CHICAGO LIVESTOCK
CHICAGO (AP) - Prices on hogs on the Chicago livestock market dropped once more Wednesday.

The market was slow, from 25 to 50 cents lower, mostly 25 to 50 cents lower on butchers, closing fully 50 cents lower.

Sows were uneven, showing declines of from 25 to 50 cents. Top prices was $17.40, paid for a few loads of choice butchers around 220 pounds. There were 12,000 salable hogs.

The cattle market also was slow, steady to fully 50 cents lower, mostly 25 to 50 cents of cows and other classes were steady.

Five loads of high prime steers, weighing about 1,200 lb brought the top price of $37.

In sheep trading, slaughter yearlings opened slow, steady to 50 cents lower. Top price of $31.50 was paid by a small killer for a deck of high choice 95 lb offerings.

A load of utility to mostly good yearlings brought $18.25 from a big packer.

James Bodie Dinner Off
A no-host dinner planned for James Bodie, Demo candidate for state senator, tonight has been cancelled.

The dinner was to have been held at Jen-Ed's.

Bodie is a Prineville attorney. He won the Democratic nomination to the senate from this district by write-in vote at the May primary.

Chest Drive Contest Told

Klamath Falls' traditional and strong rival, Medford, has challenged Klamathites in a new fight and the challenge has been accepted.

Medford's Community Chest campaigners have challenged Klamath Chest workers as to which group will do the best job in their current campaigns.

Elton Smith, director of the Klamath campaign, plunked the Medford challenge on the Klamath Chest directors meeting yesterday and the challenge was quickly and unanimously accepted.

At campaign headquarters here (Brown's, 834 Main Street) it appears the directors' confidence is well supported. Returns in the drive continue to run well ahead of last year.

This is particularly heartening in view of the fact that returns from many of the usually larger sources have yet to be turned in.

Smith and his co-workers explain this year's good showing as caused principally by new and increased participation by modest wage earners and small firms.

Jail Break Hearing Set
A District Court preliminary hearing has been scheduled for three young men who are charged with assault, armed with a dangerous weapon, in connection with an escape from the County Jail Oct. 21.

They are John H. Brandon, 26, and Robert Kral, 12, who escaped from the lockup only to surrender after a couple of hours freedom, and Don Reichardt, 21, who did not leave the jail but is accused of helping plot the break-out.

They are accused of slugging 61-year-old Sherman Kettlemers, the jailer, with a large key ring. Brandon, Kral and Reichardt were arraigned on the assault charge in District Court yesterday and requested the hearing.

Error Brings Youth Release
Frank Gestvang, 22, was released from custody today, an indictment charging him with burglary, not in a dwelling, dismissed by Circuit Judge David R. Vandenberg.

District Attorney Frank Alderson said he requested dismissal of the indictment because of a mistake in drawing it up, and that he would retain charge Gestvang with burglary.

In the meantime, the youth has been released from the County Jail.

Gestvang was accused of participating in the burglary of the Roy Call Wrecking Company of Egan, jointly with Stanley Edward Mayfield, 22, who already is serving a three-year prison term for the offense.

THREE CLASSES TONIGHT
Three classes begin tonight at Klamath Union High School as a part of the joint OTI-KURS adult education program. They are typing, in room 104; photography in room 319 and textile painting in room 323. Fees are $5 for 10 weeks of courses.

GEORGE BARTCH

Chamber Hires Traffic Man

Traffic rates and industrial research are to be the dual job of 28-year-old George Bartch, member of the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors learned at a luncheon meeting this noon.

Bartch has been appointed to head the Klamath County Chamber of Commerce Traffic Department, Chamber Mgr. Frank Tucker announced.

A graduate of the University of Washington, young Bartch comes to Klamath Falls from Portland where he was in traffic work with the Commission of Public Docks. His transfer here changes his interests from water transportation to inland transport problems.

Bartch replaces Margaret Santos as traffic director. Mrs. Santos resigned her position some time ago. He was born, raised and educated in Washington, and spent three years in the Army. He was with the dock commission for a year and a half.

Bartch and his wife have located their home at 158 Lewis Street, and already have indicated they like to call the Klamath County home.

Rogers Offer Boosts Vote

Mrs. Leslie Rogers, 831 Pacific Terrace, will open her home on election day, Nov. 4 to all mothers, regardless of place of residence who want to vote and have no one to remain at home with children.

Competent, responsible baby sitters will be available all day to care for youngsters and there will be no charge made.

Mrs. Rogers is generously making this offer to help every mother get to the polls. No telephone appointment is needed.

UO Mothers Give Tea
University of Oregon Mothers Club is giving a tea for new members at the beautiful W. D. Miller residence, 40 Conger Avenue, Saturday Nov. 1, 3 to 6 p.m.

All former U of O mothers are cordially invited to attend. Mrs. Hazel Gaas is program chairman.

Canadian Clover Crop High; Affects Local Market Price

The Oregon State Extension Service weekly seed crop review received here today reports the Canadian Alaska clover crop "only slightly above the 15 year average" at 3,250,000 (M) pounds - a definite factor in clover prices for Klamath Basin farmers.

Though the announced estimate by the Canadian government is high, private concerns are estimating even higher production north of the border, some corners quoting as much as 5,000,000 (M) pounds - a definite factor in clover prices for Klamath Basin farmers.

Though the announced estimate by the Canadian government is high, private concerns are estimating even higher production north of the border, some corners quoting as much as 5,000,000 (M) pounds.

Still there is no movement on prices aren't being offered at all at the moment. If they were, local buyers say they would be paying only about 27 and 30 cents a pound.

Last year Alaska hit better than 40 cents on the local market. A small Klamath crop of Kenland Red Clover may find a good market, though. The OSC report says there has been some activity there, with the price unchanged at between 48 and 50 cents a pound.

This year's report on the Canadian crop is about twice the 1951 crop, Canada's Alaska production area is centered mostly in Alberta where harvest conditions are reported to have been good this year.

Canada is also reported to have an alfalfa seed crop twice as large as last year's, and at a time when the U. S. crop is the largest on record.

Over 200,000 pounds of Alaska was reported to have been imported from Canada during the past three months as compared with only 3,800 pounds over the same period a year ago. The Klamath Basin produces more than 4,000,000 (M) pounds annually, this year as much as 40 per cent of the national crop.

Meantime the Klamath potato harvest neared completion, and just about all the harvest force of an estimated 2,500 persons has left the Basin area. Several big fields are still undergoing the harvesting process, but are expected to be completed this weekend.

Potato prices have been holding steady between $3.25 and $3.50.

Guard Seeks Missing Men
COOS BAY (AP) - Coastguardsmen patrolled the fog-shrouded shore line south from here Wednesday, seeking trace of two men missing since their plane went down three miles off the coast Monday night.

A third man, Edgar L. Jenkins, Long Beach, Calif., merchant seaman, swam through the pounding surf to safety.

He told Wednesday from his hospital bed of grabbing the hair of Charles Woodruff, 35, of West Palm Beach, Fla., and pulling him along on the swim through the biting cold of the Pacific ocean. But, with the surf beginning to roll them both, he lost his hold, he said, and did not see Woodruff again.

The pilot, Jack Shores of adjacent North Bend, did not leave the plane so far as Jenkins was able to tell.

The three had taken off from Port Orford Monday evening, on a fishing trip. The engine failed and the plane went into the water at about 7:45 p.m. Jenkins was found on the beach two hours later.

The Woodruff family was here visiting the Shores. Mrs. Woodruff and Mrs. Shores are sisters. Jenkins, Etta Washburn, Bea River, Minn., and Minnie Johnson, St. Vermeil, Wash; brother, Frank Twamley, St. Vincent, Minn. also three grandchildren. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Ward's Klamath Funeral Home.
