

THE NEW PARISH HALL above is to be dedicated Sunday at Merrill's St. Augustine's Church, following dedication at Bonanza of the new St. Francis X. Cabrini Church. A dinner is to be served in the new Parish Hall at 6:30 p.m., Sunday. Tickets are being sold by the Young Peoples Club.

Ike Said Winning Women To GOP Ranks

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—GOP presidential candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower is using his famous twinkling eyes and big smile along with campaign oratory to win the women voters of the country.

Perhaps partially because of this effort, more than half the 250,000 persons who cheered him on Philadelphia's downtown streets yesterday along his 40-block route were women. Some of them ran alongside his car shaking hands and wishing him well.

And again last night at Convention Hall where he made his first big political speech of the campaign, a majority of the audience were women. Reporters traveling with the candidate in his two-day tour of the South said they noted the same trend.

Eisenhower's main theme was peace—a subject always close to the hearts of women.

His most definite accession to the feminine interest in politics came at Independence Hall where he remarked:

"I believe women are even more impressed because the American heritage strikes a little closer to them than to the average man. A man working all day long may get too busy at times to think of the spiritual values of this great shrine. Women, I think, never."

The female enthusiasm was just too much for one middle-aged lady. She broke through the cordon of protecting police at least a half dozen times as Ike left Independence Hall to shout:

"I love you, Ike!"

And the woman behind Ike, pert Mamie Eisenhower, received a rousing ovation when ushered into Convention Hall. Holding a bouquet of roses, she waved and waved.

Local Family Target of Suit

Three members of a Klamath Falls family are named defendants in a lawsuit asking $25,000 damages filed in Circuit Court here yesterday.

They are Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Homer, 2437 Applegate, and their daughter, Helen Ramona Homer.

Wilhelmina Holland of Merrill is plaintiff in the legal action, asking judgment of damages for permanent injuries she says were received in an auto accident at S. 6th and Homedale on July 1, 1952.

She was a passenger in a car operated by William A. Hill of Merrill, which was involved in a collision with the Homer family car, driven by Helen Ramona Homer.

The law firm of Chatham and Brinkner, Merrill, represents the plaintiff.

Then she listened intently as her husband outlined his peace program.

Despite 17,500 screaming enthusiasts inside and at least 5,000 outside, the Convention Hall rally failed to outdraw another major attraction. The New York Yankees whipped the Philadelphia Athletics in an American League night game, 12-2, as 31,424 fans watched Bobby Shantz lose his sixth game while seeking his 23rd win. Shibe Park's capacity is 35,000 compared to 18,000 at the hall.

Port Wallut Supply Base For Indochina Defenders

By LARRY ALLEN
PORT WALLUT, Northeastern Indochina (AP)—Here in Little Port Wallut, which looks like a Hollywood version of a pirate's cove, a big job is being done for the French Union forces defending the Indochina bastion against the tide of communism in Southeast Asia.

Port Wallut lies 65 miles northeast of Haiphong, chief port of the French in Northern Indochina. It's hard to find on a map among the thousands of islands that look like chocolate ice-cream cones jutting out of the green waters of the Bay of Along. It's nestled at the foot of a hilly island with a cove for a harbor for motor launches, landing craft and light ships.

But Port Wallut isn't a French Navy base just because of its scenic beauty or because it so well hidden that the islands thereabouts once were the favorite nests for Chinese pirates.

Port Wallut lies only about 12 miles east of Tien Yen—and that's what counts. Tien Yen, 60 miles northeast of Haiphong, is where the French Union forces are building one of the most powerful lines of fortifications ever seen in Southeast Asia.

It's the job of Port Wallut to see that Tien Yen is supplied with all the building materials and war equipment needed for defense against an always possible Chinese Communist invasion.

Indians May Recall Troops

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—A highly-placed source said today that India's sole contribution to the United Nations forces in Korea—the 390-man Indian Army medical unit—will be called home in November and won't be replaced.

The decision, the source said, was made by Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, Nehru and have frequently criticized the U. N. campaigns against the North Korean and Chinese Communists.

The Indian parachute medical battalion has won high honors for its attendance on U. N. casualties since it went to Korea in November, 1950. It had been presumed here a similar group would be assigned to continue the service when the men now there returned.

Failure to replace the ambulance unit will end India's direct connection with the Korean campaign.

Defense Ministry Officials refused to comment on Nehru's reported decision, terming it "a political question"—a matter for the Prime Minister and Foreign Affairs Ministry.

As word of the action leaked out, there was general disappointment in military circles that India was breaking its only link with the U. N. military command.

India's active support of the Korean campaign virtually ended when U. N. troops crossed the 38th Parallel. Nehru had warned such action would spread the conflict.

Into Port Wallut often come refugees from Southern China, 50 miles northeast, or from the Chinese Communist island of Hainan, 150 miles eastward. Many arrive by fishing boats or sampan; others reach Port Wallut by a long trek overland.

Tall, young, handsome Lt. Pierre Bastart is the "little admiral" for Port Wallut.

It's his job to see that supplies get to Port Wallut, are quickly unloaded, and reach their destination at Tien Yen.
