Bishop Leipzig Dedicates St. Augustine's New Hall

MERRILL — St. Augustine's new parish hall was formally opened and dedicated on Sunday, Sept. 7, with His Excellency Francis P. Leipzig, bishop of Baker City diocese, officiating.

Recitation of the holy rosary and benediction services at 5:30 p.m. were followed by the blessing of the hall, and dinner at 6:30 p.m. Earlier in the day the new mission church in Bonanza was dedicated.

John Degan, acting as toastmaster, told of the growth of the parish, the construction of the present brick church in 1939, parish house in 1940, and now the completion of the new parish hall.

The new hall will provide ample facilities for all social and recreational activities in the parish, for in addition to the large social room, there is a dining room off the kitchen, which can be converted into three separate classrooms, by means of folding partitions. A modern kitchen, attractively painted in soft blue and white, rest rooms, cloak room and heating room complete the interior arrangement. The dining room is a dusty rose, and the social hall is light yellow. Doors and wainscoting in the two rooms are mahogany veneer, and the flooring is pecan wood.

Riverman and Sons, of Portland, were the contractors, and Walt Morrison and Howard of Klamath Falls were the architects.

Toastmaster Degan introduced Mayor F. E. Irtman, who congratulated the parish members on completion of the hall on behalf of the community, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Riverman of Portland, members of the building committee: Gene Hamilton, Jim Lacey, Jim O'Keefe, Toby O'Keefe, John Giacomini and Ben Johnson.

The Alter Society, whose president is Mrs. Don Harris, and the Young People's club, headed by Tom Lacey, were praised by the toastmaster for their efforts in building the hall and also the serving of the dinner.

St. Augustine's pastor, the Rev. John Phelan, was then called upon to introduce visiting clergymen: Fathers Lenson of Lakeview, Spaulding, Burns, Edward, Klamath Falls; Stone, Dufur, McTigue, Prineville; O'Conner, Redding, Sullivan, Weed; Kennedy, Chiloquin, O'Conner, Tulelake; Very Rev. Casey, of Dunsmuir; The Rev. James O'Conner, formerly of Merrill, now of Lakeview; and the Very Rev. T. P. Casey of Sacred Heart Church in Klamath Falls.

Bishop Leipzig concluded the evening's program with inspiring and to the point remarks concerning the part all churches play in the world today, especially with reference to resisting the rise of communism. An estimated 250 were served at the dinner.

Fishermen Settle Strike

ASTORIA — Columbia River fishermen will begin fishing Wednesday night. They voted 82-69 Tuesday to end a month-long strike.

The commercial season opened Wednesday noon after being closed since Aug. 25 when the summer season ended. The fishermen struck Aug. 10 to support demands for higher prices paid for their catches.

Last week Circuit Judge Howard K. Zimmerman ruled that the Columbia River Fishermen's Protective Union was not a bona fide labor organization entitled to picket to support its demands. The ruling prohibited the fishermen from picketing two Astoria canneries. Judge Zimmerman decided the fishermen acted as independent contractors.

The Columbia River Packers Association has announced it would pay these prices for fall-caught fish: 17 cents a pound for first quality chinook, 7 cents for poor quality, 16 cents for silver-side and steelhead.

Robert J. Hicks, union secretary, described this offer as "1943 prices," but the fishermen presumably will accept them.

Monroe Model For New Look In Women

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (U.S. women are entering a new buxom era with Marilyn Monroe's figure being the norm, a fashion expert declared today.

If the Monroe chassis is the norm, this may be the beginning of the wonderful postwar era we were promised but never got. Any way, that is the prediction of Bill Thomas, fashion designer at Universal International.

"Monroe's figure is a sign of the times," said the handsome young designer. "American women are realizing there is nothing wrong with flesh, as long as it is in the right places. It is certainly in the right places on Monroe.

"I think we are seeing an end to the thin, emaciated look that has been the height of fashion ever since the 20s. In those days, women went for the straight, pencil-like form that denied the normal contours of the body. That look was sustained for years by the designers of Paris and New York. The tops in smartness were the lean, hollow-cheeked models.

"But now we are going right back to the 30s. The hour-glass figure is coming back. Fashion is finally returning to what men like best—women with meat on their bones."

Thomas pointed out that American men have expressed their tastes in the film stars who have found the most favor. Among the masculine favorites, none of these could be considered thin—Rita Hayworth, Lana Turner, Jane Russell, Judy Garland, Shelley Winters, Elizabeth Taylor, Betty Grable.

"By past standards, some of these girls would be considered overweight," he said. "I remember when I was working with Lana on 'The Three Musketeers.' After she returned from a week end, we had to let out the seams of her costumes and keep them together with pins.

"But you don't hear men complaining about the buxomness of Lana and the others. They like women that way."

He mentioned other stars who have dieted themselves so painfully that they have to be padded for their film roles. One in particular recently modeled a show-girl costume with tight: neck to ankles, all padded.

Thomas remarked that the new, unhoisted era was made possible by the introduction of cinches and other gadgets for slimming the waist. "With these devices women can let themselves go," he said. "As long as their waistsline can be cut down, they will look fashionable."

"This will mean an emancipation for women who have been suffering with diets for years. They can eat those potatoes and desserts now. Well, a little more, anyway. But here's a note of caution: Although they can eat more, they also have to exercise more. That's to keep the weight well distributed."

Among the screen newcomers, Thomas cited Piper Laurie and Susan Ball as good examples of the new buxom look. "By previous standards, they might have been considered fat," he said, "but they're not. They're just ample, that's all."

Canada Prison Officials Fired

TORONTO (U.S. Ontario's Premier Leslie Frost Tuesday night suspended the prison governor, deputy governor and six guards of Don Jail where four death row criminals broke out Monday.

Frost declared there was "something rotten in Denmark" when four condemned men — including one with a wooden leg — could pull off such an escape.

IWA Appoints Research Head

PORTLAND — Officials of the CIO International Woodworkers of America have appointed Edward W. Kenney, Portland, director of research and education for the union.
