PREPARING SUPPER for the Annual Lutheran Women's Guild Banquet are Bob Rutter, Bill Kirchner and Frank Eberlein. The event was held at the Zion Lutheran Church Thursday evening.

Shrine Circus Opens Doors Today

Like a modern and benevolent Pied Piper, the fourth annual Klamath Falls Shrine Club-Polack Bros. Circus today began exerting its magnetic influence over those young in years and those still young in spirit.

Children were expected to make up most of the crowd at this afternoon's opening performance at the Klamath Armory. There will be another tonight at 8:15, two more tomorrow at 2:15 and 8:15, and two Monday at 3:45 and 8:15.

Klamath Falls is the concluding stand of an extensive five-month tour of the Pacific Coast, starting in April, the circus plays 18 cities of California and Reno, Nevada.

before beginning its swing through the Northwest at Seattle in mid-August. From here, the show heads back eastward by way of Denver but will not conclude its 1952 season until the second week in December in Charleston, W. Va.

Riggers and prop hands this morning completed the task, started yesterday, of installing the circus in the armory.

It took a minor engineering feat to set up the triple-wide apparatus of the Nine Wand-Bell Flyers and two lofty pedestals supporting the high wire of the Great Wallendas, who are also nine in number.

In between were hung the dual trapezes of Les Geraldos, daring acrobats from France, and the perpendicular ropes, known in circus parlance as Spanish webs upon which the Aerialvelles perform in graceful unison.

On the sidelines, to be brought out quickly during the fast-flowing sequence of the circus program, were the oddly assorted props used by such ground acts as the Theron Family wizards of cycling; the Four Whirlwinds, gyrating quartet on roller skates; Francis Brun, high-velocity juggler; the Myron Duo, foot-balancing experts; Hermanos Ibarra, horizontal-bar champions, and the Karrel Troupe whose nine members balance on high Roman ladders.

Not a spangle was in sight as performers, in working clothes, joined prop hands in putting up their own rigging. But in dressing rooms, dozens of trunks yielded a fairland array of glistening gay-colored costumes, and brilliant plumage.

Following their arrival by railroad baggage car, the Packs elephant prodigies and the performing camels of Jack Joyce were established in temporary stables, adjacent the Armory.

Convenient to the circus arena were placed the portable quarters of Joe Lemke's chimpanzees, the jockey dogs of Karl Petersens, the penguins and seals of Albert Spiller, and the precocious poodles of Harold Gautier's canine surprise, "Excess Baggage."

Amid the bustle of setting up the circus, a group of serious-looking men bustled themselves unpacking trunks and crates of bizarre contents. An observer would never guess they were clowns.

Out of one mysterious box came the tiny automobile from which six-foot-two Chester "Bob" Barnett makes his entry in the comedy prologue 15 minutes before each performance.

Geary Backs Legislature For Oregon Road Program

Ed Geary, who has been active in Oregon state highway taxation programs for two terms of the legislature, made a strong plea for Oregon voters to affirm the legislature's program, in a talk to the Rotary Club Friday noon at the Willard Hotel.

There are 48 different means of paying for highways in the 48 states he said. The Oregon state constitution provides that all money collected from highway use must be spent on highways and prohibits a property tax on licensed vehicles.

Oregon was the first state to pass the fuel tax and the first state to pass the weight-mile truck tax. The 1951 program for financing highways was set up on a three-point system: the fuel tax, the plate fee and the weight-mile tax.

The license plate fee ($10 per year for passenger cars) was reduced for trucks to 70 cents per 100 pounds light weight.

The weight-mile tax was put in effect to offset the reduction in truck plate fee, and to equalize the tax on the basis of use of the roads, Geary said. This set up a tax on trucks based on the weight of the truck and the number of miles it runs on Oregon highways.

Oregon people will vote on this program because the Oregon Highway Council, an organization of long-haul truckers, used the referendum to stop the weight-mile law until decided by popular vote last November and used the initiative to put up a proposal for a constitutional amendment which would prohibit any highway use tax except through fuel tax and license plate based on vehicle weight, Geary said.

He said that this would prohibit a fair means of financing highways because big long-haul trucks can fill up on diesel oil at tide-water in California or Washington, use Oregon highways for the length of the state and pay no part of a fuel tax. Also, on that basis, a long-haul truck would pay no more plate fee than a logging or farm truck of like weight which would run only a few miles on state roads.

"There is no reason Oregon should provide 300 miles of through highways free to the long-haul trucks."

"It's a question of whether the legislature or a special interest writes the laws for the state of Oregon," Geary said.

Home Ec Unit Holds Rally

MALIN—A Rally Meeting of the Malin Home Extension Unit was held at the High School Home Economics Room on Tuesday evening, September 9.

Ladies present answered roll call and introduced the lady next to her. Chairmen of Standing Committee were appointed as follows by Unit President, Virginia Blohm: Membership, Norma Petrasek; Luncheon, Helen Rajnus; Recreation, Lucile Gray; Publicity, Teresa McComb and Gladys Halousck; Standard Unit, Patsy Ottomari; World Citizenship, Mrs. Ann Lohoda.

A wild plum display, which had been raised in her own back yard from a seed, was shown by Mrs. Teresa McComb.

Present for the Rally meeting were: Irena Jelinek, Mildred Dobry, Mildred Rajnus, Violeta Kunz, Alice Owens, Lillian Derra, Bonita Mauney, Bessie Cornett, Clara Scott, Elizabeth Dalton, Betty Lou Byrne, Virginia Blohm, Nell Irvin, Gladys Rajnus, Patsy Ottomari, Blanche Fields and Teresa McComb.

Refreshments were served. Basic Tools, Slates and salad dressings, Points and Charm and Reupholstering were named as projects for the coming meetings.

The Malin Unit meets the first Tuesday of each month at 7:30 in the evening in the High School Home Economics Room. All ladies in the community are cordially invited to attend.

Officers are: President Virginia Blohm; Vice president, Patsy Ottomari and Violeta Kunz, Secretary, Treasurer.

Neslin Buys Circus Ducats

The proprietor of the Oregon Woolen Store, Sam Neslin, is out seven dollars today, all because of a radio program.

The program, Charlie's Roundup, heard over KFLW at 7:15 in the morning, offered three reserved seats to the Shrine-Polack Bros. circus to the first person over sixty years old who planned to take his mother or father to the circus.

Neslin, by the way, was killed before 7:30 Friday morning, and before Neslin opened his store at 9 a.m. Charles L. Hawkins, 64, was waiting at the door with his mother, who is 81.

The blaze apparently started in a side wall and damaged the wall and part of the roof. City fire equipment was called at 3:15 a.m.

Fire Damages Fremont Home

An early morning fire damaged a frame house at 1845 Fremont today.

The residence, owned by W. J. Easter of 1100 California, was vacant and up for sale.

The blaze apparently started in a side wall and damaged the wall and part of the roof. City fire equipment was called at 3:15 a.m.

Idahoan Hits 'Double Talk'

EMMETT, Idaho (AP)—Rep. John T. Wood (R-Idaho) accused the Truman administration Friday of "double talk" regarding repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Speaking to a Gem County Republican rally, Wood said "the Truman administration indicated four years ago it would seek repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, but no repealer was introduced despite the fact the Truman administration had majorities in both the Senate and House."

"I cannot see why labor would believe the administration now in the light of broken pledges," he said.

FOUR-LEGGED CHICKEN

PROVOST, Canada (AP)—A chicken on the farm of Mrs. Allan Shurmer here has four legs. The chicken is quite lively and gets along very well with the extra equipment.

Parents, Patrons Stage Fete For Malin Teachers

MALIN — A reception honoring Malin teachers was held Tuesday evening, September 16 at 8 o'clock p.m. The reception, annually sponsored by the Malin Parent-Patrons Club, was held this year in the new Grade School Gymnasium with a large crowd attending.

A short welcome address by Mrs. Bill Rajnus, club president, opened the meeting, followed by the flat salute and the singing of "America the Beautiful."

A. E. Street, high school principal, was called upon to explain the policies of the school board in regard to athletic equipment and athletic fields.

Treasurer, Mrs. Loyal Saunders, reported that over one hundred seventy dollars was made at the auction sale in Merrill on September 7 and thanks was expressed by Mrs. Rajnus to all the parents who donated food for the sale.

The president announced that a membership drive will be held during the week of October 6th, during which time a committee at both the grade and high school will be present to take membership fees.

Mrs. Floyd Mauney, program chairman, announced the program for the coming months; the first being a Travelogue by Dr. Roy McNeal of Southern Oregon College at Ashland. Other meetings planned will be a panel discussion in regard to report cards, book reviews, hobby show and mental hygiene study, to name a few.

Highlight of the evening was the introducing of the teachers by Mrs. Rajnus. As each was introduced they were presented with a corsage or boutonniere.

Teachers introduced and welcomed were: Mrs. Dorothy Gordon, Mrs. Margaret McHenry, Mrs. Irena Jelinek, Mrs. Elsie Mock, Mrs. Betty Miller, Floyd Mauney, Mrs. Mildred Totell, Mrs. Marilee Butler, Miss Gloria Nandle, Aarl Bennett, Don Miller, Mrs. Anita Stevens, Mrs. Jean Keeter, Jim Conroy, Charles Dobry and A.E. Street.

Mrs. Evelyn Hagerty and Mrs. Effa Johnson, teachers at the Malin Harvest Camp, were also welcomed and presented corsages.

Parents new to the Malin schools this year were also introduced and welcomed.

In charge of the musical program was Mrs. Ab Herringshaw, who announced the following as they entertained: Hawaiian dances, "Song of Old Hawaii" and "To You So Dear, Aloha" by Lynette Lyon, with the vocal sung by Mrs. Vestia Shogren; two vocal solos sung by Karen Rajnus entitled "Little Yellow Dog" and "The Lilac Tree"; a buggy ride dance number to the tune of "Mocking Bird Hill" with Sharon Lyons and Susan Kula; and a reading called "The Little Red Schoolhouse" by Mrs. Stanley Johnson.

Refreshments were served buffet style from a delightfully arranged table centered with a cascading bouquet of pink flowers. Mrs. Edwin Stastny was in charge of refreshments and table decorations were done by Mrs. Ruby Kujala.

Vital Part of Picture Is Selection of Title

By JAMES BACKSON
(For vacationing Bob Thomas)

HOLLYWOOD — What is the most important single factor in the box office success of a movie star, director or story?

Note of those, I say, and I find some important Hollywood people who agree with me that a picture often makes or loses a buck solely on its title.

Last year, MGM made a highly entertaining picture called "Angels in the Outfield." Critics liked it, and apparently most who saw it liked it. But it didn't do business and MGM blames the title. The story was a fantasy that should have appealed to baseball fans and non-baseball fans alike. However, the title tabbed it as all-baseball and although the game is our national pastime, baseball pictures generally are not strong box office.

One of the year's best suspense films was a sleeper made by Paramount called "The Atomic City." The picture had no big names, but the word-of-mouth should have brought the customers in. Paramount changed the title midway in the run to "19 Elevator St." It apparently only confused the customers.

Another title-changing, incidentally, is the chronic despair of publicity departments. They spend months publicizing a picture under one title, only to have it open under another. If a picture fails, it's seldom the stars' or director's fault, the publicity people moan. The press agents usually get blamed for not selling the picture properly.

Doing a little research on this subject, I contacted Arthur Hornblow Jr., one of MGM's top money producers.

"You couldn't have come to a more inexperienced person," said Hornblow. "I'm the fellow who produced 'The Asphalt Jungle' and held out against a change of title."

"That picture was one of the year's best a few seasons ago. It was nominated for an Academy Award, but it never did business."

"I'm convinced that alteration is the key to title success," remarked Hornblow. He then recited off his best money-making successes: "Ruggles of Red Gap," "Waikiki Wedding," "I Wanted Wings," "Weekend at the Waldorf," "Cat and the Canary" and "The Major and the Minor."

Only days after I talked with him, he changed the title of his current picture with Esther Williams. Originally called "One-Piece Bath Suit," it henceforth will be known as "Million Dollar Mermaid."
