GRAINS

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybeans and feed grains were higher at the board of trade Tuesday but wheat failed to make much progress.

A lower than expected estimate of soybean and oat production by the government caused beans to jump as much as 6 cents at the opening and gave feed grains a firm to strong tone.

Realizing sales were well absorbed, especially in beans.

Holland took two cargoes of U. S. hard wheat, which had a steady effect on that grain.

At the finish wheat was 1/4 to 1/2 higher than the previous close. September $2.33 1/2, corn was unchanged to 1/8 higher, September $1.78 1/2...

Field Sale

their cost of about $4,100 it can be put into very good condition. The recreation program is bigger now than it ever has been, Marshall pointed out, and will be bigger next year.

He compared that field with Trailer Park, also city-owned and which has been suggested as an alternative recreation site in Mills Addition. Trailer Park, Marshall said, is much smaller, actually too small for a baseball field, and to put it into usable shape the cost would be upwards of $25,000 (a figure including around $10,000 worth of anticipated street paving).

Don Pifer, local attorney who said he represented a committee of Mills Addition people wanting to protest the sale, took a different tack. The sale, he said, might be illegal.

It is possible, Pifer said, that the Recreation Field property might be considered as held in trust for public use, just the same as property upon which a fire station or city hall might be located, and therefore be controlled by a state law forbidding the sale of such property while there is still a need for it for public use.

After hearing Marshall and Pifer, Councilman Wendell Smith conferred with other members of the Council and announced that no action would be taken on the sale until Mayor Bob Thompson and Councilman Matt Finnigan were present. Both were out of town and absent from last night's session.

DA Withdraws Attack Charge

District Attorney Frank Alderson said today he had decided not to file a rape charge against Patrick Mullen, 54, who is currently serving a 30-day vagrancy sentence in the City Jail.

A 17-year-old girl escaped from a state mental institution had accused Mullen of raping her last Thursday night.

Alderson said there was insufficient evidence to press a felony charge against Mullen. He denied attacking the girl, but admitted meeting her at the bus depot Thursday afternoon and buying her a meal.

The girl claimed she and Mullen went for a walk Thursday night and that they stopped alongside a railroad spur off S. 6th above Spring Street. It was there, she said, he attacked her.

The girl had escaped from the Fairview Home near Salem and made her way to Klamath Falls. She is to be returned to the institution.

Man Held On AWOL Charge

Melvin Lee Chiloquin, 23, a Klamath Indian, is held in the County Jail as absent without leave from March Air Force Base, Calif.

He was arrested at Chiloquin yesterday afternoon by State Police. Also in the county lineup today was Alva Brown, 37, of Portland, booked for drunk driving. He was picked up by State Police on Oregon 66 last night.

City Council Considers Street Repairing Works

Several street improvement projects which may be scheduled for next summer are already being considered by the City Council.

Last night a petition bearing the signatures of 10 owners of property in the S. 5th-Plum-Elm area was received by the Council, asking that an investigation be made of the feasibility of paving both from Oak to Elm, and Plum and Elm from Oak to 6th.

City Engineer E. A. Taxi Thomas was instructed to make the investigation.

The Council also was asked by some property owners on Portland above Pacific Terrace to initiate an improvement project on that street, and agreed to do so.

Thomas also asked that some thought be given to an improvement district for the upper end of Eldorado out to Birch for sidewalk curbs and gutter work.

Still another project the city has in mind is to cut a new access street into the Riverside area, from Riverside up to Rogers. Most of the property needed for the street has already been deeded to the city by way of trades for other property. But the type of street to be put in hasn't been decided upon yet.

Local street patching work got under way just last week, and last night the Council voted to approve a contract for the work with the Bobco Paving Company. The Bobco bid was $4,500, but the contract had been held up while the company was enlarging its plant.

On still another street subject, City Attorney Henry Perkins gave the Council an opinion that it can legally spend some money to get road work in Moore Park. The money, about $31,000, is to come to the city as its share of the county's road levy, and must be used for road and street work, Perkins said.

Several weeks ago the Park board asked the city's help in repairing the several miles of roads in the park.

Other business of the Council last night included:

Approval of $60,250 worth of building permits, including one for $40,000 for a new garage and office at 312 Spring, taken out by West-Hitchcock Company.

Approval of the sale of four lots in the recently-rezoned industrial area back of Owens Street to W. McDaniel, for $100 each.

Acceptance of the resignation of J. V. McClair as Civil Defense administrator.

Referral for study of a protest against restrictions on the use of certain radio equipment by the Civil Defense organization. The equipment was put at the airport by the U. S. Navy after the war, and some time ago the city okayed its use by Civil Defense communications workers if it wasn't modified or changed so that it couldn't be put back into its original shape in case the Navy wants it back.

Receipt of two bids for roofing a hangar at the airport, one from C. Fitzgerald for $6,430 and the other from H. Henris for $6,500. The bids were referred to the Airport Board.

Police Chief Orville Hamilton reported that the City Jail has been inspected by the Federal Bureau of Prisons and termed suitable for the detention of federal prisoners.

BUILDING

Building Inspector Vern Scherger was given authority to contact the owners of half a dozen houses in various parts of town—houses that have been moved from one location to another and left unfinished—with the ultimatum to get busy bringing the dwellings up to fire and safety standards or face condemnation proceedings.

City Engineer Thomas and the Street Committee were given authority to buy a new snow plow for use this winter. The plow will cost around $700, Thomas said.

Four ordinances were adopted. They provide for adoption of standard time on Sept. 1, requiring persons excavating in unimproved alleys or streets for sewer work to take out a permit, outlawing livestock running at large within the city limits, and vacation of a part of Benson Street.
