Lori Nelson Fools Studio By Truth About Discovery

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Lori Nelson is the despair of her studio's press agents. She tells the truth.
“You see, it's an unwritten law in Hollywood that all starlets must have a gimmick. One of them posed for calendars in the afternoon. Another was supposed to munch flowers. Another was said to have baked a cake for an executive.
“But Lori, a glamorous doll of 19 years, refuses to go along with such nonsense. A promoter inquired: “Didn't the studio head discover you while you were playing in a little theater?”
“Nope,” she replied blandly. “Then didn't he see your picture in a San Fernando Valley newspaper?”
“Don't be ridiculous,” she chided. “I did some little theater work, but not very much. I got an agent, and he brought me to the studio. The talent man sent me over to see the dramatic coach. She showed me how to read some lines. The executives evidently liked it, and I was signed.”
“And that, friends, is how 99 out of 100 starlets are signed by studios, their publicity notwithstanding.
“Her Boswells might look hopefully to the fact that Lori is an expert rifle shot, and whiz at jujitsu. Possibly she learned to shoot in her early days in New Mexico, where she was born. And maybe the jujitsu came in handy with Hollywood wolves.
“But she punctured these myths, too. “I left my home town of Santa Fe when I was 5,” she explained. “So I couldn't have learned there. The truth is that my father is an auxiliary sheriff's deputy. Since he doesn't have a son, he took me along when he went to rifle practice. And he practiced his jujitsu with me.”
“Her father, Robert Nelson, was a superintendent of the American Metal Company Mine near Santa Fe and now heads the camera machine shop at Republic Studios.
“As for throwing Hollywood wolves over her shoulder, Lori was frank to admit she hadn't dated any.”

Adlai Praises Free Speech

ALTON, Ill. (AP)—A combination of a sense of duty and the exercise of the right of free speech serves fully the cause of truth, Gov. Adlai Stevenson said Sunday at ceremonies honoring a martyr to free press.
He and Barry Bingham, publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal spoke at the dedication of a bronze plaque in the memory of Elijah P. Lovejoy, anti-slavery editor and Presbyterian minister, who was shot to death defending his presses from an Alton mob 113 years ago.
It was the Democratic presidential nominee's first public speech since his defeat by Dwight D. Eisenhower last Tuesday. The estimated 1,000 persons greeted Stevenson with shouts and prolonged applause.
Both Stevenson and Bingham, but with different emphasis, weighed the meaning the responsibilities of freedom.
Stevenson said Lovejoy served a cause greater than the abolition of slavery.
“This greater cause the right—the duty—of the individual to speak out for the truth,” he said. “I make the reference to duty—wisely because that was the way Lovejoy thought of it.”
The Louisville publisher urged newspapers to make “an exhaustive” self-study of their campaign performances to guard against possible abuse of freedom of the press.
Bingham, noting criticism received by the press during the recent presidential campaign, said the self-study should determine whether Stevenson newspapers slanted their news coverage toward Stevenson and Eisenhower newspapers toward Eisenhower.
“If the press failed in that way,” the Louisville publisher, who supported Stevenson in the campaign, said, “it would be better for us to expose ourselves, and try to avoid it in the future.”
