

WAKI—A photographer in the tail gunner's position in a B-25 bomber captured this head-on flight view of Convair's XF-92A research interceptor high over California's Mojave desert. The picture is the first of its kind released. The plane, being piloted by Maj. Charles E. Yeager, first man to fly faster than sound, is the forerunner of the GF-102 supersonic delta wing interceptor recently ordered into production at Convair's San Diego, Calif., plant. Parallel lines on wing at left are rows of wool tufts which show direction of air flow.

Governor's Study School Plan

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Chief executives and educators of 16 states met here today to act on a proposed southern regional education foundation.

Gov. Gordon Browning of Tennessee, chairman of the Southern Regional Education Board, said the plan for interstate collaboration in higher education would be submitted to the Southern Governors Conference today.

The board's executive committee, headed by Browning, approved the proposal yesterday.

The foundation would be financed by gifts and grants and, said Browning, "industries in the South will want to make contributions."

The purpose of the proposed foundation is to further education, research and service in professional, technological, scientific, literary and other fields.

Southern governors created the board in February, 1948, and by legislative appropriations a dual program has been undertaken. The program includes (1) an exchange of students among the states to give the student a wider choice of institutions specializing in his subject, with the states compensating each other for the expense of out-of-state students, and (2) supervision of co-operative planning in graduate studies to avoid unnecessary duplication by various institutions.

The exchange of students has been operating in medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine and social work education. Under a system of contracts, 1,300 students, 796 White and 200 Negro, are crossing state lines for training not available at home.

In interviews yesterday some of the governors expressed the belief that development of a two-party system in the South depends largely on the treatment the South gets from the administration of President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower.
