

BUSY LITTLE HELPERS In the Christmas Seal program, are Penny Lynn Howie, standing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. (Mel) Howie; and Muriel Ann Majors, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Majors. Mrs. Majors is executive secretary of the Klamath County Tuberculosis and Health Association. In the spirit of real Christmas giving, the picture is dedicated to those who have already paid for their Christmas seals, and a reminder to all others to send in their checks as soon as possible.

sible. Also, the association urges you USE the stamps. Letters and packages carrying them keep before the public the importance of this program to stamp out a disease which is no respecter of age. Because of the concerted war against this killer, the tuberculosis picture has greatly changed for the better. Your contributions in the past have made this possible; and your support in the future will assure continued protection for you and yours. M.R. Photo by Floyd, Underwood's

Deanna Durbin Returns But Won't Make Movies

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The film town can't believe it. Deanna Durbin is back in Hollywood, but she says she's not interested in doing movies.

I didn't believe it either until I paid her a visit at her Hollywood hilltop home, which affords a view of Catalina on a clear day. She told me she was interested in no other career except her family. It consists of her husband, writer-director Charles David, their son, Peter, 1½, and her daughter by a previous marriage, Jessica, 7.

"I can't seem to make people believe that I don't care about doing any more pictures," she smiled. "Mr. Pasternak is a fellow who won't take no for an answer."

She referred to Joe Pasternak, who produced her fabulously successful films at Universal and is now a big man at MGM. He has been after her for a return to films. It would possibly be for a co-starring opus with Mario Lanza, who has expressed an eagerness to appear with Miss Durbin.

"I'm not a ham," she commented. "I never have been, although I could never get people to believe it. Some people love to perform; it's their life. My daughter Jessica seems to be like that. She could probably start now and be happy to continue acting until she's 90.

"But not me. I started when I was 12, doing a short at MGM with Judy Garland. I did 'Three Smart Girls' when I was 13. I was caught in the whirl until I quit three years ago at 27. That's a big chunk out of my life. Sure, I had a lot of fun and I enjoyed things I otherwise wouldn't have had. But I also missed out on a lot of the joys of girls who lead normal lives."

Deanna indicated that her young son has a great deal to do with her decision.

"I can see how much it means to Peter to have a mother who is always there when he needs her," she observed. "And I can see how much Jessica missed by not having the same care. When she was a baby, I was at the studio from 6 in the morning until 8 at night. During that time, she was in the care of a nurse, and heaven knows what would happen to her while I was at the studio."

Her future plans? They are concerned only with travel.

"We own a home here and another in France," she said. "They will be our bases. We'll spend as much time as possible seeing new places. I find that very exciting. Before I quit pictures, I couldn't even go to Toledo without a corps of escorts from the studio."

Picture Sale Irks Marilyn

She has asked 20th Century-Fox Studio lawyers, a spokesman said Thursday, to see if anything can be done about stopping use of the celebrated picture on trays and drinking glasses.

Their offhand opinion was that nothing could. But they said they'd dig deeper into legal tomes.

The spokesman said he and Marilyn had seen the picture on cocktail trays.

They'd heard of its use on glasses. He didn't think she'd make a real legal fight of it unless the practice got to be "a national institution."

The blonde lovely posed for the picture in 1946. When she was later identified as the subject, she said she posed because she was hungry and three weeks behind in her rent.

The shape of things to come in calendars was indicated, meanwhile, by Western Lithograph Company, one of two companies which own calendar rights to Monroe poses in the altogether. Both poses were made at the same sitting.

First brought out in 1951, the calendar was reprinted for '52 and '53 and in January will be available for '54, said Roy Johnson, sales manager for Advertising Specialties.

He said his and a Chicago firm, which issues the other pose, have sold "several hundred thousand" copies.

A post office rule forbids nude calendars in the mail. They have to go by railway express or freight, Johnson said. But—"We do not consider this a lewd picture. We consider it art—definitely art."

WE RECOMMEND THIS "WHIPPET" WHIRL-TYPE WHIPPER—FROM YOUR HARDWARE DEALER

Whipping Cream Hints

1. Order Crater Lake Guaranteed whipping cream.
2. Properly aged whipping cream whips better than too fresh cream. Order whipping cream 24 hours in advance.
3. Chill your cream, bowl and whipper to 40° or less, as warm cream will churn before whipping.
4. Keep your cream cool after whipping—If warm it will tend to separate.
5. Cool dessert before adding whipped cream as it will tend to separate on a warm dessert.
