

Oregon State Vote Result

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Oregon's six electoral votes have gone to General Eisenhower and the state's four man delegation to the House of Representatives will be Republican.

That became apparent early Tuesday night as results from Oregon's 2,309 precincts rolled in. The general carried every county in the state—even Multnomah (Portland) where the majority of voters are registered as Democrats.

Early Wednesday Oregon had given Eisenhower 122,690 votes to 67,073 for Governor Stevenson. The results were from 1,136 precincts.

Three members of the Oregon congressional delegation were re-elected.

They are Reps. Walter Norblad, Homer D. Angell and Harris Ellsworth.

State Sen. Sam Coon, a Republican seeking office in the eastern Oregon district, was running far ahead of his Democratic opponent.

Oregon's Sen. Wayne Morse, who bolted the Republican party to support Stevenson, was disappointed with the election.

He told the Portland Oregonian in a telephone interview that "Eisenhower and Nixon elected the people and won the election."

"The people allowed themselves to be fooled and lost the election. We must close ranks in the national interest by supporting anything the Republicans propose which will be good for the country, and fearlessly oppose Republican proposals which will endanger our domestic welfare and the winning of an honorable peace," he said.

Reynaud recalled Eisenhower as France's liberator and said the new American president would make his own decisions undeterred by pressure groups. Former Premier Edgar Faure saw the result as a new opportunity for "the entire world to seek again an honorable and just peace." Socialist leaders expressed disappointment.

In the Middle East, there was hope the Republicans would provide a better deal than the Democrats.

Officials in Western Europe, most of them on the conservative side, voiced belief the new administration would continue to play a major role in European affairs. Socialists and other leftwing groups which had favored Adlai Stevenson weren't so happy. They were concerned over the extent of GOP Old Guard influence in the new administration.

There was no comment from Moscow, where the press had described both Eisenhower and Stevenson as "fronts" for America's "ruling financial and industrial circles."

Reaction by countries included:
Britain—British foreign office: "We are happy at Gen. Eisenhower's success. He will continue, we are sure, the policy he followed as supreme commander of the Atlantic forces in Europe." Most opposition laborites were disappointed.
West Germany—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer saluted Eisenhower as a man who "thoroughly knows the problems of Europe." The socialist press was caustic.
France—Former Premier Paul

TWO VOTES FOR GOP — Richard M. Nixon, Republican candidate for vice-president, holds his hands aloft in a good luck gesture as he and his wife, Pat (center) cast their ballots in Whittier, Calif. Nixon predicted "we will win more decisively than the pollsters have indicated." At right is Mrs. Margaret Richardson, chief election clerk at the polling place.

Ohio Prison Riot Over

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Hazardous Ohio Penitentiary officials today began transfer of 150 prisoners to Camp Perry on Lake Erie following collapse of a million-dollar prison riot.

The melee brought death to one convict and wounds to four others and a state highway patrolman.

While buses were getting ready for the trip to Camp Perry, prison guards shook down the 1,600 hold-out convicts who surrendered late yesterday inside beleaguered Cellblocks G, H, I and K.

The transfer to Camp Perry will be the largest movement of inmates in the prison's history—even larger than the one in 1920 when a fire killed 320. The movement will give Warden Eliph W. Abis a place to put "hard core" prisoners while broken cell locks are repaired.

Langlie Wins In Washington Election

SEATTLE (AP)—Arthur B. Langlie won an unprecedented third term as governor of Washington Tuesday and led his Republican party in a revival of power that cracked the Democrats' 20-year hold on state offices below governor.

Langlie was returned to office for the third time in a vote that was near if not above record breaking proportions.

His Democratic opponent, Hugh B. Mitchell, said the trend in Langlie's favor "was definitely established before. I don't think there is any doubt about the outcome."

At that time, Langlie had a lead of more than 31,000 votes with about 65 per cent of the returns tabulated.

There will be new faces in the legislative building in Olympia which houses many state offices. And for the first time since 1933, the GOP will hold state partisan offices below governor.

Topped for the lieutenant governor's post which he has held since the Democratic landslide of 1932 was Victor A. Meyers, the former band leader who has been in office longer than any other lieutenant governor in any of the 48 states.

Emmett T. Anderson, a political newcomer, gave the veteran Meyers the worst defeat of any of the state candidates.

As election officials still struggled to dig through the near avalanche of ballots, the state political picture stood this way:

Earl C. Coe, Democratic secretary of state, survived the Republican swing and defeated B. J. Dahl.

Don Eastvold, youthful Republican, had a 25,000 vote margin over his veteran opponent, Smith Troy, for attorney general.

Otto Case, the 81-year-old Republican campaigner, defeated Jack Taylor for land commissioner.

Pearl A. Wanzamaker, with a 26,000 vote lead over Henry W. Turner, appeared to have won reelection for the non-partisan job of state superintendent of public instruction.

Cliff Yelle, Democrat incumbent had safe margin of 6,600 votes over Floyd Oles, Republican.

Closer of the races was that of treasurer's office. Gallagher had only a 977 vote lead over Charles R. Mayberry, Republican.

Another Democrat who appeared to have survived the Republican tion state voters, some 90,000 absentee ballots have been issued. Normally, a majority of absentee ballots are cast by Republicans but there is an unknown quantity this year in that a substantial number of ballots were sent overseas. There was no way to determine how they might vote.
