

LET'S GO!

By RUTH KING

It's "tater" time in the Klamath country. To celebrate another bumper crop, hard-working committees of the 16th Annual Klamath Basin Potato Festival will entertain you on a grand scale, down Merrill way, come Friday and Saturday.

It takes pretty girls for royalty... good soil and sun and rain... machinery and manpower to raise a crop to shout about... the combination is an unbeatable argument for having fun.
