103-Year-Old Woman Dies
 COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (AP) — Two weeks after she celebrated her 103rd anniversary, Mrs. Magnolia Waldo died.
 The elderly woman died Friday. She outlived two husbands and three of her four children. Her father had a greater longevity, however. He died at the age of 118.

Republicans Want Tickets
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are lined up deep for tickets to the inaugural ball, highlight of the Jan. 20 presidential inauguration festivities.
 The subcommittee in charge of the ball said yesterday the 6,000 available invitations will be distributed on a state quota basis.
 DISPUTE SETTLED
 BOSTON (AP) — Bernard L. Alpert, regional director of the National Labor Relations Board, announced Friday a 10-year-old dispute between the Winchester Repeating Arms Co. and 106 former employees has been settled for $350,000 in back pay.

Arson Feared In Asylum Fire
 HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — State Fire Marshal C. A. Raper said Saturday the Thanksgiving Eve fire which claimed 17 lives at Huntington State Hospital and one of two extinguished a blaze in the institution Friday night "have the earmarks of arson."
 However, he said he wasn't "making any accusations," adding that the "situation will bear watching."
 Three more victims of the fire died early Saturday. They included Miss Cleon Mitchum, 24, of Bee Tree Hollow, and Ruth Barnett, 34, of Huntington, both victims of smoke inhalation. Mrs. Lettie Farley, 83 of Harris, died of burns. Fourteen other women and girls died in the fire.
 Raper said an attendant, questioned by police and two arson investigators four hours Friday night, had been released. The man was taken into custody—but not charged—shortly after firemen had extinguished a blaze in the Generality Assembly building.

Joan Evans Quits Songs To Blossom in Dramatics
 BY ERSKINE JOHNSON
 HOLLYWOOD (REA) — Behind the Screen: Joan Evans won't be pushing Kathryn Grayson and Jane Powell to one side as a high-C lark, after all.
 She's given up her vocal studies—"I heard a recording of my voice and was horrified," she confessed—and will concentrate on blossoming out as a young Lana or Ava in the dramatic department now that she's the bride of auto salesman Kirby Weatherly.
 "Everybody still sees me as a child so it's not going to be easy," 18-year-old Joan sighed. All is peaceful between Joan and her parents, filmwriters Dale Eunson and Katharine Albert, over her marriage, but she shrugged her shoulders to my question on whether Joan Crawford had been forgiven by the Euntsons for helping arrange her midnight hitching to Weatherly.
 "I just don't know that," the Joan named Evans said.
 Lex Barker's confession: he's taking vocal lessons. "But I've got at least six months of study before I unleash a single note in public," he says.
 Walter Abel, in Hollywood to resume his career, is worried about his 18-year-old son, hospitalized in New York—a meningitis case. . . . Patricia Mason says she's still working on a magazine article based on her eyebrow-lifting expose of Hollywood social cliques. Wonder if she'll add a new one—out-of-work stars? . . . Anne Stirling, Joan Crawford's headliner, picked up a baffling virus in Korea, where she entertained the troops. She's been under observation at a Hollywood hospital.
 Richard Carlson and United Artists are going "round and round" over the title of his independent star, "A-Men," story of Uncle Sam's private eyes who are guarding atomic bomb secrets and break big up foreign spy rings. Dick's worried about people mistaking the film for religious celluloid because the Atom hasn't been as well publicized as T-Men and G-Men.
 Margaret Whiting's Reno night club date started those divorce rumors, which she says aren't true. "The only reason I'm going to Reno alone," she declares, "is to make money."
 "Dance teams and chorus-girl hoodlums on television? Some of them are pretty good. But it's time the TV cameramen started learning the steps and routines too."
 Famous movie dance director Nick Castle appraising video twinkle-bomb and learning the TV lens boys for most of the visual errors. "They just don't know how to handle a line of girls," Nick told me, "because it's obvious they don't know the routines. The camera has to be in step with the dancers."
 Marge and Gower Chapman, when they were on TV, were the only consistently good dancers. Nick opined. As for the others: "They change clothes and sets but they never change their steps."
 Now it's even a sexy Tarzan movie. Joyce MacKenzie's putting new oomph into Tarzan's male in the latest jungle thriller. Instead of a tree-housewife, she's a glamor babe. . . . The Giants lose to the Dodgers again in "Main Street to Broadway," but Leo Durocher is

Heroic GI Awarded DSC
 WITH U. S. EIGHTH ARMY, Korea (AP)—An American soldier who kept firing his machine gun despite an almost useless right arm—who used a pistol and hand grenades when his ammunition was exhausted—and who personally accounted for more than 100 Red casualties has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross.
 The soldier is Pfc James V. Cline of Res. Co., Machine Gunner in Company M, 179th Regiment, U. S. 45th Infantry Division.
 The Communists launched a mortar and artillery bombardment last June 15 against a hill near Karshyn which was defended by Company M. An exploding artillery round overturned Cline's weapon and buried the crew.
 Hurriedly digging his way out and cleaning his gun, Cline fired at the advancing Red infantry until he stopped their assault.
 He turned back a second wave of attackers by destroying their machine gun with direct fire from his own.
 Cline next wrecked a pack howitzer being operated in support of a third wave of the enemy. The howitzer had fired only one round when he found its range and killed the entire crew.
 He was wounded shortly thereafter by an exploding grenade. Although both his legs were riddled with shell fragments and his right arm was all but useless, Cline swung his gun around and fired continuously into the still advancing enemy troops, successfully hurting them back.
 When his ammunition was exhausted, he used a pistol and hand grenades to help drive the Reds from the U. N. position.
 Another grenade wound, this one in the face, finally forced his evacuation for medical treatment.

Everybody Getting In Act; Hollywood Producers Cry
 BY BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Notes and comment on the Hollywood scene: Everybody wants to get into the act!
 That Jimmy Durante has been voiced by many a maker of a Hollywood epic. A producer will come out with his picture only to discover that someone is showing a similar attraction across the street.
 When Walter Wanger brought out "Algiers," he found some theaters playing the original French version of the story, "Pepe le Moko," starring Jean Gabin. The RFA Hayworth version of Carmen competed with European films of the popular classic. Walt Disney's "Alice in Wonderland" was played by a competitor, filmed in France with puppets.
 Now it appears that two new films, "Hans Christian Andersen" and "Julius Caesar," will have competitors with the same subject matter. A couple of foreign counterparts of the Andersen film have been reported.
 The Caesar competition comes from a domestic source. A few years ago, a young fellow named David Bradley made a $60,000
