

Elizabeth Pledges Friendship

LONDON (AP) — Young Queen Elizabeth II pledged "the closest and most friendly relations" with the United States Tuesday in her first address to Parliament.

In a setting of gold and scarlet pageantry harking back to the first Queen Bess, the 26-year-old sovereign told a joint session of the House of Lords and Commons that friendship with the U. S. will continue to be a cornerstone of British policy.

The address, marking the opening of a new session of Parliament, coincided with the U. S. election day.

The queen spoke from a gold and scarlet throne to motionless rows of scarlet and ermine-clad peers and their bejeweled wives, grey-wigged judges, and decorated ambassadors.

On her left hand, about six feet away, and one tier below her on the three-tier dais, sat the Duke of Edinburgh on a plain little chair.

The queen's speech itself, which she delivered in a firm young voice for seven minutes, according to tradition reflected the thinking of the party in power—the Conservative government of Prime Minister Churchill.

The queen declared "I earnestly pray that in Korea an early armistice will be arranged." She added: "Until this is accomplished the continued participation of my forces in this conflict will be clear proof of my government's wholehearted attachment to the ideals of the United Nations."

Elizabeth, preceded by plumed helmeted mounted men, rode in the ornate Irish state carriage from Buckingham Palace through cheering thousands of Britons.

Law Limits Presidents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Regardless of who wins Tuesday's election, he can't remain in the White House more than eight years.

The new president will be the first one limited to two terms. He can be reelected only once.

The two-term limitation is the newest addition to the constitution. Known as the 22nd amendment, it was ratified last year and affects all future presidents.

As the incumbent at the time the amendment was ratified, President Truman was not affected by it. However, Truman decided not to try for another term.

SHIP RETURNS
SEATTLE (AP) — The troop ship Gen. C. C. Ballou brought 766 Army men from the Far East today for an election day landing on home soil. There were 19 Oregon and 15 Washington men aboard.

"A single call does it all!" Men's Hand Laundry, 11th and Klamath, phone 2-2531.

TWO VOTES FOR IKE — Mrs. Florence Nevada Rice (left), 102, and Mrs. Merica Ophelia King (right), 100, are too old to get to the polls at Santa Monica, Calif., for the election, so they're casting absentee ballots. Each said she's voting for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Highlights At KUHS

By HAROLD McKEAY

Tomorrow the fruits of 9 weeks of labor will be received in the form of grades. All the students will report at homeroom first to receive their cards then to go to their first and second period classes. After that the students return to homeroom for an abbreviated activity period, then the rest of the day will be a regular schedule.

The grading for school grades remains the same as in previous years—that is, 1, superior; 2, above average; 3, average; 4, below average; 5, failing. But the grading for citizenship grades will be graded in a different manner than in the past few years.

In the new system to be used, all students will be graded in the 1, or superior, grade when they enter a class and in the nine weeks the teacher subtracts from the grade she thinks the student deserves.

This method of grading is used in most other high schools.

The first call for sophomore, junior, or senior boys interested in going out for Pelican basketball went out today. The boys will be coached by the assistant coach Don Peterson until football season ends allowing head coach Paul McCall to devote his time to basketball after shedding his chores as backfield coach for the Pel grid squad.

Tomorrow night the Klamath Spots Album will be aired at 8:30 over KPJI.

"Where linens live!" Men's Men's Hand Laundry, 11th and Klamath, phone 2-2531.

'Buffy' Ives Would Steer Middle Way As First Lady

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — If Buffy Ives became first lady of the land, she will try to steer a middle course between Ben Truman's natural shyness and Eleanor Roosevelt's flair for making news.

The sister of Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, said in an interview that if her brother wins today's election, she probably will renew the regular press conferences established by Mrs. Roosevelt and quietly dropped by Mrs. Truman.

But she won't attempt to act as an unofficial ambassador for Stevenson. She'd devote her efforts to managing the White House, helping with correspondence and gifts, and serving as hostess at official functions.

Buffy is Mrs. Elizabeth Stevenson Ives, 55-year-old wife of Ernest L. Ives, a retired diplomat. She would be Stevenson's official hostess because he is divorced, Allen Borden Stevenson, a Chicago socialite, obtained a Reno decree in 1949 after 21 years of marriage. Stevenson was governor at the time.

Mrs. Ives' nickname, "Buffy," originated when Stevenson—who is 2½ years her junior—was unable as a lot to pronounce "Elizabeth." His version—"Liz-Buff"—gave rise to "Buffy" and the sobriquet persisted.

Mrs. Ives, confident of a Democratic victory, already is looking forward to life in Washington and the elegance of White House special events.

"It will be fun to have some lovely evening clothes again," she

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."

Despite her love for "dresy" gowns, Mrs. Ives is no clothes horse. She hates going from shop

to shop comparing items, and often she bought in Europe as long ago as 1935.

"I'll have to do some refurbishing now, though," she smiled.

By "clothes" she means formal gowns, and her taste in linen reflects her taste in diversion. She likes dinner parties, dances, receptions, musicales. She doesn't care for cards, and cocktail parties she finds "deadly" because "everyone talks so loudly."