Youth Hears 'Home' Show

A Klamath Falls soldier in Korea recently heard the "Way Back Home" radio program which featured Klamath Falls.

Capt. Alford A. Anderson wrote KFLW announcer Charlie McFarlan he heard the program while in Pusan. McFarlan put the Klamath portion of the show on, interviewing a Klamath couple and discussing hunting, fishing and Crater Lake here.

"You are sure right," Anderson wrote, "when you say it's the best hunting in the U.S. here. I was born and raised in good old Klamath Falls and to me there is no place like it."

Anderson said the program made him feel as though he were actually "back home", which he said he hoped he soon would be.

Oregon Caves To Stay Open

The Oregon Caves, southwest of Grants Pass, remain open the year around, according to word received by the Chamber of Commerce here.

A report from the Caves headquarters said information coming from Klamath Falls had wrongly been passed along to tourists saying the caves were closed during the winter.

Crater Lake National Park and the Lava Beds National Monument all remain open through the winter though at Crater Lake the lodge and cafeteria close.

A warning but there is maintained for skiers and tourists during a good portion of the winter, however, and roads are maintained as well as weather conditions will permit.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters has boosted the dues of its 1,250,000 members to increase its surplus to 69 million dollars.

Purpose of the hike, approved by the union's 16th national convention Wednesday after a boisterous debate, was stated by Dave Beck, executive vice president:

"President Dan Tobin wants a 60 million dollar surplus in the treasury," he told the convention. "The increase raised per capita contributions to the international from 30 to 40 cents a month. Sparkman Echoes Slams

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Sen. John Sparkman, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, says the Republican Party chose Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as its presidential candidate for "an attempt at victory through masquerade."

Opening a three-day campaign swing through vitally important Pennsylvania, Sparkman told a campaign rally Wednesday night the GOP believed "if only they could disguise the old and bankrupt Republican Party behind the military toga of a five-star general they might then march straight to victory."

"What they forgot is one of the basic rules of the Army—a general is only as good as the troops he leads. He can have every aspect of military genius. He can have courage surpassing a mountain lion. He can know the rules of military science by heart. But he cannot make something out of nothing," the Alabama Senator added.

Sparkman told a crowd of about 1,000 at the $10-a-plate dinner the GOP is seeking "to make fear the American watchword" and that the Republicans do not have a crusade "no matter how many slogans they mouth, how many jingles they shout."

Navy Officers To Interview Prospective Naval Cadets

Lieut. D. E. Wilson, Naval aviation cadet procurement officer for the Northwest, and O. L. Fischer, aviation electrician chief, will be at the recruiting office in Klamath Falls, Oct. 23. Lieut. Wilson and Chief Fischer will interview any young men interested in the Navy's flight training program.

Navy flight training is open to any young man who is unmarried, 18 to 27 years of age, has at least two years of college, and is able to pass the standard Navy flight physical and mental examinations. Naval Aviation Cadets enter 18 months of training at Pensacola, Fla., the "Annapolis of the Air."

Upon completion of flight training they are commissioned as ensigns in the Naval Reserve or as second lieutenants in the Marine Corps Reserve with pay and allowances amounting to $5400 per year.

During the 18 months of flight training navcads are paid $109 monthly. After receiving his commission the aviator serves two and one-half years with the operating forces.

Upon completion of his four years of duty as a navcad and a naval aviator, he may return to his home area and join the Naval Air Reserve as a "Weekend Warrior" and fly one weekend each month and two weeks each summer with full pay and allowances.

Once a young man makes application to become a navcad he will be completely processed and enrolled in one week if he so desires. Tests are given to any qualified man desiring to take them with no obligation on the applicant's part. Men who will graduate at the end of the present term may enroll in the navcad program now and report for light training after graduation. Men who have taken their pre-induction physical examination but who have not received notice to report for induction may enroll in the Naval Aviation Cadet program.

Interviews will be held at the recruiting office in Klamath Falls, 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., Oct. 23. Information in regard to other Naval Reserve programs leading to commissions will also be available.

Peron Calls For New Auto Production

By STANFORD BRADSHAW

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — A new theme of "one car in every garage" is being sounded by President Juan D. Peron. This program sounds particularly attractive in Argentina, where only one person in 70 owns a car.

General Motors, Ford and Chrysler have assembly plants in Buenos Aires, but have not fabricated cars for themselves since early 1948. Peron's government, to save foreign exchange, has refused to grant import licenses to the firms. Some few licenses have been given to persons with contacts in the government.

The result is a market where new chevrolats are selling for $6,000 plus. Cadillacs, much beloved by Argentina's new aristocracy, carry $10,000 price tags. That puts car ownership far out of reach of the average Argentine, who earns perhaps $100 a month.

To give these workers some hope, and also to encourage a nationalistic spirit, the government announced last March that it would build motor cars in its Aerotechnical Institute at Cordoba.

The explanation was that it had a lot of expensive machinery there for building planes for the Argentine Air Force, but a shortage of materials was leaving the plant idle, so they'd build automobiles instead.

The car, a lightweight two-cylinder job, is to be produced in three models—a sedan, a station wagon and a pickup truck. It is called "Justicialista" after Peron's political program.

Three prototypes were presented to Peron May 1 and it was announced 5,000 models would be produced within a year. Peron, in a later speech, promised that within five years Argentina would be exporting instead of importing cars.

So far the factory has not announced prices. The impression exists that the factory is still in the planning stage and that it will be some time before cars are being produced in any numbers.

Argentina's automobile dealers are finding the going rough. Their new car business—due to the import ban—is at a virtual standstill. Their parts and service departments are carrying the load for the entire organization. Some firms have gone into sidelines, selling refrigerators, television sets,

Savings From Hoover Plan Said Vastly Exaggerated

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee credited the Hoover commission today with helping to improve the efficiency of the federal government but said the resultant savings proposals had been greatly exaggerated.

A report of the Senate Committee on Government Operations summarized action taken by the last two Congresses on recommendations of the Commission on Government Reorganization set up under the chairmanship of former President Herbert Hoover.

The Senate committee said the Hoover Commission made 281 specific recommendations, adding that an estimated 90 per cent of these "have been fully considered and have received direct action by the Congress or its committees"—either favorable or unfavorable.

Still remaining are 28 recommendations "which will require further action by the Congress if adequate consideration is to be given to them," the report said.

The committee report, submitted by Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.), took sharp exception to what it called "extravagant claims of tremendous monetary savings" that would be brought about by adoption of the commission's proposals for streamlining the executive branch of the government.

The committee said it had been unable to find any sound basis for some of these claims, which it said have varied "from an ultra-conservative figure of a few million to as much as 10 billions of dollars in annual savings."

"Even if all the Hoover Commission's recommendations had been found to be of practical application, these estimates are not based on facts and are grossly unfair to the Congress," the report added.

Turning directly to the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report, the Senate committee said this group had failed to offer "any support for its claim that eventual annual savings would aggregate four billion dollars."

The senators also disputed a statement attributed to the citizens committee that economies of $1,244,600,000 were being realized as a result of the Hoover Report recommendations.

"The citizens committee failed to specify the basis for such estimates and submitted no facts to substantiate its claims that savings of 800 million in the military and more than 400 million in other Reorganization were related to specific Hoover Commission recommendations," the Senate report said.

The committee report said, however, that the Hoover Commission studies "served to focus public attention upon the many deficiencies in the operations of the federal government which the Congress had been unable to correct because of the lack of any general or united support."

Bevan Urges Labor Peace

LONDON (AP) — Aneurin Bevan, stormy leader of the left-wing faction that threatens to split Britain's Labor party, today invited party leader Clement Attlee and his right-wing moderates to "come and join us."

Disciples of the 54-year-old former health minister recently shook the Labor party's annual conference by grabbing six out of seven seats on the 27-member Executive Committee allotted to local Labor parties.

Attlee and his supporters had indignantly accused the Bevanites of starting a "party within the party."

Bevan hotly denied the charge and issued the "come and join us" invitation today in Tribune, weekly magazine edited by his wife, Jennie Lee.
