Byrnes Urges South Carolina To Support Democratic Slate

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Gov. James F. Byrnes advised South Carolina Democrats to support the national Democratic Stevenson-Sparkman presidential ticket.

Byrnes, often at odds with the Truman administration, thus joined the state's two Senators and other party leaders in support of the national ticket.

His recommendation came at the party's state convention which was reconvened after being in recess since April while waiting to learn the national party's stand on civil rights.

It was at Byrnes' suggestion that the state party, which booted the national party for the States Rights Democratic ticket in 1948, adopted this wait-and-see attitude.

With Byrnes' support, there seemed to be little doubt that the convention would go down the line for Stevenson and Sparkman.

The South Carolina action may also influence other Southern states.

In a 30-minute report on the national convention which he attended as chairman of the South Carolina delegation, Byrnes noted that the state party was free to support the Republican Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

"But," he declared, "I think this convention should instruct the state executive committee to place on the ballot . . . electors pledged to Stevenson and Sparkman."

"If today were election day, I would vote for Stevenson and Sparkman," the former secretary of state said. "Not because they are labeled Democrats, but because of their personal qualifications and their records in public office."

But Byrnes said he wanted to hear views of both Stevenson and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican candidate, before finally making up his mind about his own vote.

He noted that while this state voted a States Rights Democratic ticket in 1948 in its quarrel with the national party, it still was voting for Democrats.

For the state Democratic party to support the Republican candidates "would not be right," he declared.
