NIXON REPORTS
he was scheduled to speak next Wednesday.

NIXON REPORTS
Earlier, he had given out word that he would issue a complete statement today on his entire financial history. But Press Secretary James Basset said this unusual accounting would be incorporated in the radio-television speech, possibly with a supplementary detail report.

NIXON REPORTS
When this latter statement will be issued has not been determined.

A report on expenditures from the $18,000 fund already has been given by Dana F. Smith of Passa-dena, Calif., a trustee of the fund, at Nixon's instigation, along with a list of the contributors.

Nixon's post-midnight announcement came just six hours before his special train was to have left for Seattle, with speech-making whistle stops along the way.

The California senator looked calm and more relaxed than he has in the hectic few days since the story of political expenses broke and slowly developed into a major campaign issue.

NIXON REPORTS
He has received a generally favorable reaction in speeches since that of defending the donations by

In a Portland speech which drew a standing ovation Saturday night, the vice presidential nominee said it was a lie that he took the money for his personal use and he denied that it was illegal and unethical as charged.

NIXON REPORTS
If that were true, let me say first of all that I should never have accepted the nomination for the vice presidency of the United States; and if it were true I would get out of the ticket right away. But it is not true and I think you should of the $18,000 or anything else from a constituent went into my personal pocket. It never has and it
