Foreign Aid May Shift From West Europe to Asia

WASHINGTON (AP)—Foreign affairs experts predicted today the new Republican-controlled Congress will trim U. S. spending abroad, with emphasis on military and economic aid shifting from Europe to Asia.

Foreign aid likely will kick off the first big debate in the 83rd Congress convening Jan. 3. Extension of the Mutual Assistance Program is one of the first things on its agenda.

With Republican leaders just about sized on a top budget figure of 70 billion dollars in fiscal 1953-54, the foreign spending program faces possibly hefty reductions for the year beginning July 1. The authorization for this year, ending next June, is $6,447,736,750.

Any controversy is certain to center around American outlay of $3,104,867,655 during the postwar years since 1945 and gross foreign spending of some 87 billion dollars since 1940.

Much of the money authorized and appropriated is as yet unspent. As of last June, the mutual assistance program showed a five-billion-dollar balance earmarked for guns, tanks, aircraft and the like. Funds not obligated and carried over amounted to about 400 million.

Rep. Lawrence Smith of Wisconsin, fourth-ranking Republican member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said the whole foreign aid program must be reviewed and reduced. He told a reporter: "I don't think the country will stand for any more all-out spending. We owe it to the country to sit down in bipartisan fashion and take a good look at the new problems which have arisen."

Among such problems, Smith said, are European failure to meet rearming goals of the North Atlantic Treaty program, France's financial troubles and the free world's improved economic status.

Smith said President-elect Eisenhower has heretofore been concerned chiefly with Western Europe, adding: "I'm hoping when Ike goes to Korea he gets a picture of this Asiatic situation."

Republicans in Congress have been loudly critical of what they call the Democratic administration's "failure" to protect Asia from Communist aggression.

In the last foreign aid bill, Asia and the Pacific got only about 900 million dollars of the over six billions authorized.

Democratic Rep. Mike Mansfield of Montana, elected Nov. 4 to the Senate, said he believes foreign aid will be continued, but cut down in amount and with more conditions for its application.

Mansfield, a strong backer of President Truman's foreign policy while in the House, said he would like to see fewer Americans abroad administering foreign aid programs and an end to "duplication of effort." He said this would bring "more efficiency and greater responsibility on the part of our allies."
