

Meet Your Herald and News Correspondent

Herald & News
Klamath Falls, Oregon

"... Y'know Irvin Faris in New Pine Creek?"
We asked in Lakeview.
"Know IRVIN FARIS?"
"He IS New Pine Creek!"
This, in reference to the Herald and News correspondent, we were en route to interview. He was until then, a by line... dateline... a side road in print, so to speak... but 20 minutes later over a surprisingly smooth stretch of macadam, we were warmly greeted by Irvin and his wife Buna.

We had discovered another "Abou Ben Adam," and felt that Abou's creator, Leigh Hunt, could have had in mind this businessman-correspondent, when he wrote the following over 100 years ago...
"Every man who has a right sense of business... has a respect for all things apart from it; because business with him is not a mindless and merely instinctive industry... but an exercise of faculties congenial with the other powers of the human being, and all working to the same social end."

Which epitomizes what we found in New Pine Creek. This is the first in a series of "Meet Your Herald and News Correspondent," more about him and the people he writes of will appear later. A trip there, "to see for yourself," will be well worthwhile.

THIS IS the correspondent from New Pine Creek... He's not too big or loud, either, but his cheerful chuckle, after you've heard it, is a nostalgic murmur in your memory.

THIS IS New Pine Creek... in the foreground... not a roaring river, but it makes a pleasant murmur as it flows through some beautiful countryside.

It Happened This Way in New Pine Creek

MUSIC?... We furnish it! Part of the family orchestra, Kelton Vincent, steel guitar, his wife, Susan Faris Vincent, piano, and Irvin, fiddle. Bob, Kelton's younger brother, not in picture, drums, and son Robert Faris shown in pickup, plays saxophone, and drums, also we discovered he's good on the piano... so for lively entertainment, visit New Pine Creek.

A SHARP SHOPKEEPER... and Mrs. Phil Quinsberry... shopping incog from Lakeview... you'd never guess it is Dena. She's protesting that she "just wants some star sneakers for the 4th... not the WORKS!"

"THE BOSS"... BUNA FARIS... Postmaster of New Pine Creek, and her "assistant." After meeting her, it is obvious why some of the mail she sorts is her own "fan" mail.

ROBERT FARIS... In front of the motel owned by his parents... He's a helping hand in the Faris operations.

IN THE BACKGROUND... the two younger Faris children, Janet and Don... bouncing with energy most of the time, and already a "big help."

MAYBE PHIL'S WIFE... wasn't too receptive... but Phil seems to love "getting the works!"... Yep! Irvin's ALSO a licensed barber!
