It Happened This Way in New Pine Creek

By IRVIN FARIS

If Nature's Eternal Wisdom can be relied upon—there is a slight inkling that we may have a dern cold winter.

"Who says so—foolish one?"

Here—so help me! Behind the eight ball again—peering dimly but courageously around it's sleek curvature. 'Taint no crystal ball either—could be just a solo-flight of the imagination but—! We observe and hear from distant places strange stories about the migratory birds. We strain to penetrate that unknown realm that shrouds Nature's wild life. What a restless surge now fills the cold, blue sky!

The birds now flying comprise mostly those more transitory flights that stop only for food in the fields and off-shore meadows. The ice-glazed shore lines serve as grotesquely mirrored warnings — reflecting the multiple horrors of being frozen in Winter's death-cold grip.

So these birds wing on—intoning monotonously about their many vicissitudes in quack-talk and honker-talk, V-shaped across the barren stretches — ever-southward But these long flights take lots of vitality and when the wearied fowl come in for a frustrated landing for fear not enough food they'll find to go around, their vociferating squawks multiply into an unceasing noisy din. Then the sport-loving hunter comes along. Bang! off they go again.

'Tis a wonder the birds are as nice and fat as they are this fall. Now—from the southland comes the report that these fowl are arriving away ahead of schedule.

Art Lenkeit is the shootingest guy you ever saw. Every day bangety-bang goes he! 'Tis no wonder—upon his wall hangs a plaque—Olympic Skeet Shooting Champion 1915. Now you just don't come close—to win one of those bronze metal plaques.

And it is a blessing for his many shooting, hitting and non-hitting friends who come up to enjoy his free-flowing hospitality. Among his visitors last weekend were: Raliegh Nail, retiring president of Optimist International; Gene Baum, General Sales Manager of the Coast Envelope Company; June Virtue, retired millionaire, formerly a manufacturer of Chrome Furniture — Virtue Brothers; Emil Schwarting, retired manufacturer; and C. F. Borton, retired sleeping bag manufacturer. You see it's all in the bag!

Say—if anybody happens to ask you—tell 'em that the Big Grange Annual Bazaar was a jim-dandy success. A literal translation of "jim-dandy" means the "greatest financial success" the East Side Grange Home Economics club has ever enjoyed in their history. The ladies of whom the Grange is or ought to be proud, cleared $437. Now ain't that somethin'!

These ladies feel so darn good about it all—that in deep sincerity they want to thank each and every donor for their generous contributions which, without same, the Grange Bazaar could have never been the success that it was. Also Chairman Nera Mulkey who ramrodded this thing through was deeply gratified by the splendid cooperation she received from those who were not appointed — who helped. "It was all so wonderful!" she said.

Another thing the ladies were especially pleased about was the orderliness and clean, fun-loving behavior of the large, congenial crowd. The teenagers were grand and apparently just had a right smart bit of fun—dancing to Frank Foss's Dizzy Five—The concessions all went over big—enjoying sell-outs in nearly every instance.

The ladies give such exuberant praise to the Lakeview business firms for the support they freely gave that they want a list of all the doners published. Here they are: Lakeview Floor Service, Stewart's Club, Peterson's Bargain House, Hi-Way Grocery, Lakeview Building Material Company, Adams and Fossum's Lumber Company, The Co-Op; Herman's Store, Auto Industrial Parts Company, Koffee Kup, Briscoe Motors Fremont Motors, Graham - Mercer Chevrolet, Macobee's, Safeway Store, Fashion Shop, Lakeview Mercantile, Smith's Bakery, Family Grocery, Snyder and Howard's; Hart's Drug Store, News and Sweets, Mary-Jo Shop, Gus Allen Market, Van's Electric.

Thrift Cut Rate, Round-Up Tavern, Fitch's Men's Store, J. C. Penny Store, Thornton's Drug Store, Examiner Office, Stewart Jewelry Store, Moty-Van Dyke's Auto Parts, Kimes Plumbing and Heating, The Marketeria, Economy Grocery, Rose Cleaners; Brosius Plumbing Shop, Western Auto, Rugg's Jewelry Store, Water's Farm Supply, Ousley Furniture Store, Lawrence Printing Company, Marshall Wells, Top Hat Cleaners, Ben Lange Motors, Gray's Shell Service, Griffin's Tire Exchange and Sporting Goods, Union Service Station, Lake County Hardware, and McCaw's Variety.

The New Pine Creek donors were: Cooper's Drive Inn, Kruzon's Lakeside Service Station, Green Garden Tavern, Johnston's Service Station, The Shamrock Tavern, Butler's Market, Faris Store, Mr. and Mrs. Art Lenkeit and the Willow Ranch Mercantile at Willow Ranch.

The Grange members contributed the food and everybody is happy to have shared in the support of a very worthy community organization, and to have had a fine social evening.

Mrs. Elizabeth Smith has been confined in the Alturas hospital for the past two weeks, suffering from an heart ailment. She was some better on Tuesday when Mrs. Annie Gallagher dropped in to see her.

A physician was summoned for Walter Butler early last Sunday morning as he was feeling very low. Poor circulation and possibly a weakened heart, aggravated by a diabetic condition was given as the cause of his trouble. He was some better Monday but is still having trouble with his legs which give him considerable discomfiture.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hartzog returned last Thursday afternoon, Nov. 27, after spending nine days visiting with Dave Hartzog and family at Pullman, Wn.

Don Cancmillia and his crew of four Christmas tree cutters left here late last Monday eve for their homes near San Jose. Don was here about 17 days, making his headquarters at the State Line Motel. They cut trees off of the Art Lenkeit tree farm.

You've heard of live wires — yeah? Well — anyway — this Cancimillia fellow is one. He has a store down near San Jose — pretty fair sized one. He sells his Christmas trees on an adjacent lot beside his store $1 per foot. He has a bulldozer and two trucks—does contractual road work on the side as well as plumbing jobs and follows the carpenter work and cement finishing trade some. He plays the clarinet and saxaphone —having had his own orchestra during World War II. He played in nearly every country in Europe. Two of his boys returned Sunday evening to pick up another load of trees which he left behind. They haul from 1,000 to 3,000 trees per load—depending upon their size. Don is an old schoolmate of John Penhall.

If you haven't seen it you should. It's the new Willow Ranch Company's planing mill now in its first stages of operation, construction of same having been started last May.

The capacity of the $500,000 addition to the company's plant is somewhere around 200,000 board feet per day (24 hours). However, it will be some little time before all the bugs are ironed out of the complicated machinery so it can be put into full and setady production.

The planing mill is equipped with the latest electrical machines put out by the Stetson Ross Company of Seattle which comprises a huge planner and four trim saws.

The sprinkler system is being installed by the Rushlight Company of Portland which will give the plant a first class insurance rating—as far as mill rates go. The planer—when tuned to pitch —will operate steady throughout the year.

The building housing this modern plant is 100 feet by 200 feet —made of pine construction with new type plastic skylights and has cement flooring throughout, which provides ample room for swift carrier operations. It, in fact, is especially constructed to expedite the hauling and shipping of finished lumber.

A dozen or less men will be able to operate the planing mill when thoroughly whipped into shape, because of the scientific arrangement and modern nature of the equipment.

Framing of the new addition to the First Baptist church has been under way this past week. The new construction will house modern rest rooms, a baptistry and a class room or two.

Sylvester Gallagher has been out of commission the past week, feeling quite unfit with such a nasty cold. It nearly got out of control and in to the pneumonia stage. He was feeling well enough Monday to go to work again.

The Raymond Fisher family moved into their nice new home just north of the Kelly Creek School on the site where once stood the old residence known as the Kuntz place. It seems good to see the light shining through the big picture windows while passing along at night. That spot was so dark—so long—there beneath the big trees that once shaded a cozy little residence.

Raymond has his front yard pretty well graded up already—even has some rows of berry bushes and stuff set out. Water is supplied to the home by two springs that come by pipe for a quarter of mile or so up on the foot hills to the east .The place is thus assured of ample water from the 2,000 gallontank built just below the springs and it will produce an abundance of pressure.

Roy Parlin presented our establishment with a keep-sake, which was very thoughtful and we appreciate it. It is a keep-sake because it is so large we can never use it all up. A 24½ pound pumpkin grown on his place.

A shower will be given for Mrs. Carolyn Sprout on Dec. 4. She is the daughter of Carroll Mulkey.
