Wide Range Perennials Do Well In Klamath Falls

By Mrs. W. F. MYERS

Lakeshore Gardens

The garden Chrysanthemum is a must in the perennial border or flower garden because no other perennial can produce the gorgeous autumn colors in such profusion as do our cherished garden Mums. They are found in all shades of color except blue and purple and may be single, double, semi-double, large, pompon or button sizes, in heighth ranging from twelve inches to four feet. The hardy types which bloom early are the only ones suitable for planting here, as the late varieties seldom have time to bloom before freezing weather sets in. It is a good idea to plant the tall varieties in spots at frequent intervals in the border, with low and medium-low ones here and there, in colors to carry out the garden theme. They may be grown from seed or cuttings, but it is more satisfactory to use divisions of roots. The best time to divide and plant mums is in the spring after they start to grow. Divisions made at that time produce nice clumps of gorgeous blooms in the fall. Blooming late in the year, they give a brilliant farewell to summer.

GOOD HERE

Yucca, sometimes called Spanish Bayonet because the ends of the sword-like evergreen leaves have a sharp, hard point, bear lovely lily-like, bell-shaped, creamy flow-stiff stems which reach above the foliage. They are very effective planted either as specimens or in clumps, as are also the ornamental grasses such as Pampas Grass and Basket Grass.

The earliest blooming of the tall lilies is the Madonna. It is creamy white with several flowers on tall stems. Next to bloom is the Regal Lily, blooming in early summer. Croft Lillies also bloom in summer here, while Tiger Lilies bloom still later. Lily bulbs should be planted in the fall and six or seven inches below the surface.

The biannuals are those flowers which live only two years and then must be replanted. However, most of them re-seed themselves and, if the young plants are not disturbed, you will have a succession of blooms each year; for this reason they are confused with perennials. Among our best examples are Foxglove, Canterbury Bells, Snapdragons, and Rose of Heaven. Foxglove or Digitalis is a biannual flowering herb. It is a native of Oregon, growing profusely in some regions of the Coast Range. The tall varieties may reach a heighth of five to six feet. The foliage is a low rosette of course, mullein-like leaves from which spring the tall spikes or stems crowded with large thimble-like flowers drooping toward one side and beautifully spotted on the inner surface. Their tall spires reaching above other flowers like a lone sentinal dominate the surroundings and give a startling effect to the perennial border. Canterbury Bells is a biannual bushy plant of medium to tall in heighth and loaded in the summer with large bell-shaped flowers in colors of white, pink, lavender, blue and purple. Besides the single bells, there are cup-and-saucer and double flowering types, all of which are charming in the perennial border. Rose of Heaven, a new name for the old fashioned Mullein Pin, is a biannual, seeding itself and blooming for two years. It has scanty gray foliage and attractive single red flowers. Our much loved Snapdragon is also a biannual. Its habit of seeding itself, if left in the same location is responsible for the belief that it is a perennial. If the ground is not disturbed around these biannuals so that the young volunteer seedlings are not destroyed, they will appear the first year and bloom the second year.

Snapdragons, like Garden Pinks, will bloom the first year if seed is planted early.

MANY MORE

We have mentioned only a few of the most important, hardy perennials and biannuals. There are many more kinds in all sizes and variations of color, each having distinct characteristics of size of flowers, growing heighth, blooming period and color tones, which makes it possible to find suitable plants useful for background, foreground or border planting. A complete description of other perennials may be found in the seed catalogue or you may consult your nurseryman about them.

To build a charming garden is a work of art. First, you must have a plan. It can be either formal or irregular. The informal lending itself to variations in accord with the individual tastes of the gardner. If a formal garden is planned, decide on a color scheme, then know your flowers as to size, texture, blooming period and color so as to coordinate and harmonize them with each other. An informal garden or border permits great flexibility and variation so that plants may be arranged to display the foliage and flowers without any noticeable planning. A well planned garden and spring flowering bulbs after they have finished blooming. Cut off the dead leaves and stems, then set out annuals which bloom throughout the summer in their place. Flowers from all groups are needed to create an all season friendly Garden of Flowers.

"In every flower that blooms around,
Some pleasing emblem we may trace:
Young love is in the myrtle found,
And memory in the pansy's grace.
Peace in the olive-branch we see,
Hope in the half shut iris grows,
In the bright Laurel victory!
And lovely woman in the rose."
Chazet.

Eastside

By MRS. MERLE O'NEIL

A sizeable crowd was in attendance at the Farm Bureau meeting, held by the East Side center at the New Pine Creek Grange Hall Oct. 20. Discussion of the different measures to be voted on Tuesday, at the General election, was the main business. Sample ballots were handed out, and several well informed speakers were present to explain both sides, pro and con. The voters in attendance derived much benefit, and counted it as a very profitable evening. Following the meeting, lovely refreshments of various kinds of cake, ice cream and coffee was served by the ladies of the Farm Bureau.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin McKune, The Dalles, called on the O'Neil families in this district Monday. McKune is a nephew of Mrs. John O'Neil's and a cousin of Merle's and Lee's. They were on a 2-weeks vacation trip, and planned to visit numerous relatives.

Callers at the home of Mrs. John Baxter on Monday were. The Rev. and Mrs. York and son, Charles, Mrs. Floyd Lightle, and Mrs. Vern Morris.

J. E. Boone who has been helping out at the Longfellow ranch for several weeks, recently bought a home in Lakeview, where he will locate.

Mr. and Mrs. John Richardson spent the weekend visiting and elk hunting at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Richardson and daughter of Gateway.

A young couple (I did not learn their name) of New Pine Creek had the misfortune to run into a forked horn buck, in front of our place on the evening of Oct. 29. The deer, blinded by the lights ran right into the car, while trying to cross the road and was killed instantly. The young couple were on their way to see a show when the accident happened, and their car was put out of commission. Bill Kelso, who was on his way home from work, towed their car to town. Sheriff Tommy Elliott took the deer to Lakeview for welfare.

This community was shocked and saddened to learn of the death of Mrs. Carroll Mulkey, who lost her life in a fire, which destroyed their home Friday, near Willow Ranch Sincere sympathy is extended the family.

Hoyt Pugh and his brother Dennis of Lakeview visited over the weekend with Edward Richardson.

State Policeman Milton Deter was a dinner guest at the Baxter home Friday. He was visiting with his father, Andrew Deter, who is employed at the Baxter ranch.

Mrs. Ned Sherlock was calling at the home of Mrs. Fred Longfellow Saturday afternoon.

Barbara Snider was calling on the families in this district Sunday taking the school census.

We were invited to a lovely birthday dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shults Sunday at West Side. The following guests were present to help Harold celebrate his birthday, Mr. and Mrs. Dee Chandler and children, Gaylen and Gloria, Mr. and Mrs. Merle O'Neil and children, Zelda and Jim, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shults and Clayton.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Williams and daughters were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walt Lightle and daughter.

It is reported that Mr. and Mrs. Layton Gentry and his mother, Mrs. Mildred Gentry, are hospitalized following a collision with another car on the evening of Oct. 31, just below Cleve Snider's home It was not known just how they are getting along, or what caused the accident.

Clothing For Children To Go Overseas

The Klamath Falls Council of World Community Day Friday Nov. 7 at the First Methodist Church in keeping with other Christian women throughout the world, helping others.

In hundreds of towns and cities across the country women are busy packing layettes and children's clothes for small youngsters they will probably never see. Local women are cooperating.

Big cardboard cartons in homes and churches are slowly filling to the top with diapers, baby shirts, socks, blankets, small snowsuits and sweaters and dresses. Some new, some in good condition but outgrown by more fortunate children here, they are destined for war orphans in Korea and Japan, for D.P. and refugee youngsters in Trieste, Belgium, Germany, Greece and Lebanon.

If you ask these busy women, "What about children closer to home?" they will answer you, with truth, that the church women work for youngsters at home in dozens of ways — in community centers, children's homes, juvenile court, hospitals, playgrounds.

But there is one day a year, they will add, that they dedicate to children, and to all those in need, in other countries.

That day is the first Friday in November, which is World Community Day for women in more than 1800 local councils of church-women. On Friday they will bring their bundles of infants' and small children's clothing to World Community Day church services to be dedicated as their gifts for world peace. They will make their yearly offering, to be used this year partly for medicines and vitamins for children overseas, partly to support their own Christian Woman's Action Program for Lasting Peace.

The meeting here will start at 2 p.m. and it is hoped that many packets for children for shipping overseas will be taken to the church.

All interested church women are invited.

You can play a wonderful new Hammond Chord Organ after just a few minutes of explanation even though you never played a note on any instrument before. What wonderful home enjoyment for the winter evenings ahead. A few dollars deposit now will hold a chord organ for Christmas. Louis R. Mann Piano Co., 120 N. 7th, Ph. 7182.
