Teamsters Open Way For Retirement of Dan Tobin

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The powerful AFL International Teamsters Union has opened the way for retirement of Dan Tobin, its president for 45 years, at an increased salary of $50,000 a year.

The Union's 16th national convention Tuesday increased the salaries of president and secretary-treasurer from $30,000 to $50,000 each. John F. English hold the latter job. The executive board was empowered to continue their pay for life.

There has been considerable speculation whether Tobin, whose age is estimated from 77 to 85, would retire, and whether Dave Beck, $25,000-a-year executive vice president, would succeed him.

Commenting on the salary increase yesterday, Tobin said:

"I opposed a similar proposal at the last convention five years ago. I am not opposing it now because it is possible that there may be another president. . . We haven't made up our minds."

Beck told newsmen, "The general executive board is unanimous in my selection to succeed Tobin, if he steps down, now or in the future.

"I will not be a candidate for the presidency unless Tobin declines to seek re-election."

Under terms if Tuesday's amendment, if Tobin resigns to become president emeritus, the executive board could appoint a successor. As president emeritus, Tobin would remain as chairman of the board.

Six Killed By Unknown Ills

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) —Diphtheria or food poisoning has claimed six lives in the Bethel area 400 miles west of here, the Alaska Health Department reported Tuesday.

The Department said 14 of 44 cases in the area have been confirmed as diphtheria. But whether the deaths were due to diphtheria or an epidemic of food poisoning reported at the same time has not been determined.

The health department said it is sending all available diphtheria antitoxin from Anchorage to Bethel and additional supplies are being obtained in Seattle and New York.

The Alaska Native Service hospital at Bethel reported the first five cases arrived last Wednesday. Cultures flown to Anchorage confirmed they were diphtheria.

Six of the deaths occurred in one village where 16 persons were stricken, the department said.

Bethel's hospital was destroyed by fire last year and patients are being cared for in temporary quarters set up in a quonset hut.

Top Walker Shuns Hike

TEANECK, N. J. (AP)—Former National Walking Champion James H. Hocking, 96 years old today but still spry and chipper, won't take the long hike with which he usually ushers in his birthdays.

Hocking had every intention of walking 20 miles through Palisades Interstate Park to mark the occasion today, but his son and the family physician talked him out of it.

He says he walked 2,854 miles during his 95th year and more than 250,000 miles in his lifetime.

Erskine Johnson Reports Hollywood On The Record

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA) — Hollywords, On the Record: George Raft, on the 18-month income tax exemption kick:

"I'm going to try it. But I don't think actors have much chance to get by with it. The law was passed to give geologists and other skilled people some compensation for working in Europe. The salaries of stars are too important to the government, I think, to let the exemption apply to them."

Barbara Payton, about men, in a national magazine:

"A man's sex appeal begins with the way he says good morning and ends with the way he says goodnight."

Shelly Winters, about a girl friend shedding a hubby after only a month's marriage:

"You should only marry men you know."

Dunninger, the master mentalist:

"You know something? — my memory is terrible. Nine times out of 10 I can't remember my telephone number and I have to look it up."

Donald O'Connor, about working at different studios:

"It gives me an opportunity to work with new creative talent at each studio—writers, directors and producers, plus other actors I've never worked with. A new choreographer, for instance, is something that challenges a dancer's imagination—and I like it."

Corinne Calvet, to Mike Connolly:

"By now I'm sure everybody and his brother knows I'm really French, but I'm still not going to drop my lawsuit against Zsa Zsa Gabor for saying I'm really an English girl. She must be made an example for others who seek to destroy the reputations of successful people."

George Burns, about Gracie Allen:

"People think Gracie is a comedienne. She isn't. She's an actress. If I had to replace her in our act, I would have to team up with someone like Jane Wyman."

Richard Green, on the subject of his glamorous dates:

"Rita Hayworth? She's a married woman, so how can people talk about a romance between us We're just friends, Lady Ashley? I've known her for years. It doesn't have to be a romance if you take a friend out for an evening."

Robert Mitchum, fishing at Sportsmen's Lodge, told an attendant:

"With the line I've got, they just wait to get batted."

Zsa Zsa Gabor: "I'm not interested in money but I would be very unhappy if I didn't have it."

Marilyn Monroe, about sex appeal:

"I think everything counts. Curves are all right, but I think there should be something underneath the curves, too—a lot comes from the inside as well as the outside."

Bette Davis, on the quick 24-day shooting schedule of "The Star":

"There was a time when Warner Bros. spent five months on my films. It was ridiculous. But it was the cameramen, not the actors or the directors, who slowed things down. I like fast filming—it's fun again."

Author James Thurber, about TV:

"I won a television set four years ago on a quiz program. But it's broken down and I've been careful not to wake it up."

Helen Deutsch, the screenwriter, comparing today's film plays with yesterday's classics:

"There's no question about it—screenplays are far better today than they were in the past. I've looked at 15 or 20 old movies recently — movies that people remember and keep talking about. They were laughable. I was appalled. They were great pictures in their time, but they don't stand up under modern critical yardsticks."

Young Montgomery Clift Mystery To Movie Crowd

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The movie crowd has never been able to understand Montgomery Clift.

The quiet young actor from Omaha, Neb., flashed on the film horizon five years ago. He was an immediate sensation with movie audiences and attracted a young following that was reminiscent of Frank Sinatra's. But he made no effort to cash in on his new fame.

He failed to feed his following with enough pictures to keep his name in lights. Instead, he turned down script after script. He acted in only five pictures in his entire film career. After being away from the cameras for almost three years, he is back for another picture, "I Confess."

Clift is noted for being able to elude an interviewer's questions like a Notre Dame halfback. But I persisted and pinned him down on how he has managed his movie career.

"I don't want to appear overly choosy in the way I pick scripts," he remarked. "But I feel an obligation to those who want to see me on the screen. I want to be sure that they don't feel cheated when they see me in a picture. The only way to do that is to pick scripts as carefully as possible."

He admitted that by appearing in so few films he has neglected the clamorous young audience that greeted his film debut.

"I'm sorry about that," he said. It's good to have those kids on your side. But to keep them I'd have to make two or three pictures every year. I don't want to make pictures just for the sake of making pictures. I want them to be good."

Clift reported that he often turns down good scripts merely because he thinks the leading part doesn't fit him. He mentioned one highly successful Western which he refused because he felt he was too young for the role.

"Unfortunately, there are a lot of good parts that call for an older man," he said. "And I happen to look younger than I really am." He'll be 32 tomorrow.

Clift declared that he will continue his formula of picking and choosing. If it's any consolation to the film industry, he has just as much trouble finding a play. He has been looking for several years.

Shell Hits Truce Zone

MUNSAN (AP)—Allied truce negotiators today said a U. N. artillery shell landed Oct. 8 within the Panmunjom neutral zone and they regret the incident.

Col. Charles W. McCarthy, chief U. N. liaison officer, said in a note to the Reds that "every effort will be continued to prevent recurrences."

Bargains Get Better Play

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Federal Reserve Board report Wednesday indicated that sales in department store bargain basements are holding up better than general sales.

The report said sales in 353 large department stores across the nation were off 2 per cent this August compared with August last year.

They were 3 per cent less in the first eight months of this year than during the same period of 1951.
