STUBBORN WATERFRONT FIRE — One of the biggest waterfront fires in the history of Boston, Mass., was subdued after a 20-hour battle. Here fireboats pour streams of water on fumes of 1,000-foot storage shed on Union Wharf. More than 700 firefighters and 100 pieces of apparatus fought the stubborn blaze.

Dorothy Lamour Unhappy Over Helen Morgan Cast

By ERSKINE JOHNSON HOLLYWOOD — (NEA)—Behind the Screen: The state of the Shelley Winters-Vittorio Gassman marriage isn't all that Shelley would like it to be... Dorothy Lamour's gnashing her teeth over reports that Judy Garland will star in "The Helen Morgan Story." Dorothy has been plugging for the role for years... Ed Wynne gave a comedian permission to imitate him on a TV show and said: "Any similarity will be greatly appreciated."

Eye-opener: A Film Festival in Bombay, India, brought out 200 accredited Soviet representatives and only two from Hollywood — Frank Capra and Kenneth McEldowney, who produced "The Ridower."

Shed a nostalgic tear for the Hollywood chorus girl, once given high celluloid priority as B. O. and S. A.—box-office and sex appeal. She didn't get old — she just faded away because "Hooping doesn't mean anything any more. It's the ideas and talent that count now. I'd rather have one Virginia Mayo in front of a black velvet curtain than 40 beautiful chorus girls on a gorgeous set."

Veteran musical director-producer LeRoy Prinz viewing the new styles in film musicals and comparing yesterday's Irma-brained dancing cuties to those of today: "The dancers in films now can't be called chorus girls," Prinz claims. "They are 95 per cent more intelligent, 100 per cent more ambitious and half of them are married. A few years ago a pretty girl with nice legs could get by just faking a routine. Today a girl has to be an expert at all types of dancing."

Anthony Quinn has written a screenplay, "Personal — Please Forward," and there's excitement about it at MGM. It's about the life of a male Hollywood star as seen through the eyes of four fans... Wait Disney, undis-

John Ireland's young brother, Mickey, a comic, is teaming up with a male singer for one of those Martin and Lewis partnerships... Eddie Cantor's new hush-hush project is a brand-new autobiography—to come off the press, about the same time as Warner Bros. release his movie biography.

Screen glamour babes who have reputations for being difficult to photograph aren't in the same league with Marilyn Monroe. I buzzed cameraman Milton Krasner, who photographed her last two films, on his problems with her. Outside of keeping the censors happy, Krasner confessed he has no problems: "It's a cinch. You just get her in focus and start the camera."

Republicans May Need Landslide Win To Capture Control of House, Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democrats carried a numerical advantage into the showdown battle with the Republicans today for control of the next Congress.

Victory predictions came from both sides as the voters began making their choices after listening to weeks of campaign oratory. The outcome was bound to be influenced by the presidential race and, conversely, to have an important bearing on the success of the next president's administration.

At stake in today's balloting are 34 of the 96 Senate seats and 432 of the 435 House seats. Maine elected a Republican senator and three GOP House members on Sept. 8.

The House, where the Democrats now outnumber the Republicans 230 to 200, has rarely run counter to the presidential tide. Capitol authorities said that only twice—in 1848 and 1876—has an incoming president been faced by a House controlled by another party.

The Senate presents a different picture. Numerous Republican senators conceded privately that it probably would take an Eisenhower landslide for them to capture the Senate.

The Democrats now hold 49 Senate seats—the bare minimum necessary for control. But only 14 of their seats are on the block and five of these are in the Democratic south.

The Republicans have 46 seats, not counting Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, who "resigned" from the Republican party and threw his support behind Stevenson in the presidential race.

With Morse's defection, the Republicans needed to pick up at least three seats to be assured of control of the next Senate and at the same time had to risk 21 they now hold.

One of the 21 has already been filled with the election of Republican Gov. Frederick G. Payne of Maine to succeed Sen. Owen Brewster, and Sen. William F. Knowland of California was assured of re-election by winning the Democratic nomination.

The Republicans won control of both the House and the Senate in 1946 for the first time since the Hoover administration, riding into power on a wave of discontent over meat shortages and postwar economic controls, but they lost it two years later.

Four senators swept into office on the Republican upsurge six years ago—the famous "Class of '46". Today's balloting brought a first test of voter reaction to their records.

Republicans in this group include McCarthy of Wisconsin, Jenner of Indiana, Cain of Washington, Kent of Missouri, Malone of Nevada, Ecton of Montana, Bricker of Ohio, Watkins of Utah, Martin of Pennsylvania and Williams of Delaware.

The Democrats went into the election with a carryover of 35 seats and, in addition, five Democratic candidates had little or no opposition.

These five are Sens. Spessard L. Holland of Florida, John C. Stennis of Mississippi and Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, and Rep. Albert Gore of Tennessee and Price Daniel of Texas.

To these 40 seats they needed to add at least nine more, and they figured they definitely had the upper hand in Rhode Island, Kentucky, West Virginia and Arizona.

The Republicans started off with a lineup of 25 seats, again excluding Morse, and to these could be added Payne of Maine and Knowland of California.

Republicans also were regarded as certain victors in Vermont and North Dakota and in Nebraska, where two GOP-held seats are at stake.

This leaves 20 key contests to be fought out. Fifteen of the 20 seats involved in races in 19 states now are held by Republicans. Barring a major upset elsewhere, the Republicans must hold all 15 of these seats and win three of the five other to clinch control of the Senate.

P.O. Thief Waives Jury

William Alton Bowles, 56, who was caught inside the Lee Hendricks Drug Store on S. 6th Oct. 26, has waived grand jury action on a charge of attempting to burglarize a postal substation.

He appeared before a U. S. commissioner in Portland. The charge is a federal one. When Bowles was apprehended here in the act of burglarizing the drug store, five letters apparently taken from the postal station inside the building were found in his possession. He admitted being an ex-convict out of San Quentin Prison.

Local Youth College Judge

OREGON STATE COLLEGE — John Young of Klamath Falls was judging and awards chairman of the annual Oregon State college "Engineers' Bust" held Oct. 22. The event was composed of skills put on by the individual engineering departments with a special humorous skit produced by the faculty. It is recognized as being one of the high-light events for fall term on the OSC campus.

Young, senior in electrical engineering, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd A. Young, 1931 Erie Street, Klamath Falls.

CHASE DIES

SKOWHEGAN, Me. (AP)—Mrs. Carrie M. Chase, 76, mother of Maine Republican Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, died last night after a long illness.
