Million Dollar Wardrobe Sometimes Doesn't Pay

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) - The Laugh Parade: Rosalind Russell, who temporarily sheds her best-dressed actress title for a WAC uniform in "Never Wave at a WAC," tells this howler about her long-time style leadership efforts.

John Ireland and Dorothy McGuire are friends again, but the climax of their feud during a "Summer and Smoke" stage tour together, forever will be a classic.

When he changed his name to Richard Powers and opened in a Broadway play, to prove that he could do something more than ride a horse in westerns, he was visited backstage by an RKO talent scout.

Marie Wilson was summoned for publicity pictures at CBS TV City plant in Hollywood a couple of Sundays ago. So Marie leaned way over—and you know what happens when Marie leans way over—and said to the lenser:

Marius Petersen, candidate for County Commissioner, ... point four ... complete monthly accounting of court functions and all expenditures so that the taxpayers can understand! Pd. Adv. Marius Petersen.

Billy Halop tells about the time Sam Goldwyn sent for him for a very important role. After telling the actor how much he had admired his work through the years, and how nice it was to have him there, Sam asked Halop's agent his asking price. "Fifteen hundred a week," the agent said.

Vivian Vance, the one-time Broadway actress who plays Bill Frawley's wife on the "I Love Lucy" TV show, has a father in Albuquerque, N. M., who finds it difficult to understand show business.

Hollywoodites who have been to Tiajuana for the bullfights report that Fortunio Bonanova, the character actor, recently received an ovation from Mexican ringiders before the matadors and bulls came on. Bonanova arose, clasped his hands together in a gesture of love for his Mexican fans, then stripped off his coat and waved it.

DeMille Plans Epic Film Based On Life Of Moses

By ROB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Cecil B. DeMille, still leading a vigorous life at 71, is planning his next Biblical epic to hit the screens in 1955.

"That was disclosed by the film-making wizard when I talked with him in his sun-drenched office. He interrupted a busy working day to discuss his next project, "The 10 Commandments."

"The actual shooting is the easiest part of making a picture. It is here in the production office that the picture is really created. A good story is everything. If you have that, the director and the stars do not make much difference. They can help the picture a little or hurt it a little. But they can't make a good script into a bad picture or a bad script into a good picture."

"We have to find out what happened to him between those two events. There is some data in such books as the Koran, Josephus and the rabbinical writings. We learn that he was a great general, having conquered Ethiopia. Much of the rest has to be surmised.

"And what did the people wear and eat in those times? Did they eat roast beef or lamb chops or what? It would be as bad to show them eating the wrong things as it would to show them dressed in tails and top hats."

"The producer said his new film will be loaded with spectacles, but the most notable will doubtless be the parting of the Red Sea. He has done it before, in his original "10 Commandments," filmed in 1922. He explained that the old version was a modern story with a flashback to the days of Moses, whereas the new film will deal strictly with the Biblical era.

"I don't know how we will part the sea yet," he commented, "but we are already working on methods. We have come a long way in the film business since 30 years ago; this time the parting will have more basis in fact."

DeMille smiled reflectively as he recalled parting the Red Sea for his previous epic. "We tried to con-

he remarked. "I admit my control was some times not very good. Every time for a week, the water would go away and flood a large part of Hollywood. A policeman would struggle his way through the water and arrest us. We always had a man standing by with bail."
