C. Coburn Feels Younger After Marilyn, Jane Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What's it like to be co-starring with Jane Russell and Marilyn Monroe? Says Charles Coburn: "I feel 20 years younger!"

"Ah, youth!" sighed the 70-year-old actor as he reflected on the two glamor girls with whom he is appearing in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." He portrays the diamond tycoon who inspires the song, "Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend." Besides having a flirtation with Miss Monroe, he does a musical number in which she sings "Down, Boy!"

"You know, an actor has to keep up in his profession," he said. "He must continue observing people, so he can use their habits and mannerisms in his characterizations. Otherwise, he stagnates as an actor. I have always made it a habit to watch young people; that's the best way to find out how people are living and thinking."

"And I can't think of any more pleasant work than watching Miss Monroe and Miss Russell. Each possesses sex appeal to a remarkable degree. That is a kind of animal magnetism which is rare in human beings. Some of the great figures of the theater had it—women like Anna Held and Lillian Russell.

"These two girls have it, and they know how to use it. Whether they themselves are sexy, I don't know; that is something else again. But they certainly are able to excite sex appeal."

Apart from their obvious physical attributes, Misses Monroe and Russell are pleasant to work with, Coburn commented.

"Each of them has a sense of humor, and that is a valuable attribute in a woman," he said. "Neither of them has let fame go to her head; they are regular and don't put on airs."

Miss Russell seems like a very smart woman, she has apparently managed her career intelligently. Marilyn has had less experience in pictures, but she seems eager to learn. She will listen to direction and advice, which is something a lot of newcomers won't do."

He added that both women have motherly qualities, something many of their fans may not have noticed.

"That is another important factor in a woman," he remarked. "I don't mean that women have to be motherly only to their children; men want to be mothered too."

"After all, a man never really grows up. All of us remain boys. A girl of 13 is more mature in the ways of life than a man of 30. That's why most men seek a wife who possesses the qualities that his mother had."

Looking forward to more work with Russell and Monroe, Coburn said he was reminded of a story about the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr.

"One day when he was 90," the actor related, "he was walking down a Washington street with his old friend Justice Brandeis, who was 70. As they walked along, a pretty girl came toward them. She gave them the eye, and they tipped their hats.

"After she had gone 10 paces past them, they turned and she gave them the eye again. Then Holmes turned to Brandeis and sighed, 'Ah, to be 70 again!'"

Woman Wins Sewer Fight

WINTER PARK, Fla. (AP)—City workers can go ahead and lay their sewer.

Mrs. E. J. Humpfer won't shoot—that is, if the city keeps its promise that there won't be any dirt piled on her lawn and that none of her shrubbery will be injured.

With that settlement yesterday, Mrs. Humpfer announced, "I won my point and now I put up my shotgun."

She had patrolled the lawn of her $31,000 home for a week, threatening to shoot the heels off any city employe daring to set foot on her property.

A group of workers was persuaded not to move a load of dirt dumped on the city-owned parkway in front of her home.

Mrs. Humpfer said when declaring peace: "I have watched the careless property destruction caused by the laying of this sewer line and I was only prepared to protect what was mine. We have had this sewer line pushed ruthlessly down our throats by city officials."

Her street doesn't need sewers, she said, because everyone there has septic tanks.

Instructor Not so Good

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A onetime automobile driving instructor is serving 60 days in jail for failing to practice what he preached.

Walter E. McKiernan, 40, was cited yesterday on four bench warrants accusing him of (1) making a left turn without signaling, (2) failing to make a boulevard stop, (3) making an unsafe change in lanes and (4) illegal parking.

These infractions McKiernan admitted to Judge J. C. Kepple, but he said he quit auto instructing and went to work in a plane plant two months before still another offense, misdemeanor drunk driving, occurred.

The court suspended the first four counts, sentenced McKiernan on the drunk driving charge.
