David Niven Uncorks Tale Of Stabbing Corked Leg

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — The Laugh Parade: David Niven made "Honnie Prince Charlie" several years ago but he's just getting around to telling an "I-didn't-know - whether-to-laugh-or-to-cry" story about the British production.

One scene called for Niven, backed by 600 extras from the British armed forces, to lead a battle charge over a hill. Sword raised, Niven began the assault, only to stumble and carry a number of extras to the ground with him. Lifting his head, he discovered to his horror that his sword had gone through the leg of one of the extras.

"I say there," he gasped, suddenly swept by waves of nausea, but at that moment the director's voice boomed over the loudspeaker, urging Niven and the extras to continue the mock battle.

The soldier strove and stumbled ahead, Niven's sword still in his leg.

"I've run my sword through your leg," Niven yelled, trotting after the extra. "You simply can't go on, old boy. You must stop for medical aid."

"Please be quiet," the wounded extra finally said. "I need this job and you're going to spoil it for me. It just happens that I'm the only soldier in the Coldstream Guard with a cork leg and you've put your blasted sword through it."

In court at the trial, Fisher claimed his melody was a masterpiece and had earned close to $1,000,000.

"But how," asked the judge, "can you tell if it's a masterpiece?"

"Look," said Fisher. "How much did Moses get for the 10 Commandments?"

John Ireland tells it on wifey Joanne Dr. One day he lunched with his agent at Romanoff's and returning home he found that Joanne was nursing a cold in bed. In an effort to cheer her up, he began to tell Joanne about the people he had seen at the restaurant.

"I say there," he said. "And so was Eve Miller."

"Evesdropper!" snapped Joanne.

Here's a new Zsa Zsa Gabor yarn: During the filming in Paris of "Moulin Rouge" in which the Hungarian-born beauty plays the role of Jane Avril, she asked Director John Huston's permission to wear diamond earrings in a scene.

"Diamond earrings?" exclaimed Huston. "You're supposed to be going to bed in the scene."

"But, darling," Miss double Z came back. "I always wear diamond earrings in bed. Ask any of my husbands."

Laugh of the American zone in Germany is the recent visit paid by stage director Joshua Logan to Berlin to visit Ella Kazah, who was directing Frederic March and Terry Moore in "The Man on the Tightrope."

For some reason that Logan can't explain, he mistook the customs men surrounding him at the airport for a welcoming group of publicity men from the 20th Century-Fox studio.

And when the customs men asked, "Coffee, cigars, cognac?" for the purpose of levying a tax on those items, Logan smiled and said:

"Well, thank you. I'd dearly love a cup of coffee."

If Hedy Lamarr ever writes her autobiography, her pals insist that this fragment from her marriage to John Loder shouldn't be left out:

Hedy arrived home one evening in a "Let-me-tell-you-what - happened-at-the-studio-today" mood and proceeded to talk for an hour while Loder dutifully listened.

"Now," said Loder when Hedy had finished, "let me tell you what happened to me at the studio today."

"You, darling?" shrugged Hedy. "Who wants to hear about a B picture?"

About a year ago there was big talk at MGM about casting Margaret Truman in a film to be produced by Joe Pasternak, Day after the Nov. 4 election, a friend asked Joe:

"Tell me - do you still want Margaret for your picture?"

"Margaret who?" quipped Joe.

Youth Takes Cold Ride

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP)—Twelve-year-old Philip Quick was back home today, none the worse for his jaunt on the outside of a speeding Lehigh Valley Railroad train.

A chief on the train heard a pounding on the side of his dining car last night, shortly after the train had left here for Geneva, 35 miles north of this city in Central New York.

He pulled young Quick to safety from the 1st's perch on a ladder on the side of the car. The railroad returned the boy home on the next train — on the inside.
