USDA Names Disaster Areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department Friday designated the states of South Carolina and Maine and seven additional areas as a result of the severe drought.

Two other Arkansas counties, previously designated as disaster areas because of a tornado, also were redesignated as drought areas.

All of seven states and large parts of two others now have been designated as drought disaster, areas.

The department said Maine is entering its sixth week without rain.

Damage to oats, beans, cucumbers, blueberries, corn and potatoes is estimated to run into the millions of dollars and many home gardens are seriously affected, the announcement said.

The disaster designation makes farmers in the area eligible for the farmers home administration in order to stay in production.

The entire states of Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi and Tennessee, and large parts of Missouri and Arkansas previously had been named as drought disaster areas.

Pioneer Fete Set For Baker

BAKER (AP) — Arrival of an American Pioneer Trails association caravan here Sunday will launch a three-day celebration in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of a covered wagon migration to Oregon.

The caravan, after starting July 13 from Kansas City, Mo., has participated in various pioneer celebrations along the way.

The group is led by Dr. Howard Driggs, Bayside, N. Y., president of the American Pioneer Trails Association of New York, who will be main speaker during the celebration. Another speaker is Col. H. C. Anderson, special representative of the Union Pacific Railroad.

Several Baker organizations have joined the host Baker County Historical Society in arranging displays of historical items on city streets. These include old stage coaches, covered wagons, and clothes worn by pioneers during the migration.

Included in the caravan's trek were appearances in pioneer festivals at Scottsbluff and Gering, Neb.; Salt Lake City; Pocatello, Idaho; and Ontario, Ore., on the old Oregon Trail.

Series H Bonds Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury announced Thursday that the new series H savings bonds have been received from the printer and are now being delivered to buyers.

These bonds, on which interest is paid by check mailed each six month, went on sale June 1 in four denominations: $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000.

PROMISING new pasture plant for the Klamath country is lotus (Lotus corniculatus) which can be used particularly for long-lay pastures. Here Ed Stevens, Klamath Experiment Station, looks over plots including seven strains of lotus in experiments at the station. This is the first serious attempt to measure yields in the plant. The above plot is in its second clipping, and will undergo five clippings during the year to approximate pasture conditions. Lotus has been growing in observation plots here for 12 years. The lotus is to be featured in Monday afternoon's station field day.

Parent Sues RR Company

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The Union Pacific Railroad and three employes were sued Thursday for $300,000 in behalf of Ricky Hammond, 8, who lost an arm and both legs under the wheels of a freight train May 21.

Ricky has just returned home from the hospital.

The suit was filed by his mother, Mrs. Richard Hammond, and charges the railroad with negligence and with creating "an attractive nuisance" in the train.

The employe defendants, Conductor Joe Bishop, Engineer R. M. Minkler and Special Agent Floyd Pabst, are accused of not warning the children against playing around the trains.

CIO Radiomen Settle Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Peace settled over Pacific Coast ports Friday in the wake of a short-lived strike by CIO radio operators Thursday.

Pickets were removed from in front of about 14 West Coast-owned ships after the American Radio Association and the companies reached a tentative agreement in a dispute over operation of radio-telephone equipment aboard.

Shipowners, acting individually, removed radio-phones from struck ships and placed the equipment on docks pending negotiations.

The radio operators had demanded either they be given full working control of the phones or that the equipment be taken off vessels.

William Steinberg, president of ARA, said peace talks will continue in an attempt to settle the dispute permanently.

The issue is whether deck officers, members of the AFL Masters, Mates and Pilots, or the radio operators should have working control of the phones.

The ARA has demanded the phones — now located in the bridge or captain's quarters — be placed in radio rooms.

Capt. C. F. May, spokesman for the deck officers, said as long as the equipment is on the bridge," we don't want anybody but deck officers operating it."

"Neither radio operators nor anyone else can move in on the authority of the bridge officers to navigate and handle the ship's business."
