CIO Woodworkers Oppose Sale of Indian Timber

PORTLAND (AP) — The CIO Woodworkers said here Thursday the policy of the Bureau of Indian Affairs in selling Indian-owned timber in large blocks "has tightened the grip of the big timber monopolies on the state's dwindling timber supply."

A resolution, protesting the sales in the Pacific Northwest, also urged that the Indians be given full citizenship.

Specifically mentioned was the sale of 614 million feet of Quinault timber in Washington to Rayonier, Inc.

"The conditions of the sale made it possible for Rayonier, Inc., to be the sole bidder, acquiring the timber at a price which is at least a third below the going market price," the resolution said.

A merger of the Woodworkers and the CIO Paper Workers was proposed in another resolution.

Assistant Labor Secretary Robert T. Creasey said the whole country had been benefited by labor's fight for better wages and working conditions.

Creasey also praised labor's legislative program, particularly for gains in social security, education for veterans, aid programs for foreign allies and measures to stop Communism in Greece and Turkey.

The convention turned down a proposal to eject Julia Eaton Bertram Ruuttila from the press table. The proposal was made on the ground that her writings often appear in the People's World and other left wing newspapers.

"I hate Communism, but I believe in democracy and freedom of the press," said Fred Fieber, vice president of the British Columbia District Council, who opposed her expulsion.

Mrs. Ruuttila was discharged by the Oregon Civil Service Board several years ago because of her writings.

Adolph Germer, special CIO representative from Salt Lake City, commended the convention for its action.

"We have no right to claim rights for ourselves that we would deny to others," he said.

The convention voted to seek legislation to curb the power of Canadian courts to grant labor injunctions, especially without both sides being given a full hearing.

Death Claims Baltimore's 1st Ship-Tying Impresario

BALTIMORE (AP) — Pietro Antonio Cataneo, businessman, died yesterday. He was 64.

His death won't cause any particular stir in Chamber of Commerce circles, nor will an appraisal of his holdings be necessary. But news of his death will be lamented around the world.

Cataneo, Tony to everyone, was in the ship tying business. That's all, just tying up ships when they docked on the Baltimore waterfront. But he was known well by steamship agents on both coasts and by skippers and crews that frequented this port.

Tony immigrated here from his native Foggia, Italy, in 1906. He was a stevedore until he opened a tiny lunch shack in the early '20s opposite Pier 8 in the lower Canton section.

By 1927 he was all but bankrupt. He owed 50 months ground rent ($750) for the land where his rundown lunch shack stood.

Then came the break. It happened so naturally he almost missed it.

He was standing in front of his shack when he heard a ship's officer yell: "Will somebody please take a line?"

Tony grabbed the heaving line when it was thrown over and pulled the hawser to the pier. He got $3 for the helping hand.

Then the officer promised him $2 more if he would throw off the line when the ship sailed. Tony did.

That started him thinking. One ship . . . $5. Lotsa ships. . . lotsa dollars.

He started making calls to the steamship lines and found his services were welcomed. Soon he and his son were busy enough meeting ships to give the lunch shack up.

Tony, talking about it recently, made it sound so simple.

"I laugh at myself when I think how I didn't catch on in all those years. I had to be down and out, sitting in my lunchroom with nothing to do but look at ships. Then I see the same thing — nobody to take lines. Something give me a push. I went out to take the lines. Now my Mike and I have built up the profession of line catching."

Mike takes over the business, with 20-odd employes.

All from a $5 idea.

Death Claims Joseph Short

WASHINGTON (AP)—White House Press Secretary Joseph H. Short, 48, died suddenly last night at his home in nearby Alexandria, Va.

No immediate cause of death was given. Mrs. Short, the former Beth Campbell, said she heard him fall upstairs, ran up and found his heart had stopped.

Short, a native of Vicksburg, Miss., had been President Truman's press secretary since Dec. 18, 1950. A newsman since 1925, he succeeded Charles G. Ross, who had collapsed and died at his desk.

The White House said Short became ill last Tuesday night and was hospitalized with a virus infection. He returned home Monday to recuperate.

"Joe Short's death," President Truman said in a statement, "is as shocking to me as if he had been a member of my own family.

"For he was more than a trusted and valued assistant. I know how unsparing of his health he was in his service to me and to his country. . . ."

Short, a graduate of Virginia Military Institute, began his newspaper career in 1925 as a reporter for the Jackson (Miss.) Daily News. He returned to that paper in 1927 after a year on the Vicksburg Post and Herald.

In 1928-29 he worked for the New Orleans Times-Picayune, leaving to join The Associated Press at Richmond, Va. During 1931-41 he served in The AP's Washington bureau, then shifted to the Chicago Sun's Washington staff, moving two years later to the Baltimore Sun.

Short was president of the National Press Club in 1948.

Survivors include Mrs. Short and three children.

- SHIPBUILDING DECLINES

NEW YORK (AP) — Shipbuilding throughout the world declined slightly during the second quarter of 1952, according to Lloyd's Register of Shipping. It reported 1,190 steam and motor ships totaling 5,614,183 tons on the ways compared with 1,224 totaling 5,680,568 in the first three months of the year.

State Department Bares Red Slave Labor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department spread on the record Friday a mass of evidence that the Soviet Union and its satellites have millions of captives in slave labor camps.

With President Truman's endorsement, the department made public a 69-page report rounding up official documents, testimony on refugees and other evidence in support of this conclusion:

"The number of slave laborers in the Soviet Union and its satellites runs into the millions and represents the most extreme violation of human rights on the face of the earth today."

It was a detailed summary of evidence prepared for a special fact-finding committee of the United Nations and the international labor organization. The committee held hearings at New York in June, and is due to resume sessions next month at Geneva, Switzerland.

The summary was put together with the help of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations, working through the international confederation of free trade-unions.

With only a passing reference to other forms of Communist coercion, the State Department declared that the evidence showed:

1. Forced labor has been continuous throughout the existence of the Soviet system and has grown into a vast institution since Deputy Premier V. M. Molotov told a 1931 Soviet Congress at Moscow:

"We have never attempted to conceal that in certain operations we use the labor of prisoners who are healthy and capable of labor. We have done this in the past, we are doing it now, and we shall do it in the future."

2. Although the exact number of prisoners is a Soviet state secret, calculations range from two million to 20 million.

3. The prisoners are largely political offenders or persons guilty of minor derelictions. Common criminals are a small minority and are allowed to dominate, even terrorize, the others.

Two Violate OPS Rules

PORTLAND (AP) — Two Roseburg potato dealers were charged Thursday with violating price ceilings. An OPS complaint in Federal Court accused Donald A. Matson and Donald C. Bliss of selling seed potatoes in May for nearly $715 more than ceiling prices. The men operate the firm of Matson & Bliss.

The government seeks triple damages.

Debbie Reynolds Youth Revealed In Her Action

By JAMES BACON
(For vacationing Bob Thomas)

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Youth is a wonderful thing, and Debbie Reynolds is not wasting it.

What other movie star spends a whole day on arduous dance routines for the movies and then spends her evenings jitterbugging at the Hollywood Palladium?

Or average three banana splits a week?

Or munches popcorn at swank Hollywood premieres?

Jitterbugging was just about the extent of Debbie's dancing until she scored in "Singin' in the Rain."

She recalls how the front office told her to learn how to tap dance, that MGM was putting her in a picture with a couple of dancers.

"Who are they," she asked.

"Donald O'Connor and Gene Kelly."

"See you later," said Debbie.

She studied and learned so well that she is now listed as one of the studio's most promising musical stars. Only two years out of high school, Debbie's previous musical background was blowing the French horn and twirling batons at the prep football games.

Her "Singin' in the Rain" success got her another job dancing with O'Connor in "I Love Melvin" and with Marge and Gower Champion in "Give a Girl a Break."

So far, she has been pretty busy for romance, but it looks as if young Bob Wagner is No. 1 boy friend. She hinted that indirectly.

"I think Gregory Peck is the greatest," she confided, extolling the various entertainers who "send her." (Others: singer Billy Daniels and Les Brown's band.)

"I saw that man make love to Ann Blyth in a movie last night," enthused Debbie. "I just wilted. What a divine, gentle way he has of handling women!"

Then came her opinion of Wagner.

"R. J. (her pet name for him) has the same way with women," she said, and then added:

"On the screen, I mean."

BROWNIE, the police dog pictured above with his master, Almo Vido of Pelican City, has disappeared. Almo is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Vido, Rt. 3, Box 605. A week ago Brownie's collar was taken from the dog and found nearby. The next morning Brownie was gone. The dog was the family pet, and 10-year-old Almo would like to have him back. Anyone seeing a police dog which might be Brownie is asked to call 2-0258.

Kiwanis Chief Tells Warning

Lt. Gov. Horace C. Berg, Roseburg, Kiwanis district 18, told Klamath Falls Kiwanis Club members yesterday "we are close to losing our liberty."

No country, he said, has ever survived where the tax ratio was greater than one-third of the income. He noted that the theme of Kiwanis this year is "Liberty. Let's Keep It."

Quoting from the Kiwanis "Ballot Battalion," Berg pointed out that every single individual vote means much more than most people think. Oregon Idaho and California, among others were all states admitted to the Union by a mere one-vote margin.

Berg said he would like to see a "Key Club," under sponsorship of Kiwanis, formed in the high school here. The clubs as organized in other cities consist of key youths in the schools.

BURNED SPUDS

PRINEVILLE (AP) — The sun was so hot hereabouts Thursday that it sunburned the potatoes. That put a temporary halt to the spud harvest.

Some growers said they would try night-time picking if the weather doesn't change in a day or so. It was 91 here Thursday.
