (AP) — The Regret Handicap, one of the newest of Monmouth Park's rich stakes, is one of four filly and mare stakes to be decided at the seaside track during the present meeting. The others are the Colleen Stakes, the Molly Pitcher Handicap and the Monmouth Oaks. The Regret honors the great Whitney filly, only member of her sex ever to win the Kentucky Derby. Regret was foaled on a farm near the site of the Jersey race course.
