CRESCENT WINGED BOMBER. Here is the world's first crescent winged bomber, the Handley Page 80, which made its first test flight in England. The huge bomber has four jet engines which develop more power than 25 locomotives. Flight details have been withheld for security reasons but the makers claim that "no other bomber flies as fast, as far and as high with as great a bomb load." The bomber embodies a revolutionary design with the crescent, or scimitar, shaped wing.

ALBERT WILLIAM CANFIELD

Local Marine Hurt in Korea

Pfc Albert William Canfield, 20, who was wounded in action in Korea Dec. 3, now is in a hospital in Japan, according to a letter received from him by his mother, Mrs. L. M. Arasmith, Route 3 Box 223-A.

He probably will be in the hospital another two months. Pfc Canfield wrote that 14 shell fragments had been removed from the right side of his back, three from his right shoulder, three from his lower right arm, and a six-inch hunk of metal from his right leg.

He has served just over three years in the Marines, and is on his second tour of duty in the Far East. Canfield was stationed aboard the Navy's carrier Valley Forge when the Korean fighting broke out in 1950, and since then has transferred to the ground troops. He was in Korea from last March until wounded.

CONSTABLE TAGS OWN CAR - WINNIPEG, Canada - An elderly police constable while on his regular beat here recently tagged his own car. The car had been driven downtown and parked by his son.

House Raps Lewd Literature

WASHINGTON (AP) - A House committee declared Tuesday that "some of the most offensive infractions of the moral code" are contained in low-cost publications, including comics, for sale on newsstands all over the country.

It called for prompt congressional action and for help from an aroused public to stem an increasing flow of obscene material "whose principal appeal is to the salacious-minded" or to unsuspecting juveniles.

And it ranged segments of the publishing industry for not taking steps to clean up its standards and for being guided too much by "the profit." It said censorship "definitely is not a practicable or adequate answer."

The criticisms and comments came from a special house committee headed by Rep. Gathings (D-Ark.). They were contained in a report drafted for presentation to Congress later this week. The committee was created last summer to probe "pornographic materials."

It recommended: 1. Legislation to make it a federal offense to transport across state lines for sale or distribution articles or publications of "an obscene, lewd, lascivious, or filthy character." Existing law bans such shipments, only by common carriers, not by private carrier.

2. Legislation authorizing the postmaster general to impound mail addressed to a person or company trying to obtain money through the mails for obscene articles or matter. Existing law lets the postmaster general return such mail to the sender or permit a long delay before final action may be taken to keep the material out of the mail.

3. Steps by the publishing industry to halt borderline or objectionable material before the public becomes so aroused it demands "governmental action."

The committee expressed the hope that once the gravity of the problem is realized, "a militant public opposition to such materials" will result in action against producers or publishers of obscene matter.

porters Acheson may be summoned tomorrow. The State Department has categorically denied attempting to interfere with the grand jury.

Meanwhile, four Justice Department officials - Roy Cohn, Myles Lane, Charles Murray and William Foley - were called to give their version of the case.

The committee, which has been investigating the Justice Department for almost a year, yesterday heard from five jurors: Joseph P. Kelly, Joseph A. Cahill, Charles J. Harsanyi, Corinne L. Geist and Max M. Zimmerman.

They told about calling approximately 100 U. S. citizens employed by the U. N. and questioning them about their loyalty or Communist affiliations.

About half of the witnesses refused to answer their questions. The jurors reported, claiming the guarantee of the Fifth Amendment which says no one has to testify against himself in a criminal case.

The jury failed to indict anyone, the committee was told, but the jurors became "indignant" and, they testified, voted unanimously to report the conditions they found "so the U. S. public would be alerted out of its lethargy."

FILED - The presentation filed by the jury said "an overwhelmingly large group of disloyal U. N. staff" had infiltrated the U. N. staff. Since then, 18 have been fired as security risks.

Kelly, the jury foreman, said that Cohn, a special assistant U. S. attorney, and Lane, the regular U. S. attorney, co-operated with the jury's probe. But on Dec. 2, when the jury was preparing to make its report to the court, Kelly testified, an effort was made to block it. He said he was told by Gen. McGranery sought a delay.

Kelly said he was informed by Cohn that "Acheson didn't want the presentation made" because it recommended that a new jury be set up to continue the investigation of Red infiltration of the U. N.

Another juror, Zimmerman, said he was convinced "the State Department had a big stake in this investigation... It wanted to hush it up because we weren't very complimentary to the State Department."

Keating told newsmen he will recommend to Herbert Brownell Jr., who will be attorney general in the Eisenhower administration, that a new investigation be launched in New York.

"I am just as incensed as the jurors were over this situation," Keating said. Keating said the committee may call Acheson to the witness stand tomorrow.

Fort Klamath Birds Counted

FORT KLAMATH (Special)—On Sunday, Dec. 29th, the fifth annual Christmas count of Klamath birds was held throughout the county, sponsored by the Nature Society of the Klamath Region in cooperation with the National Audubon Society and the Fish and Wildlife Society.

Last year the bird survey for this area was made by two local ardent ornithologists, Mrs. Frank Strahan and Mrs. Bert Gray, both members of the National Audubon Society, but this season the two were assisted by a corps of volunteer workers, including Bert Gray, Dorla Dee and Lyle Brewer, Mrs. Roy McKim, Klamath Falls, and John E. Susac, whose home is at his place of employment, the Klamath State Fish Hatchery, located five miles south of Fort Klamath on Crooked Creek, who helped by enumerating species and total of birds found in the vicinity of the hatchery. Mrs. McKim had earlier finished her assigned task of counting birds from Klamath Falls north, and joined the local group after completing her section survey.

Territory covered by the Fort Klamath bird counters started at the Southern boundary of Crater Lake National Park to the North, embracing the Seven Mile Creek district to the west and the country as far south of Williamson River. Distance covered on the trip was 35 miles, 34 of which were made by car and the group hiking the other mile. Weather conditions encountered on the day's expedition included fog, sunshine and falling snow with no wind and a temperature of 20 above zero prevailing.

The combined total of time spent by the 7 member-member crew of bird counters was twenty-six and a half hours.

Their count for the day has been classified and enumerated as follows, aggregating 620 birds, of 43 different species, also two unidentified hawks: American magpie, 82; Oregon junco, 47; California quail, 24; Stellar Jay, 18; English sparrow, 19; brown creeper, 6; downy woodpecker, 2; mountain chickadee, 39; red-tailed hawk, 28; barn owl, 1; American rough leg hawk, 3; great gray owl, 2; Buteo hawk (unidentified) 6; American widgeon (commonly called Bald Pate), 13; kingfisher, 2; red-shafted flicker, 1; pygmy nuthatch, 30; bald eagle, 2; coot, 26; Clark's nutcracker, 8; bufflehead duck, 2; white-headed woodpecker, 1; song sparrow, 9; northern shrike, 1; spotted towhee, 1; redwinged black bird, 150; meadowlark, 9; Brewer blackbird, 70; mourning dove, 2; pied billed Grebe, 5; falcon, 1; (unidentified), night heron, 1; American golden eyed duck, 2; blue heron, 2; mallard duck, 10; Ferruginous rough leg hawk, 2; golden crowned kinglet, 2; house wren, 4; marsh wren, 8; red-breasted sap sucker, 1; black capped chickadee, 7; Virginia rail, 1; green winged teal, 15; pin tailed duck, 3; Gadwall duck, 2.

CAUTIOUS WINNER Dies Too Soon BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) - A year ago Harry A. Yool won $142,000 in the Irish Sweepstakes.

A cautious man, he decided he would not spend any of the money until he had settled all tax claims against it.

The taxes came to about 80 thousand dollars and Yool, a 60-year-old retired electrician, paid them off as they became due.

The last installment of 20 thousand dollars was due Monday.

Yool, who was in a hospital after an operation, died Monday.

Friends said they believed he had about $2 thousand dollars left, but he did not get to spend a cent of his sweepstakes winnings.

He is survived by his widow, Elizabeth; three sons, two daughters and four sisters.

ARCTIC TEST FOR RUBBER BIRMINGHAM, England (AP)—The British Dunlop Rubber Co. has produced a mock arctic in one of its test laboratories here in an effort to make a more efficient rubber for use in polar regions.

Both natural and synthetic rubbers, hardened at low temperatures. Below minus 56 degrees centigrade, current grades of rubber are virtually useless as shock-absorbers, the report said.

Keating told newsmen he will recommend to Herbert Brownell Jr., who will be attorney general in the Eisenhower administration, that a new investigation be launched in New York.

"I am just as incensed as the jurors were over this situation," Keating said. Keating said the committee may call Acheson to the witness stand tomorrow.
