HURRICANE HAYOC—Passers by inspect the most severely damaged home in Beaufort, S. C., after the first tropical hurricane of the season struck the resort and fishing town with 75-mile-an-hour winds. The owner of this home, a 54-year-old Negro woman, was luckily away when the huge tree struck her home.

Marilyn Monroe Neckline Steals Miss America Show

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Fifty-two Miss America beauties take over center stage tonight after playing wallflower roles to the shapely blonde languished atop an open convertible car as parade grand marshal in a scantily-clad, form-fitting black affair that featured a plunging "V" cut to the waist.

Earlier in the day, Miss Monroe posed for a picture aimed at attracting recruits to the women's armed services in a low-necked polka dot dress.

A few hours later, after Army officials got a look at the photograph, newspapers and wire services were asked to withhold it from publication.

Maj. Frank W. McWalters of the Air Force said Miss Monroe's pose was not in line with a program designed to convince parents the services are perfectly proper places for their daughters.

Arab Ruler Gets Richer

LONDON (AP)—The oil-rich Sheik of Qatar, ruler of an independent Arab principality on the Persian Gulf, is going to be even richer. He's now signed up for a 50-50 split on all profits from Petroleum Development, Ltd., yesterday announced the change in its concession agreement. The sheik formerly received only a fixed royalty.

Qatar is a desert peninsula sticking out in the Persian Gulf from Arabia. It has been under British protection since the end of World War I. Oil production is running at the rate of three million tons annually.

Fear Cause Of Inflation

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—"Just plain fear" has caused more inflation than anything else, according to Roger L. Putnam, administrator of the Economic Stabilization Agency.

In an address before the 22nd annual CIO International Oil Workers Union Convention yesterday, Putnam said "scare buying" after the start of the Korean War pushed prices up.

But in the 18 months since price controls have been in effect, he added, the cost of living "has risen only about one-quarter of 1 percent a month, instead of at the rate of 1 percent a month as it was doing before."

Brando Foils Imitators By Taking Diction

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD—Here's bad news for imitators of Marlon Brando: He's taking diction lessons.

The young actor's unique manner of talk has been the butt of many a jibe from night club, radio and television comedians, as well as his fellow actors. His free-speaking performance in "A Street Car Named Desire" brought TV imitations second in number only to Johnny (Sob!) Ray.

I asked Brando if he had seen a classic take-off of him by Sid Caesar.

"Unfortunately no," he replied. "I understand Jerry Lewis had a good one, too. I'd like to have seen them."

Brando said he wasn't at all sensitive about his manner of reading lines. "Why should he be? It earns him $100,000 a picture and upwards." But he's taking diction lessons anyway. The reason for this is that he's playing the second Shakespearean role of his career. You can't really count the first one. It happened eight years ago when Brando was 20 and playing in a small-time summer theater on Long Island. He had a small role in "Richard III" and he says that he wore dyed long underwear for lights.

His current Shakespeare is on a slightly larger scale. This time it's a film version of "Julius Caesar" and the cast includes Greer Garson, Louis Calhern, James Mason, John Gielgud, Deborah Kerr, Edmond O'Brien, etc. Faced with this formidable array, Brando enlisted the aid of a Shakespearean teacher and a diction coach. He explained his reasons:

"I think Shakespeare requires a kind of diction which can be called stage English. Gielgud has it, so does Calhern, Mason, on the other hand, talks English English."

"I talk American English. It's a lot harder to change that to stage English than it is to change English English."

"I accepted this role because I thought it would be good experience for me, and good discipline, too. My kind of acting has always been very free. I always like to be easy and uninhibited in the characterizations I do. But it's a different matter when you do Shakespeare. You immediately have certain bounds and limits beyond which you cannot go."

Since Hamlet is the legendary goal of all actors, I asked Brando if he were interested in playing that role.

"I don't know," he replied. "I think I might be afraid to. It seems to me that playing Hamlet is always the peak of any actor's career. After that, he seems to have nothing to achieve. John Barrymore is a classic example of that."

Shakespeare or no, Brando will again get a chance to display his muscular frame in "Julius Caesar." When I saw him on the set, he was dressed in nothing more than a pair of track shorts, Roman style. He participates in a running race in the Colosseum for the picture.

"There is some justification for it," he explained. "Mark Antony was supposed to have been quite an athlete."

I remarked that the beefcake shot of Brando in the abbreviated T-shirt helped the selling possibilities of "Streetcar."

"That happened quite by accident," he added. "I did the scene in which I threw the radio out of the window and the shirt ripped. They kept it that way."
