Cantor Has Praise For Mimic Brassele

BY ERSKINE JOHNSON
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Hollywood on the Record: Eddie Cantor, about Keeffe Brassele who will impersonate the comic in "The Eddie Cantor Story".

"He's great. I watched him go through two of my hardest songs. For a minute I forgot that I was doing his singing. The kid is hep. He was Eddie Cantor!"

Joyce Holden, about the lack of comedienne roles on the screen: "I don't know—maybe even Mabel Normand would have a tough time today in Hollywood. Nobody's writing comedies for women. There's been some talk of re-writing Carole Lombard's pictures for me. Never. I think it would be a mistake. The Lombard fans would never stand for it."

Errol Flynn: "I don't worry about money so long as I can reconcile my net income with my gross habits."

Corinne Calvet: "It isn't anatomy alone that makes a French girl more at home in a Bikini bathing suit. It's a state of mind."

Fred Allen: "A dramatic actor is just a comedian who can't get laughs."

Movie fashion designer Elois Jensen, about Marilyn Monroe: "Every time I design a gown for her, the censors raise the neck-line about three inches."

Joe E. Louis: "I have no respect for age unless it's bottled."

Louis Calhern, on the subject of Marilyn Monroe: "She's certainly gone places. We all thought she was dumb when she made 'Asphalt Jungle.' And when I saw her while making 'We're Not Married,' her facade was one of utter stupidity. But I sensed that she was no jerk. Nobody was putting anything over on her."

Glenn Ford, vouching about his old "So Ends Our Night" movie on TV: "I was exactly 18 when I made it. It seems a shame to show it over and over again."

Red Skelton, defending his filmed TV show: "The other day I went to a movie that was advertised as being three years in the making. After the show I didn't hear any complaint that it lacked spontaneity."

Tony Dexter, waiting about not being allowed to meet the Hollywood press while he was working in "Valentino": "It was a very short-sighted policy. Actors shouldn't be shielded from the press. People think I'm still sort of a male Garbo."

George Jessel, arriving late at Southern California Army camp: "Don't worry about the Russians finding you here. I had the address and I couldn't find it."

Jack Carson, after meeting Johnnie Ray: "He's wonderful. He got so emotional, for a minute I thought he was gonna laugh."

Denise Darcel, the French party on becoming Miss Gains Down: "I realize these ooh-la-la no good for me. Now I change so much. I was, 'ow you say, very r-r-rab-rah so full of enragee and so like to clown. I thenk when Prahaek girls first come to sis cuntry, say let a leetle crazy. Now I am domestic."

Family Loses Xmas Presents

CHLOQUIN—Christmas ended abruptly last night for the six children in the Curtis Stanton family when a box of Christmas toys was lost during the trip from here to their home 11 miles out on the Sprague River road.

The family had been snow-bound for a month, off and on, at their home north of here. They managed yesterday to break through the snow to come to Chloquin to have Christmas with Mrs. Stanton's grandmother, Amanda Cowan, famed as the oldest Indian on the Klamath reservation.

The youngsters, aged one to nine, all received gifts during the exchange, and late last night started back home in the family pickup. When they arrived, Stanton went around to get the box of toys from the rear of the pickup. The box had bounced out.

The father then began walking back along the road toward Chloquin to retrieve the youngsters' toys. He walked the full 11 miles back in to here, but never found the box.

The Stantons are hoping some good neighbors picked up the toys, and are awaiting word of to whom they belong.

Martin and Lewis Score As Box Office Drawings

BY BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dean and Jerry made it.

After six years together and three years in the movies, the mad team of Martin and Lewis has hit the top of the entertainment ladder. They were chosen the No. 1 box office winners in the annual poll of theater men by the Motion Picture Herald.

The young zanyes replaced John Wayne, winner last year but No. 3 in 1952. Another veteran of Westerns, Gary Cooper, moved into the second spot.

Following them in this order: Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, James Stewart, Doris Day, Gregory Peck, Susan Hayward, Randolph Scott.

The Martin and Lewis triumph is a spectacular climax to a pair of flashy careers. Three years ago, the two were unknown to the general public, although making big money in night clubs. No film studio seemed eager to sign them, but producer Hal Wallis inked them to a contract. His gamble paid off handsomely.

Wallis broke them in with supporting roles in a couple of "My Friend Irma" pictures. But the first indication of their worth came when they did a independent film, "At War With the Army." Made for a paltry $335,000, it grossed a fantastic four million.

Hollywood gained a healthy new respect for M and L.

When the team was hitting the bigtime, I asked them for their explanation of their success.

"I think it boils down to one thing—people want to laugh," said Jerry, the skinny, crew-cut member of the team. He added that "Dean is more than a straight man; he also has a great sense of comedy."

Martin's answer was similar: "People want to laugh. And I'm working with the funniest man in the world—Jerry Lewis."

Their dizzy ascent to fame hasn't changed their friendship. Neither will brook any criticism of the other by an outside party. Their fellow workers have never seen any real friction between them.

"We'll never break up because we never argue," Jerry explains. "That sounds impossible, but it's true. I'm not saying that one of us has never gotten put out at the other one."

"But we have a system. Every time I start to bawl out Dean, he agrees with everything I say. I do the same when he bawls me out. It works perfectly."

Brodie Twins Remain Same

CHICAGO (AP) — No change was reported Friday in the condition of the Brodie Siamese twins.

The 15-month old boys have been in critical condition since they were separated in an operation on Dec. 17 at the University of Illinois hospital. The twins were born joined at the heads. Roger Lee has not yet regained consciousness since the operation and his condition has been described very precarious.

His brother, Rodney Dee, has been given the better chance to live. However, his condition is critical.

Mr. and Mrs. Royt Brodie, of Moline, Ill., parents of the twins, spent Christmas Day at their bedside in the Illinois Neuropsychiatric Hospital.

Famous Women To Visit OSC

OREGON STATE COLLEGE — Two of America's best known professional women—Margaret Bourk White, War correspondent and photographer, and Dr. Lillian Gilbreth, engineer and "Cheaper by the Dozen" author—will be at Oregon State College winter quarter for lectures and classroom consultations.

Miss Bourk-White recently returned to this country from an extended photo assignment in Korea for Life magazine. During World War II, she photographed ground fighting in Italy, U.S. air force action and Russian-German battles. Since the war, she has specialized in pictorial stories of American industries. She will appear on the campus January 28.

Dr. Gilbreth, mother of the "Cheaper by the Dozen" book and movie family, is recognized as one of the nation's leading industrial engineers. Time-and-motion studies are her specialty. Dr. Gilbreth will speak to engineering classes along with her appearance at a college convocation February 18.

Man Carves On HST Tub

WASHINGTON (AP)—Herman Perlman's secret, which won him a $500 U. S. bond when he disclosed it on a television network, is engraved in the White House—and on a bath tub.

But it may be that even President Truman, whose tub it is, didn't know about it until Perlman told the story last night on the CBS-TV program, "I've got a secret."

Perlman, who owns a local glass carving business, was hired to carve designs on the glass panels of five bath tubs when the White House was renovated.

He worked out appropriate designs: a bald eagle and an olive branch for the President, a striped shield and stars for Mrs. Truman, stars and arrows for the tub Margaret Truman uses.

Then, on the back side of a panel of the President's tub where it can't be seen because the panel is sealed against a wall, he carved the special message which Perlman says he "just thought up." It reads:

"In this tub bathes the man whose heart is always clean and serves his people truthfully."
