This and That About Women

DO YOU KNOW that a honey bee belongs to the family of Apidae, that bees have a social life and community responsibility, stand at the head of the insect world in intelligence... that some insects are beneficial... that grasshoppers may be found 10,000 feet up in the Steen Mountains... that pretty Patsy O'Donahue is one of the best informed entomologists in Klamath County?

Sixteen-year-old Patsy, daughter of the J. L. O'Donahues near the Lakeview junction, would rather classify a new kind of bug scooped from a sage brush than watch Farley Granger in a heart-throb scene.

Her collection of butterflies and insects is beyond the comprehension of the un-initiated... the boxes of specimens are perfectly preserved... she is constantly alert for new additions, has been collecting just four years.

She is also her Dad's right hand man when a wounded bird or beast is taken to the O'Donahue home for care and healing... Dad is the Good Samaritan who repairs broken wings and crippled legs of wildlife.

Way back, when she was young, about 13, Patsy began scribbling. Today, she has just about enough poems to fill a volume, good ones with deep thoughts and proper meter... she paints in oil, does pencil and ink sketches but has never had a lesson... she'd rather read than row a boat... designed to scale, the Hornets used for the bronze plaques that guard the doors at the Henley high school where she gets grade cards marked with I's.

Patsy sings in the choir at the Mt. Laki Community church... is a member of the Henley Four-H Porker Club... had the grand champion breeding sow in the 1951 livestock show... crochets... but the NICEST news of all is this... Patsy O'Donahue is a laughing, full-of-fun lass with the look of Ireland in her eyes and thinks she doesn't do a THING unusual.

Meeting

The Klamath Falls Garden Club thrilled to the technicolor films of Harold B. Ashley on wild and cultivated flowers at the July 7 meeting. Mr. Ashley had some very rare pictures of bitterroot, wild iris, wild penstemon and aqua grass in bloom.

Mrs. Fred Karlson brought the club a report of the state convention held in Portland.

Mrs. Ray Garrison, president of the Evergreen Garden Club was a guest.

The Klamath Falls Garden Club will have a picnic at the home of Mrs. Earl Redman in August.

SAVE

If buns, coffee cake or doughnuts get slightly stale, try slicing them in two and putting them in a pan under the broiler of the gas range. Spread with butter, peanut butter, cinnamon or jam and serve hot.
