

Sen. Humphrey Urges Morse To Join Democratic Party

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota said today he will urge fellow Senate Democrats to invite rebel-Republican Sen. Morse of Oregon to join their party councils.

He said he had told Morse of his plan.

Humphrey declined to discuss the reaction of the Oregon senator.

Morse quit the Republican party during the presidential campaign, announced he would become an independent and plucked for the election of Democratic presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson.

Senate Democrats plan to meet a few days ahead of the Jan. 3 convening of Congress to discuss strategy.

"I'm going to propose then that Sen. Morse be invited to sit in on the caucus," Humphrey told a reporter.

"I do not believe it would be seemly for the caucus by formal action to issue such an invitation," Gillette said. "We would welcome any other senator who desires to work with us, but the initiative should be taken by the senator himself."

A Southern Democratic senator, declining to be quoted by name "because it would be embarrassing to discuss a colleague," said he felt Morse "knows his way around, and can ask to be admitted to the caucus if he desires. We should not invite him."

The Southerner said he doubted that any of the Dixie delegation would oppose admitting Morse to party councils simply because they may disagree with his frequent endorsement of proposed civil rights legislation.

Humphrey said he thought the caucus "ought to bring up the issue of whether to challenge the party label of Democrats who supported President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower," but he expressed no confidence that the idea would get far.

Thomas Reviews 'Turkeys' Lana Turner Love On List

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This is the day for it, so let's review the "Turkeys" of 1952.

In show business terms, a turkey is something more than that bird Americans are munching on today: A turkey is a dud, a loss, a flop. It is the direct opposite of a hit, a smash, a bonanza.

At the end of each year, I review the high spots of the 12 months in Hollywood. So it seems only natural to select today for a glance at 1952's turkeys. Here are some recommendations:

1. The Lana Turner-Fernando Lamas Romance. This started to blaze after Lana busted up with her third husband, Bob Topping, and co-starred with Lamas in "The Merry Widow." The love match helped make a raft of publicity for the ardent Latin.

Then Lamas announced publicly that he had scant interest in matrimony. The romance fell apart like last week's gardenia. Significantly, Lamas was dropped as Lana's co-star in a future epic titled "Latin Lovers."

2. The sale of RKO. After languishing under Howard Hughes' rule, the ailing studio got a burst of life with its reported sale to a Chicago syndicate. But the deal blew up after publicity about some of the syndicate's backers. The company is still looking for some donors to pump plasma into it.

3. "Doc Corle." This unhappy comedy show takes the TV turkey cast. It started out with a bang, but fizzled out after a few weeks. Instead of going the usual 13 week tryout, it was replaced by "Mister Peepers." The estimated loss on the filmed show was in six figures.

4. "My Son John." This film

British Commonwealth Heads To Study Economic Problems

By ARTHUR GAVSTON

LONDON (AP)—British Commonwealth prime ministers and their deputies gathered here today in winter weather as bleak and stormy as the economic problems they will try to solve.

As heavy snow, gales and ice gripped much of the British Isles, the seven prime ministers and two deputies prepared for two weeks of conferences during which they hope to work out plans for putting the vast Commonwealth on a paying basis and for stepping up the flow of world trade.

The weather delayed the arrival of Canada's Louis St. Laurent, held up last night in Prestwick, Scotland. Two other attendants, Australia's Robert G. Menzies, and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, were delayed by engine trouble flying from New York and did not arrive until this morning.

Already here to meet with Britain's Winston Churchill were Prime Ministers Dudley Senanayake of Ceylon, Sidney G. Holland of New Zealand, Khwaja Nazimuddin of Pakistan and Sir Godfrey Huggins of Southern Rhodesia.

South African Deputy Prime Minister N. C. Havenga and Indian Finance Minister Sir C. H. D. Desai came to represent Prime Ministers Daniel F. Malan and Jawaharlal Nehru.

Churchill will speak for Britain's far-flung colonies at the talks.

The prime ministers hope to do in which they can invite all of non-Communist Europe and then the United States to co-operate.

Their idea is first to balance their own books by spending no more than they can pay for, then to get world trade moving more easily, particularly between the dollar and non-dollar countries.

Humphrey's suggestion drew support from Sen. Hunt (D-Wyo) in a separate interview, but there were quick signs that there would be at least some opposition.

"I would not oppose inviting Sen. Morse to sit in with us if it is proposed at the caucus," Hunt said. "He resigned from his party, then came out four-square for Stevenson in an honorable manner. He did not pretend one thing, and be another."

Se. Gillette (D-Ia) told a reporter he thought such an invitation would not be "seemly."
