On The House

Better houses are being built virtually everywhere today because of the development of the stock plan business by registered architects.

There was a time not so long ago when a man, who could not retain an architect to design a house for him and his family, had only antiquated plans in a worn-out book at the local lumber yard to choose from. Today the lumber dealer not only strives to have modern plan books on hand, but newspapers and magazines regularly publish new home plan ideas of registered architects, who devote their entire careers to specializing in the small house field.

These architects, as a rule, have studied what people want in their homes and why they want it. One of the most famous among such designers maintains a card-indexed tabulation of everything thousands of people ask for in their homes. This gives him an exact analysis of how a front living room should be planned, the rear garden and in what size house or apartment group. He knows how many people, and what kind of people, want the kitchen near the front of the house, how many who prefer rear basements, expansion, attic, and so on.

The result is that today it is possible to have a house built in the exact village, many miles from the house, and still have it as up-to-date and (especially) as livable as any home in the swankest suburb of the big city.

Dice Game Fight Fatal

PORTLAND (AP)—One man was dead and another in jail booked on a murder charge Monday following what police said was a fight over a dice game early Sunday.

William M. Powell, 36, Portland, was shot and killed in the fight. Alex Rainey, 46, also of Portland, has signed a statement that he shot Powell, police said. They quoted Rainey as saying that Powell had threatened him with a knife.

Eleven dice—nine of them "loaded"—were found in Powell's pocket, police said.

Man Losing Insect War

WASHINGTON (AP)—Man may be losing his age-old battle against insects.

In the forehead of a new 900-page Agriculture Department yearbook titled "Insects," Secretary of Agriculture Brannan calls the situation "disturbing." He wrote:

"We have more insect pests, although we have better insecticides to use against them and better ways to fight them.

Brannan blamed foreign pests which slip through U. S. quarantines for part of the trouble. He urged scientists to continue searching for new methods of fighting bugs.

He said insects are costing the country approximately four billion dollars a year in damage to crops and property.

Warning For Social Drinker

TORONTO (AP)—An American expert on alcohol says more than half of today's alcoholics developed the craze through years of steady social drinking.

Dr. Harry S. Warner, general secretary of the Intercollegiate Association for Study of the Alcohol Problem, told 100 Canadian and American students last night that research by the Yale School of Alcohol Studies showed personality conditions as the chief factor in about 45 per cent of all cases of alcoholism. Social drinking, he said, initiated the remaining 55 per cent.

He said there are 960,000 serious alcoholics in the United States.

A RARE EVENT, that of outliving the life insurance mortality table has put a $1,350 check into the hands of Rudolph Baude (above), a retired Louisville, Ky., jeweler.

"It surprised me," said Baude, as he fingered the check and the policy. Baude won't be 96—the theoretical end of life according to the mortality table—until Nov. 7. But as far as the insurance firm is concerned, he was 96 on the policy's anniversary date, which was Aug. 10, 1952.
