Ann Corio Laments Bikini Ruined Burlesque Queens

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Exclusively Yours: Ann Corio, the strip queen who became a movie star back in 1942 as a scantily-clad jungle heroine, is ready to tussle with flicker fame again. But she's moaning: "I'm just not known as an actress in Hollywood. Those jungle pictures didn't do me any good. My dialog was in pidgin English. But I shouldn't rap those pictures. They paid for a couple of annuities."
Ann waved farewell to the bald-headed row eight years ago and how she's sighing "Burlesque is gone—it's dead. The art has gone out of stripping. There's no talent left. Radio and TV grabbed up all the comedians. And bikini bathing suits killed the box-office for strippers."
The Gordon MacFalls, who ought to know, are denying the marital rift rumors. "We're happier together than we've ever been," says Gordon. Joe Pasternak's talking to Kathryn Grayson about a film career for her four-year-old daughter, Patricia. She has the same wide-eyed appeal, claims Joe, as Margaret O'Brien.

Death Claims Ohio Tourist

SUMMER LAKE — Death came July 15 to an Ohio woman, a tourist enroute to the West coast with her family. She was Mrs. Bart Blaha of Hudson, Ohio. Cause of death was a cerebral hemorrhage, according to an attending physician.
Mrs. Blaha became ill a few miles north of Silver Lake, and the family kept driving hoping to find a doctor. When they reached the Summer Lake store, the proprietor Mrs. A. Deboy rushed to the Summer Lake lodge where the owner, Frank Graves, tried to reach someone on the two-way radio. The district has no telephone service.
Graves and Bon Hoffman then drove to Paisley, a distance of several miles, to summon Dr. Kleiver who sent an ambulance for the stricken woman. It arrived about 4 a.m. but Mrs. Blaha had died at 12:30 a.m. The body was taken to Lakeview.
Mr. Blaha and two young sons, the eldest 15-year-old made arrangements there to return the body to Ohio.

Western Democrats Reported Organizing 210 Vote Bloc

CHICAGO (AP) — Democrats from 12 western states and two territories sought Friday to organize their 210 delegates into a bloc that might wield powerful influence in deciding the party's platform and presidential candidate at next week's convention.
L. L. Steward, Jr., of Phoenix, Ariz., asked the westerners to hold an initial session Friday to consider platform issues.
He and Monroe Sweetland, national committeeman from Portland, Ore., told this reporter the western delegates will try for an "informal coalition" that might favor some candidate, at a second session called for Sunday night.
Sweetland said the Sunday night session will be led by Calvin Rawlings, Utah national committeeman.
"Although we are not organizing to back any one candidate that well, it could be an offset of the meeting," Sweetland said.
Sweetland said the states and territories included in the western group are: Arizona with 12 delegates; California 68; Colorado, 16; Idaho, 12; Montana, 12; Nebraska, 12; Nevada, 10; New Mexico, 12; Oregon, 12; Washington, 22; Wyoming, 10; Utah, 12; Alaska, 6 and Hawaii, 6.
Delegations from several of these western states are expected to back Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee on the first ballot.
Steward said the initial session of the westerners was to consider platform planks on "reclamation, mining, water, power, and other issues of prime interest in the western half of the nation."
The winner here goes to the state championships in Portland and the winner there goes to Washington, D. C. for the national finals.
The nine drivers in the Klamath finals are Opal Jean Baly, Twyla Hanson, James Layton, Shwonn Oldham, Sharon Lynn Strand, Joe Mathews, Robert B. Stephens, Robert Casper and James Tackey.
Finalists here are selected by written examinations on traffic regulations and safe driving.
The state finals are to be held at Portland's Jantzen Beach, 2 p.m., July 26.
In addition to tomorrow's teenage driving examinations, there will be demonstrations by professional drivers of handling big high-way freight rigs in tight spots. City firemen, with their new ladder truck will participate.
The Road-e-o is designed to promote safer driving by teenagers and is sponsored annually by the Jaycees. Rex Dye and George Proctor are co-chairmen this year.

Island Grocer Receives Rice

Food shortages really are happening in the Hawaiian Islands. The Foodland Super Market, Ltd. of Honolulu has had a carload of M.J.B. rice shipped into the Islands from San Francisco via parcel post. The post alone on the 24,000 pounds of rice amounted to $3,750. This was more than the cost of the rice. The shipment had to be packed 2 cases to a package and wire strapped, to meet postal regulations limiting the size to 100 unites inches and 70 pounds, and stamps for the 1000 packages were affixed by hand. Sale was limited to adults. 2 pounds per customer, and the 4 stores completely sold out over the weekend. With ceiling prices in effect in the islands, Foodland absorbed the loss from the parcel post charge. Grocers here think they have problems?

CFJ Observes Thirty Years

SEATTLE (AP) — Curialed movement of logs and grain caused Pacific Northwest freight carloadings in the first six months of 1952 to drop 42,618 below the same period last year. The Pacific Northwest Advisory Board reported Friday. The 1952 half-year total for Washington, Oregon and North Idaho was listed at 537,822 cars.
The station was founded in Astoria, July 19, 1923, by Ernest Mersh.
In the late twenties, George Kincaid bought the station and it was moved to Klamath Falls in 1931. First home of the station was in the Willard Hotel building. The station then had a 100-watt transmitter.
In 1946 the station was purchased by W. D. Miller, who began planning to increase the station's power. In 1950, KFJ's new Radio Hill quarters were built and the station went on 5,000 watts during the daytime and 1,000 in the evening. Its frequency was changed then to 1150 kilocycles.
A few months ago, the station added a remote transmitting unit, KA-9652, enabling broadcasting from anywhere in the Basin. Recently an application was filed for a television permit.

Model Town Up For Sale

RYDERWOOD, Wash. (AP) — The town of Ryderwood, started as a model logging community nearly 30 years ago, is up for sale because the surrounding 67,000-acre area is logged off.
The Long-Bell Lumber Co., which started the town in 1923, announced it is closing logging operations in the area and has no further use for the town.
Ryderwood has a 14-room school, church, theater, and other facilities, and 300 family living units. Long-Bell officials said they would try to find new jobs for the workers still remaining here. The surrounding logged off area will become a tree farm.

More Polio In Malheur

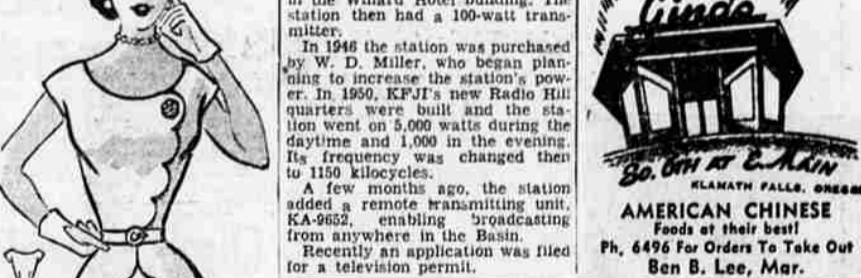

NYSSA, Ore. (AP) — Four new cases of infantile paralysis were reported in Malheur County this week to bring the year's total to 10.
Three of the victims were admitted to the hospital here. The fourth was under treatment at Ontario.
A nursing committee has been formed here to recruit nurses for emergency polio service.

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE FOR Potato and Onion Growers IN THE TULELAKE AREA

CONCERNING THE MEXICAN NATIONAL PROGRAM. There will DEFINITELY be a shortage of labor in Tulelake for this fall's harvest due mainly to insufficient housing in the area. Tulelake Growers Association can bring in and house up to 325 Mexican Nationals for the fall harvest, in the central labor camp at Newell. TULELAKE GROWERS ASSOCIATION, representing approximately 4,000 acres of the 9,000 acres of potatoes and onions in the area is not financially able to again underwrite the cost of bringing in the Mexican Nationals. IT IS UP TO EACH INDIVIDUAL GROWER TO PAY HIS JUST SHARE OF THIS PROGRAM, BASED ON A PER-ACRE BASIS! The Mexican National labor program is INSURANCE against an inadequate labor supply and improper wage control. THE MAIN OBJECTIVE of the program in Tulelake is to provide ADEQUATE LABOR for the full harvest of potatoes and onions in this area! LET'S ALL GET BEHIND THIS PROGRAM! WE WOULD BE PUTTING UP $3.00 PER ACRE AGAINST $10.00 OR $15.00 PER ACRE IT WILL COST IF THERE IS NO CONTROL OF WAGE SCALE. BEGINNING FRIDAY, JULY 18, CONTINUING THROUGH SATURDAY, JULY 26, you can sign the contracts at TULELAKE GROWERS ASSOCIATION office. SIGN EARLY AND PUT THIS PROGRAM OVER! TULELAKE GROWERS ASSOCIATION
