

ROK ASSAULT FORCE BEATEN

In The Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS
From Washington:
The justice department wants to find out if certain public officials have been reporting their graft receipts in THEIR INCOME TAX RETURNS!
Just one question:
What do you think?
One of the big jobs ahead of Ike is to make certain that in the future no federal public officials have graft receipts to report—or, for that matter, to conceal.

More from Washington—along a different line:
American security officials are worried about the dangers President-elect Eisenhower will face when he goes to Korea. When he goes, he will almost certainly include Seoul in his itinerary. Seoul is a burned, battered city with a poverty-stricken population of about 600,000. Many spies, communists and other off-color characters circulate among these hundreds of thousands. Some are known and some are not.
Any of them, knowing that his future among the committees would be MADE if he got away with it, might take a pot shot at Ike.

I imagine that possibility is worrying Ike less than anybody else. As a soldier, he probably adheres to the philosophy that if his number isn't on it, no bullet, shell or bomb will touch him.
If his number IS on it—
Well, in that event, "c'est la guerre."

Another little prayer:
Dear Lord, guard Thy humble and conscientious son Ike when he goes on this inherently dangerous mission. He HAS to go. He has to go, because he SAID he would. He has built his life on the simple premise that his word is as good as his bond.
Watch over him—for his country's sake. A little less than a century ago, stark tragedy came upon us when a great and good president was felled by an assassin's bullet at the exact moment when his country's need for him was greatest.
Please, dear Lord, don't let it happen again.

All this raises an interesting (even if grim and tragic) question. If Ike should die before his inauguration, who would succeed him?

This seems to be the answer: If his death should occur before the election, cast their ballots and declare him elected, the procedure of the electoral college would revert to the method prescribed by the constitution. The electors would meet and each would vote for a CANDIDATE. The person receiving the greatest number of votes would become President, provided that his total vote was a majority of all the electors. If no person secured a majority of all the electoral votes, the house of representatives would choose the President. Each elector would vote for whomsoever he chose.

If the President-elect should die AFTER the meeting of the electors and the casting of their vote declaring him elected, he would be considered to have been the duly elected President and the constitutional method of Presidential succession would apply.
That is to say, Vice-President Nixon would become President.

Suppose Vice-President Nixon should die—or be assassinated—after becoming President?
Well, in that event, under the Presidential act of 1886, as amended in 1947, the speaker of the house would succeed to the Presidency. If HE died, the president of the senate would succeed.

After that would come the members of the cabinet, in the following order:
Secretary of state, secretary of a treasury, secretary of defense, attorney general, postmaster general, secretary of the Interior, secretary of agriculture, secretary of commerce, secretary of labor.

Suicide Of UN Official Starts Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—The death plunge of United Nations counsel Abraham H. Feller has touched off controversy between U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie and the McCarran subcommittee, probing the loyalty of American employees of the world organization.
The 47-year-old Feller tore himself from his wife's arms yesterday and leaped to death from their 12th floor apartment.
Lie, who announced his resignation from his U. N. post Monday, said Feller killed himself because of the strain of defending U. N. employees "against indiscriminate smears and exaggerated charges."
A federal grand jury as well as Sen. Pat McCarran's (D-Nev.) internal security subcommittee has been looking into charges of subversive affiliations aimed at some American members of the Secretariat.

NO TARGET
Robert Morris, counsel for the Senate subcommittee, said Feller himself was not a target of the investigation. In a statement in behalf of three members of the subcommittee—Senators James Eastland (D-Miss.), Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.) and Willis Smith (D-Tenn.)—Morris termed Lie's assertion "irresponsible."

Feller was an $18,000-a-year general counsel and principal director of the U. N. Legal Department since 1946. He was credited with writing some of the most important statements of Lie.
Associates said Feller had been a close friend of Alger Hiss, former State Department aide convicted of lying to a grand jury when he denied passing official secrets to Whittaker Chambers, self-admitted courier for a pre-war Soviet spy ring.
Lie, in a statement to newsmen, said Feller "has worked day and night under my direction to uphold due process of law and justice in the investigations against the indiscriminate smears and exaggerated charges."

"This placed him under a prolonged and serious strain," Lie said. "The terrible tragedy of his death is the result."
Morris' statement read:
"The statement of Trygve Lie is on its face irresponsible. This subcommittee is charged with the duty of determining whether any United States citizen working at the United Nations poses a threat to our national security."

Payment Due Klamath Tribe

A per capita payment of $300 each to 1,976 members of the Klamath Indian tribe is to be paid no later than Nov. 25, the Klamath Agency office announced today.
Originally the payment had been set for Nov. 20, $350 each.
But financial delays caused postponement of the date, and the Washington office of the Bureau of Indian Affairs reduced the amount to $300 because of some Indian money which hasn't cleared the bureau's books yet.

The tribe had voted in General Council session to make the payment $350.
Total of the payment is to be $592,800.

Ike, Dewey in Policy Conference

Governor Denies Post In Cabinet

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
AUGUSTA, Ga.—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York arrived here Friday for a policy conference with President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower and reiterated "there is no possibility" of his joining the general's cabinet.
The governor flew in by commercial plane to discuss Eisenhower's forthcoming trip to Korea and other policy problems facing the new Republican administration.
En route to Miami for a vacation, Dewey stopped off here at Eisenhower's request.

Asked about Eisenhower's coming trip to Korea, Dewey said he had some suggestions to make but added he could not discuss them with newsmen.

CHINESE
Asked then, whether he might suggest use of the Chinese Nationalist troops in the Korean war, the governor said no, that that was not one of the things he had in mind.
He said the matter of what to do about the Nationalist troops based on the island of Formosa is "a very delicate" problem which needs plenty of study.

Dewey, said alluding to Eisenhower's election, that "America feels awfully good these days that it is breathing clean and fresh air again."

The governor said he believes the nation is entering upon an era of good feeling, the like of which, he added, has not been seen since James Monroe more than 100 years ago.

Dewey was accompanied by Walter Williams, Seattle businessman, who served as chairman of the Citizens For Eisenhower Committee.

AIRPORT
They were met at the airport by James C. Hagerly, Eisenhower's press secretary, who formerly was Dewey's secretary, and by William Robinson, executive vice president of the New York Herald-Tribune. Robinson has been Eisenhower's golf partner at the Augusta National Club during the past week.

Dewey went from the airport to the golf club where a conference of about two hours is planned.
Among other things, they are scheduled to talk over problems likely to come up for discussion when Eisenhower confers with President Truman at the White House next Tuesday.

Hagerly announced the President-elect will be accompanied in the White House session by his two liaison men with the Truman administration.
They are GOP Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts and Detroit banker Joseph M. Dodge.

Both men, Hagerly said, will be present when Eisenhower talks to Truman.
Williams did not go to the club with Dewey and it was believed he went to a hotel while newsmen talked with Dewey. There has been speculation he might get an important post in the new administration.

Travel Tips
Winter weather and road conditions are mighty important to many Basin folk.
The Herald and News radio station, KFLW, has made special arrangements to be able to broadcast up-to-the-minute weather and road information each morning at 7 o'clock.
Road information will include U.S. 97, the Greensprings and By Mountain. Unfortunately, there will be little accurate information available for highways south of the California line until later in the morning.

Airline Seeks Klamath Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—United Air Lines Friday asked the Civil Aeronautics Board for authority to serve Klamath Falls and Medford on the same flight.
United said this would provide direct air service between the two cities for the first time and improve service between Klamath Falls and other West Coast cities.

Xmas Opening Plans Grow

The 1952 version of Klamath's annual Christmas Opening, set for Modoc Field Nov. 28, appears on the way to being one of this area's finest Christmas season celebrations.
Not only is an original pageant written around the story of "Why the Chimes Rang" to be presented, but Santa Claus is to arrive by helicopter right in the stadium.

Chairman Jim Lear announced today that the Klamath Municipal Arts Council is making plans to borrow costumes for the affair from the Ashland Shakespearean Festival. Sets are being planned and construction is under way for the 90 feet of frontage the stage is to have.

It is to be located on Modoc Field in such a manner that persons sitting in the closed grandstand will be able to see and hear clearly from almost any part.
Lear advised once again that those planning to attend should plan to be comfortable—and consequently should dress warmly. Because of the season, there is little doubt traditional wintertime gear will be in style.

More than 100 persons are to participate in the actual pageant, and Santa Claus is to climax the pageant with his aerial arrival.

Correction
A typographical error was responsible for a serious misstatement in a story in yesterday's Herald and News on the electric power outlook for the Klamath Country. The proposed Hells Canyon hydro-electric dam on the Snake River was referred to as being authorized by Congress. The word should have been "unauthorized." Congress has not authorized any phase of construction work on the dam.

Searchers Find Plane Wreck

SHELTON, Wash.—The charred and tangled wreckage of a Navy plane which exploded against a hillside Wednesday night with 11 men aboard has yielded four broken bodies and the remainder are being sought today.

The wreckage, scattered over a wide area of the forested Olympic Mountains foothill 15 miles north-west of here, was found by search parties last night.
They had been directed to the scene by residents of the area who saw the Seattle-based, four-engine plane pass low overhead and then crash with a roar and blinding flash into the 2,300 foot hill.

The plane was found at the 1,800 foot level. The bodies were buried beyond recognition and the Navy said there was "no reason to believe there had been any survivors."

Included among those lost in the accident was Capt. G. R. Dyson, 48, commander of Fleet Air Wing Four, who had gone along as an observer. The plane, on a training mission, was from a patrol squadron at Sand Point Naval Air Station, Seattle.

Turkey Prices Down This Year

PORTLAND (AP)—Turkey prices apparently will be slightly lower in Oregon this year with the birds in bigger supply for Thanksgiving.
Trade sources said prices were running 2 to 7 cents a pound under last year's prices. Wholesale prices were quoted at 55-56 cents a pound for toms and 57-58 cents for hens, compared with 57-58 for toms and 64-65 for hens last year.

The retail price was about 63 cents for toms and 69 cents for hens last year.

Basin Potato Shipments Up

Shipments of potatoes continued at a high rate yesterday despite adverse weather conditions, with State Inspection Service inspectors checking out 65 carloads—all but six by rail.
The weekly Potato and Truck Crops Review bulletin released by the Oregon Extension service reports Oregon's shipments for the week ending Nov. 8 totaled 283 cars, Idaho's were 1222 and Washington's 148.

On the Portland wholesale market this past week, the bulletin reported, prices advanced about 25 cents a 100 pound sack, Oregon Russets, U.S. No. 1, sold at $4.50 to $4.75, with some going at $5.00.
At San Francisco Nov. 10 brokers' track sales of Deschutes U.S. 1A's were up 15 cents a hundred to $4.65. Klamath Basin U.S. 1A's heavy to minimum sizes, brought $4.35, four ounce minimums brought $4.65, and U.S. No. 2's brought $3.00 to $3.35.

Local Pastor Returns Home

The Rev. Fred Neumann, Free Methodist Church, is back home here today safe and sound. And he brought a 400-pound elk home with him.
Tuesday, with the minister three days overdue home from a hunting trip in the Baker area, Mrs. Neumann became alarmed and sought aid of the State Police and the Herald and News.

It was ascertained in North Powder, near Baker, that the minister had gone into a remote section with a hunting companion and a messenger was dispatched into the woods to find Neumann and tell him of his wife's alarm.
When the minister arrived home early this morning, he explained that the North Powder hunting trek was fruitless and that he had then gone to Ukiah to try his luck. The phone line was out of order, and he could not inform his wife of his decision to prolong his trip.
